Bonus Discontinuation Urged By Consultants

A seven-point plan for growers, a policy of higher prices, and the appointment of a Director of Commodity Boards to seek new markets and improve liasion between the growers, the Produce Board and the Department of Agriculture, are among proposals presently before the Tonga Produce Board.

The recommendations, which were considered at meetings of the Board last week were incorporated in two sets of proposals submitted to them by Representatives of P.A. Managements Consultants, the firm of International Management Consultants called by the Government of Tonga to look at the affairs of the Produce Board, the Copra Board and the Construction Company.

These proposals, presented within 6 weeks of the start of the investigations, have given the Board an early opportunity of discussing major changes in the organization of Agriculture in the Kingdom as well as the opportunity of further discussions with the consultants during their stay in Tonga.

THE FIRST SET of proposals, dealing with the overall planning and strategy of the Produce Board, will be the subject of further meetings of the Board in coming weeks because they involve recommendations that will reguire legislation to be passed.

The second set of proposals, dealing with the Clerical and Administrative procedures of the Board, was given approval in principle, and the Tongan Government is arranging for further consultancy assistance to ensure that implementation of these proposals takes place at the earliest possible date.

On overall planning and strategy, the major proposal was the appointment of a Director of Commodity Boards with the following responsibilities to

(a) direct and control the administrative duties of the Produce Board

(b) direct and control the activities of the Copra Board

(c) liaise with the Director of Agriculture on the technical aspects of his department and the expansion of production

(d) liaise with the Director of Agriculture to determine the availability of produce for overseas markets

(e) develop a marketing strategy and to liaise with the Director of Agriculture on a planting and replanting programme to achieve this

(f) act as the co-ordinator for all activities relating to output, quality, and markets

* * *

ALSO WITHIN the planning and strategy report was a 7-point plan for growers as a basis for restoring the confidence of both the Board and growers in each other. This plan recommended

- the introduction of a higher-price policy
- the allocation of funds from reserves to expand the Department of Agriculture's extension services in assisting growers to increase output and improve quality
- the establishment of a 3-year pricing policy for bananas as an incentive to expand and replant on a long-term basis
- the introduction of minimum guaranteed prices for consignment sales as a protection against falls in overseas market prices
- the implementation of tight procedures for credit and cash control should eliminate the opportunities for losses

NEWS — BRIEFS

SINGAPORE - - Singapore has announced that it has formally given notice terminating the British Overseas Airways Corporation's right to land on the island.

This sequel to a long-standing dispute, follows deadlocked talks in London this month.

Singapore had sought landing rights in London for the Malaysia-Singapore Airlines (MSA).

ALTAMONT, Illinois - - Edward Torbeck feeds beer to his flowers, which he says, thrive and bloom earlier with larger blossoms.

In fact, Mr. Torbeck thinks his beer-bred flowers are "the happiest plants in town."

And there must be something to his system. He has been growing flowers for most of his 70 years and some of his living designs have won rave notices and awards.

WELLINGTON - - A relaxation of immigration procedures for Samoans has been recommended by a parliamentary select committee.

The Chairman of the Committee, Mr. Holland, said many Samoans worked in New Zealand under a three-month tourist visa and then had to return to Samoa before being given a work permit.

He said that the Immigration Act should be administered to allow the granting of work permits in New Zealand to Samoans.

SUVA - - Fiji's first High Commissioner in London will be the Commissioner for Central Districts, Mr. Josua Rabukawaqa, and the High Commissioner in Canberra will be the Commissioner for Western Districts, Mr. R. W. Nair.

The appointments, made on the recommendation of the Chief Minister, Ratu Sir Kamisese Mara, were announced on Tuesday night.

It was announced also that the Fiji Government has been informed that the Australian Commissioner in Suva, Mr. R. N. Birch would become High Commissioner after Independence.

One of the three ships owned by Nauru Pacific Lines, the Enna G. would be run regularly between Australia, New Zealand Fiji, Tonga and Nauru, the Sydney Agents for the Nauruan Line has stated.

DISCONTINUATION OF BONUS URGED BY CONSULTANTS

due to bad debts and defalcations

- the regular disclosure, through the Chronicle and ZCO, of board policy and shipment information
- the creation of island advisory boards to act as a regular and more frequent means of consultation with growers; in such case the Director of Commodity Boards would receive and consider recommendations from each island advisory board.

As part of an all-the-year round higher price policy, the consultants also felt that consideration be given to discontinuing the existing growers' bonus because of the enormous amount of clerical work involved and the small average amount paid to each grower, and the considerable opportunity for fraudulent entry on records which is difficult to detect.

Also recommended in the planning and strategy report was the preparation of a 3-year marketing strategy for all products, and the introduction of packing and inspection procedures independent of the growers.

Mr. Basil Jeuda, the consultant resident in Tonga, emphasised that the proposals contained in the overall planning and strategy report were of such importance to Tonga that it was absolutely necessary for the Board to consider them in great detail before giving its approval to them. Major decisions were involved and these could not be reached quickly.

He was very pleased, however. that the Board had given approval in principle to the recommendations for revised clerical and administrative procedures. Much greater emphasis was to be placed on scientific management. Staff duties would be reorganised to ensure adequate delegation of authority and increased responsibility, with staff training over many months being provided by the consultants during the period of implementation. Procedures for the tighter control of cash, both in Nuku'alofa and in all the Board's branches in the islands. would be introduced and a rigid system of credit control would be applied. New methods to control the levels of stocks were being recommended based on the annual rate of usage.

All these new procedures should lead to an improvement in the all round efficiency of the Board, given the continued support and co-operation of the staff concerned. It is hoped that many will be able to benefit from the training they will receive in the coming months.

Similar reports are expected for the Copra Board towards the end of September and a review of the activities of the Construction Company will be completed in October.

N.Z. urged to ease currency restrictions

Tonga's Deputy Premier and Minister of Finance, The Hon. M. U. Tupouniua, has urged New Zealand to ease currency restrictions for New Zealanders visiting the Kingdom.

After talks with New Zealand Ministers, during last month's State Visit to that country, Hon. Tupouniua said: "All that is needed is for the New Zealand Reserve Bank to permit the repatriation of New Zealand Currrency from Tonga.

"At present, New Zealand is one of the few countries in the world which does not accept its own currency back from overseas".

A warm climate, a relaxed atmosphere and lower costs made Tonga, only 1100 miles from Auckland, suitable for a holiday, the Minister said. Using its currency for tourism in Tonga would prevent New Zealand losing hardearned overseas exchange and enable Tonga to redress its trade balance with New Zealand also.

INVESTMENT

While trying to develop tourism, Tonga was seeking overseas investment to establish small home industries also. "This would be the most effective form of overseas aid New Zealand could give to Pacific Islands", Hon. Tupouniua added.

Prince Charles To Watch Shark Fishing

SUVA - - Prince Charles will watch Kaba fishermen battle sharks and other big fish on his way back to Suva from Levuka on October 12.

A traditonail fish drive will be performed specially for the Prince, who will attend the independence celebrations, near the reef at Toberua or Leleuvia islands, 20 miles north-east of Suva.

The fish drive will not be the usual one in which a circle of Fijian fishermen with coconut fronds bound by vine gradually drive fish into a smaller and smaller area before they are caught.

The Kaba people will go into the water to tackle sharks and stingrays and spear them by hand.

Western Samoa Becomes a Member Of the Commonwealth

The independent State of Western Samoa has become a member of the Commonwealth.

The announcement was made last Friday, August 28, by the Commonwealth Secretary-General, after the completion of consultations with Heads of Commonwealth Governments, all of whom were favourable to Western Samoa becoming a member.

Western Samoa, formerly a United Nations Trusteeship Territory administered by New Zealand, has been independent since 1 January, 1962.

Inspite of Samoa's recent entry to the Commonwealth, Samoa has been treated in many respects as if it was a member of the Commonwealth in adcordance with an interim arrangement agreed upon by Commonwealth heads of Government.

Samoa's entry into the Commonwealth further demonstrates the impartiality of member Governments of the Commonwealth. This is of particular interest to Tonga who inspite of its size, people and economy was accepted to be a member of the Commonwealth.

YOUNGSTERS FOUND DEAD AFTER EXTENSIVE SEARCH

An almost week-long extensive search by Police and members of the public for a 15 and a 9-year-old brothers from Malapo missing while on a fishing trip last Saturday ended on Thursday.

The younger of the two boys was found drowned in the channel between His Majesty's country residence at Kauvai and Tatakamotonga on Tuesday morning.

The search was called off early on Wednesday afternoon when the elder brother was also found drowned at Mo'ungatapu.

Police reports say that the boys left by canoe at 1 p.m. on Saturday to join a fishing party in the Fanga'uta channel. Apparently the boys were caught by rough weather before finding the fishing party.

Instead of returning they proceeded to Mo'ungatapu island, in the channel, to seek shelter.

A Tatakamotonga resident, Paula Lauaki, who has a plantation at Mo'ungatapu, reported that he saw the brothers arriving at Mo'ungatapu. Mr. Lauaki last saw them heading for Kauvai on the opposite side of the channel from Malapo. This was the last sighting of the brothers before they were found drowned.

Invitation to P. M.

APIA - - Western Samoa's Prime Minister, Tupua Tamasese Lealofi, has accepted an invitation from the New Zealand Prime Minister, Sir Keith Holyoake, to visit New Zealand.

The visit is planned for September. No definite programme has been drawn up.

It will be mainly a familiarisation visit and the Samoan leader will spend most of his time with Sir Keith and getting to know ministers and other officials of the New Zealand Government.

Marketing Expert Visits Tonga

A representative of Fruit Distributors Ltd., a New Zealand-wide company, will arrive in today's scheduled flight from Suva to find out mone about Tonga's banana produce, and the reasons for Tonga's failure to meet demands in the past four months.

He is Mr. R. C. Walker, General Manager of Fruit Distributors Ltd., he will be accompanied by his wife and daughter. They will be returning to New Zealand via Fiji next Monday.

While in Tonga Mr. Walker will discuss with the Tonga Produce Board future schedules for banana exports to New Zealand.

MR. ADOLPH JOHANSON, Manager of the Tonga Produce Board, has disclosed that while the Taveuni is being repaired only one shipment will be made to New Zealand, by the Tofua, this month.

The Tofua is scheduled to arrive at Vava'u on 14th, Tongatapu on the 15th, and is expected to depart on the 16th of this month.

15 Tongans For Nauruan Ship

The Harbour Master, Captain Hill-Willis, is happy to announce that the 15 Tongans to work as stewards in the newly formed Nauruan Shipping Line have been chosen.

They are: August Hoeft, Paula Tāufa, Joe S. Fotu, Jack Helu, Kitione Vaioleti, Tukituku Fungalei, 'Eneasi Taukie Vei, Hausia Samisoni, Peni Tauali'i, Siale 'Uvea, Niu M. Fuka, Simote K. Tangulu, Samuela Fevāleaki, Sēmisi Tu'ivai and Setaleki Samate.

Captain Hill-Willis said that there was much difficulty in choosing them as all applicants were highly competent.

Partial Eclipse Causes Drop in Temperature

At 10.30 on Tuesday morning a partial eclipse of the sun was observed over Nuku-'alofa. During the revolution of the earth round the sun and the revolution of the moon round the earth, there are certain positions of these bodies in which the moon comes between the earth and the sun thus bringing about an eclipse.

Tuesday's phenomenon, lasting from approximately 10.30 to 12 noon, was caused by the moon floating between us and the sun, thus partly obliterating the sun's rays and forming a small cone of shadow towards earth.

Astronomers will go anywhere in the world and make elaborate preparations to observe a total eclipse of the sun and the next one is not due for a good many years.

A partial eclipse of the sun such as was seen on Tuesday is not of great scientific value in comparison to a total eclipse.

During the eclipse temperatures in Nuku'alofa appeared to drop, and the weather became noticeably cool, dull and showery immediately after.

* * *

MR. G. J. COLEMAN of the Science Department of Tonga High School said, "The moon takes approximately 28 days to orbit the earth travelling in a circle with a radius of approximately 240,000 miles. As this occurs there are occasions in which the moon moves between the earth and the sun.

"The effect seen by an observer on the earth, depends on his position relative to the point directly in line with the sun and moon. A person at that point would see the sun progressively obscured untill it was not visible and then as the moon's motion continued, the sun would be revealed once more. This is total eclipse.

"Observers at some distance away, would note that only part of the sun is obscured as the moon moves across. This is partial eclipse as was observed in Tonga on Tuesday."

"Astronomers, who know the precise paths of the moon and of the earth, relative to the sun, find it an easy matter to predict, by mathematical means, the occurrence of solar eclipses," Mr. Coleman went on to say.

"In any one year there may be no more than five eclipses of the sun for any one point on the earth's surface," he said. The occurrence of a total eclipse is quite rare. As an example, over a 75 year period from the year 1140 no total solar eclipses were visible from London."

It is reported that the next total eclipse of the sun to be seen in the British Isles will be 11 August, 1999. Eclipses of the sun should always be viewed through a sheet of well-smoked glass in case of damage to the eye.

SDA Membership in Pacific Increased

Seventh-day Adventists in Australia, New Zealand and the South Pacific Islands are preaching in 110 languages, the executive secretary, Pastor F. T. Maberly, of the Australasian Division of the church disclosed to delegates at the Quadrennial Session of the church at present being held at Avondale College, 80 miles north of Sydney, New South Wales.

Delegates are in attendance from Australia, New Zealand and the South Pacific Islands.

Adult church membership in Australasia stands at more than 90,000 as compared with 74,000 at the begining of the four year period. The church now has 51,000 adult chuch members in the South Pacific Islands.

He went on to say that the Church in Australia in the past four years had been enriched with the addition of 1,300 migrant families of European origin.

Pastor F. T. Maberly said that during the past four years, 370 Seventh-day Adventist missionaries left Australia and New Zealand to serve with the church's overseas missions. Most of these are serving in the Pacific Islands.

Methodist Seminar Held at Suva

A group of 50 Methodist women from Fiji, Samoa, Tonga, Australia and New Zealand gathered in Suva last weekend for a week-long seminar sponsored by the World Federation of Methodist Women.

The seminar, designed as a learning experience rather than a series of lectures, will concentrate on a Christian's responsibility in serving Christ in the home, the church and the community.

Sessions began on Monday at Dudley High School and end today.

The seminar is one of a series sponsored in the past four years in various areas around the world by the World Federation of Methodist Women.

This one, termed the Australasian seminar, has been organised through an Australian Committee headed by Mrs. D. Pederick, of Melbourne, area commission president – working with local committees headed by Mrs. M. Hatcher and Mrs. M. Banford.

Because the organisers wanted the meetings to be as relevant as possible to the South Pacific, it was decided to hold them in Fiji and Australian women have raised the money for the fares for their own delegates as well as for the delegates from Tonga and Samoa.

Included in the Australian delegation is one woman from the church in Papua-New Guinea and two part-aboriginal women.

According to the organisers, the number of official participants has been kept to a minimum so that "real discussion and learning" can take place.

However, several public gatherings have been planned for seminar members and women from the Suva area.

A welcome worship service open to all was held at the Centenary Church on Sunday night.

On Monday night, at the Dudley Church hall, the seminar session will be a public meeting, and a special service for women will be held next Thursday morning, September 3, at the Centenary Church.

An international night is set for next Thursday at the Mormon hall.

During this week, a group of 17 gave visual presentations, lead discussions and engaged in team teaching for the seminar delegates.

CENTENARY CELEBRATIONS OF MISSIONARY WORK

Feasts, dances, speeches and special services celebrating the one-hundredth anniversary of Anglican Missionary work in Polynesia started at Suva and then moved on to Levuka, Fiji, last Friday.

Representatives from all over the world, mostly from the Pacific, are at present gathering in Fiji to celebrate this great event.

The Suffragan Bishop of Nuku-'alofa and Assistant Bishop of the Diocese of Polynesia, The Rt. Rev. Fine T. Halapua, staff and a large delegation of the Anglican Church in Tonga left Tonga for Fiji last week to take part in the celebrations. The gathering at Levuka is markedly important as it is a commemoration of the beginning of Anglican Missionary work in Polynesia when Archdeacon William Floyd arrived at Levuka, then capital of Fiji, in 1870.

Despite frequent trips to other islands Levuka remained Archdeacon Floyd's headquarters until his death in 1909.

CHRONICLE

Last Friday a gift of a model electric train set was given to Tonga College by The British High Commission on behalf of Rovex Triang Limited of Great Britain. The export marketing manager for Rovex, Mr. Alan G. Button, after learning that many children in Tonga had never seen a real train, decided to donate a model of the famous "Flying Scotsman" to Tonga College. Mr. Button said that he had heard of the wonderful hospitality shown to the British Royal Family (during Their Royal Visit) by the people of Tonga and was happy, in some small way, to return the generosity of the Tongan people.

Closer Ties For BOAC And Fiji Airways

BOAC has appointed Fiji Airways as its general sales agents in the Solomon Islands, the New Hebrides, Nauru and the Gilbert and Ellice Islands.

At the same time Fiji Airways has appointed BOAC to be its general sales agents in the Continental U.S.A. (excluding Hawaii) and Canada.

Fiji Airways' appointement is in addition to the agency they already hold for BOAC in Eastern Fiji and Tonga. The agreements became effective on August 1.

"This will mean a still closer association between BOAC and the principal regional airline of the South Sea islands," BOAC's manager in Fiji, Charles Pollock said.

"For Fiji Airways it will mean an intensification of the promotion of their exotic routes throughout BOAC'S extensive network of North American offices," Mr. Pollock was happy to announce.

In giving these figures, the Fiji Bureau of Statistics also says that receipts from meals and accommodation in hotels rose by 43% in 1969 and receipts from bars and other sales of liquor rose by 14%.

Hotel and Motel plan for Cooks

RAROTONGA - - The Cook Islands Tourist Authority has announced its approval for the construction of an international-standard hotel and three hotel-motels at Rarotonga to cater for the planned tourist industry.

Three of the buildings will be constructed by New Zealand companies.

An Invercargill syndicate headed by Russell Wilson has been granted permission to begin construction of a 100-bed international standard hotel on an eight-acre Whitesane beach site.

ALL BLACKS LOSE CHANCE FOR RUGBY HISTORY

PORT ELIZABETH, (South Africa) - - The Springboks on Saturday soundly demonstrated its ability to hold its own in its homeground by decisively defeating the all-conquering All Blacks.

The final whistle blew with New Zealand trailing the South Africans by 11 points. South Africa had 14 points to NZ's 3.

No visiting team has yet beaten the Springboks in a four-match series at their home-ground and the New Zealanders had high hopes that this All Blacks team would have been the one to achieve this.

With test tallies standing at 2–1 in favour of South Africa, the best the New Zelanders can hope for is a 2-all draw.

Scores in Saturday's match were: South Africa - tries by Muller (two) and a conversion and two penalty goals by McCallum. New Zealand - penalty goal by Williams.

* * *

SO FAR THE All Blacks have played and defeated 18 provinces.

Remaining games to be played by the All Blacks on its present tour of South Africa is as follows:

September 12 – v. SOUTH AFRICA at Johannsburg.

In the second half NTC began catching up, but the final whistle went with Tonga still three points ahead.

The captains of both teams, 'Eliki leading Tonga and Solomoni leading the Fiji teachers, played well.

After the game, the Fiji teachers held a dance at Nasinu to farewell the Tonga group.

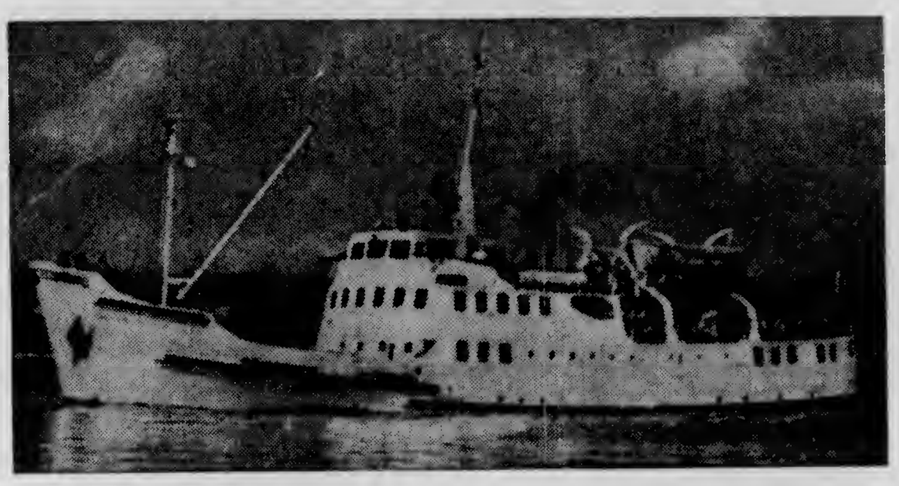
TONGA'S NEW PASSENGER SHIP

'QUEEN OF THE ISLES' For Inter Island Service



The beginning of 1971 will herald a new era of progress in the Kingdom's sea communications. Tongatapu, Ha'apai and Vava'u will be brought closer together by the introduction of a fast, regular twice weekly shipping service.

A voyage from Nuku'alofa to Pangai will take approximately 7 hours and from Pangai to Neiafu about 5 hours.

Government has just finalised negotiations for the purchase of a fast inter-island cargo/passenger vessel which is due to arrive in Tongan waters in December. The decision to acquire the ship was only taken after considerable research into the type of vessel best suited to Tonga's needs for improving internal sea ccommunications.

In mid -1968, at the request of the Government of Tonga, a United Nations Shipping Expert visited the Kingdom to make an economic survey of the country's merchant marine and to advise on how best it could be improved.

One of his main recommendations was that "a service around the year linking Vava'u, Ha'apai and Tongatapu must be developed to meet the present and future needs of trade, local passengers and tourism." He gave a brief description of the type of vessel proposed but left accurate details of its specifications until an economic survey had been carried out to determine the best vessel suitable for this purpose.

Acting on these recommendations, the Tonga Marine Department began collecting information on various ships which would be suitable for the proposed inter-island service.

A UNITED Nations Transport Economist visited the Kingdom last year with terms of reference which required him to assess the feasibility of the fast inter-island cargo/passenger vessel recommended by the Shipping Expert and to make recommendations on the acquisition of such a vessel.

The M.V. "Queen of the Isles" was known to be available for purchase at the time of the Expert's visit and it was on this vessel that he carried out his studies. His report favoured its acquisition by Government, not only for the service it could give to the island groups but also as an economic proposition.

Government arranged for the M.V. "Queen of the Isles" to be surveyed by the firm of Casebourne & Turner, Consulting Engineers, Naval Architects, Surveyors and Arbitrators of Liverpool, England, with a view to purchase.

The ship was built in Bristol, England in 1965 for the 42 mile open sea passage from the Isles of Scilly to Penzance on the south coast of England, and normally makes the trip in 2¾ hours, averaging 14 - 14½ knots.

The main aspect of the vessel's design has been the provision of comfortable seating accommodation for 300 short trip day passengers.

This is divided between an observation lounge at the bridge front with fitted upholstered settees, seating about 70 people, 2 smoke rooms with seating for 50 to 60 persons and two other rooms capable of taking 100 more passengers. The promenade deck aft is an open deck with seating for a further 70 to 80 persons. Passenger rooms are attractive and well furnished.

The vessel also carries 100 tons of cargo.

The Development Co-ordination Committee under its Chairman, H.R.H. Prince Tu'ipelehake, recommended to Cabinet that Government acquire the M.V. "Queen of the Isles", and that Captain C. H. Hill-Willis be appointed its representative in all negotiations and transactions connected with securing the vessel, its passage to Tonga, the purchase of necessary addition equipment and for the carrying out of certain renovations and alterations in Tonga.

Cabinet approved the recommendation, following which Captain Hill-Willis contacted a firm of British Shipbrokers which was act-

U.K. aids purchase

The United Kingdom Government has generously assisted in the purchase by the Government of Tonga of the vessel MV "Queen of the Isles" A considerable proportion of the costs involved is being met from U.K. Development Aid Funds.

Tonga owes a debt of gratitude to Mr. A. C. Reid, C.M.G., C.V.O., Her Britannic Majesty's Acting High Commissioner, for his assistance in this as well as in the many other development projects which have been financially assisted from British funds during the past five years.

Proposed schedules

Tonga will actually take possession of the "Queen of the Isles" in Penzance, which is in the south west corner of England, at the end of October.

A crew will be flown from Tonga to bring her out and it is hoped to have the ship here in Nuku'alofa by the middle of December.

The route out from England will be via the Azores, Panama Canal and Tahiti. The distances between these ports are:

Penzance to Azores	1208	miles
Azores to Panama	3291	"
Panama to Tahiti	4469	"
Tahiti to Nuku'alofa	1440	"
Total miles	10408

The estimated time for the voyage is 40 days at a speed of 11½ knots. This is her economical speed for such a long voyage; but when she goes into service between Nuku'alofa, Ha'apai and Vava'u the speed will be 14 knots. This means that the time for the voyage to Ha'apai will be seven hours and from Ha'apai to Vava'u five hours. The "Queen of the Isles" will be scheduled for the following service:

News Briefs

LONDON - - Most people think that headaches are commonly caused by defective eyesight, but they are wrong.

A study carried out by Dr. W. E. Walters, of the Medical Research Council's Epidemiology Unit in Cardiff, found that in the general population headaches are seldom caused by visual defects.

Dr. Walters says that in view of the close connection between the eye and the brain it is not surprising that an association is believed to exist.

ATLANTA, Georgia - - Promoters of the October 26 heavyweight boxing bout between Cassius Clay and Jerry Quarry will open ticket sales on Monday with a $90 price for a ringside seat.

Leroy Johnson, the brains behind House of Sports Inc., said the fight would be broadcast on closed circuit television and beamed to Europe via satellite.

He said the promoters and fighters had agreed to give $44,000 of the gate to fight the drug problem in Atlanta.

The fighters will begin training here on October 12.

Cook Islands to be host in 1972?

The 1972 South Pacific Conference is likely to be held in the Cook Islands.

The conference in Suva recommended that next year's conference in Noumea give favourable consideration to a Cook Islands invitation to be the host in 1972.

An invitation by Western Samoa had earlier been withdrawn by one of its delegates, Lofipo Ropati Kuresa, "to make things easier."

Mr. Oala Oala-Rarua, of Papua-New Guinea, was unanimously elected chairman of the Noumea conference and Dr. Joseph Williams, of the Cook Islands, deputy chairman.

The conference is automatically held in Noumea in alternate years.

S. P. Commission

Conference approved $1,430,000 To Combat Rats

SUVA - - The S.P.C. conference approved in principle a proposal for a five-year, $1,430,000 regional rat control project.

Rat damage to copra, cocoa and other crops in their home territories ranges from 10 to 33 per cent, delegates said.

The conference asked the South Pacific Commission to begin preliminary talks with the United Nations Development Programme and territorial governments.

It referred the plan for study by a planning committee which will draft a three-year work programme for the Commission.

The Senior Commissioner for France, Mr. M. H. Nettre, supported the plan, but said he was alarmed about the financial implications for the Commission.

It would mean about an extra $50,000 expenditure a year.

ANOTHER MAJOR project, the rhinoceros beetle research undertaking, was due to be completed soon. Mr. Nettre suggested that the rat project should be started after the beetle project.

"We should not try to commit ourselves too much at this time when we don't have the money available," he said.

The Senior Commissioner for New Zealand, Mr. C. Craw, said there had been the same hesitation before the beetle programme had been started. Such hesitation had almost ruined the Commission's chances of getting the money it had got from the UN Development Programme.

According to the preliminary proposals the UN would provide $723,600, the SPC $269,100 and island territories $438,000 for the rat project.

A research centre would be established in one of the territories taking part.

Scholarship award

An American foundation will offer a scholarship to a Pacific Islander at a leading California college, delegates to the South Pacific Conference in Suva have been told.

Mr. A. P. Hixon, a representative of the Allequash Foundation, said the island scholarship would be in science and would be to one of the Claremont colleges.

Mr. Hixon said a Yale scholarship in liberal arts would be offered also to a Ghanaian student.

Mr. Hixon said the foundation was anxious to help people in the South Pacific region.

It was having discussions with officials at the University of the South Pacific.

THE LEGISLATURE of Guam has decided to award two annual scholarships at the University of Guam to Pacific Islanders living in the South Pacific Commission area.

The scholarships were also announced at the South Pacific Conference last week.

NEW AIRCRAFT FOR W. SAMOA

HAMILTON - - A Fletcher aircraft, capable of carrying seven passengers, has been sold by a New Zealand firm to a Western Samoan aviation company.

The 40-horsepower aircraft was supplied for Samoan Aviation (Eliasia Flying School) Ltd. by the Hamilton firm of Airports (NZ) Ltd.

The Samoan company has an option to buy a second machine next year.

The aircraft will be used for a passenger service from Western Samoa's main island of Upolu to Savaii.

PEACE CORPS FROM AUSSIE?

SYDNEY - - A motion calling for the establishment of a full-scale Australian Peace Corps was passed at the annual New South Wales State convention of the Liberal Party.

The motion called for the establishment of the corps and the exemption of younger members from national service.

It said the Australian Federal Government should establish the corps to undertake voluntary programmes throughout Papua-New Guinea, the Pacific Islands and South-East Asia.

The motion came from the Sydney branch of the party and a report on the proposed Peace Corps will be sent to individual Federal ministers.

The report says an Australian Peace Corps would offer personal commitment to the development and progress of Australia's neighbouring states.

TONGA CONSTRUCTION MANAGER AND ACCOUNTANT RESIGN

The resignations of Mr. S. T. Nakao, as Manager, and Mr. R. A. Johansson, as Accountant, of the Tonga Construction Company were accepted at a meeting of the Tonga Copra Board held at the Premier's Office on Tuesday, 29th September.

At the same meeting, the Board approved the appointment of Mr. B. S. Jeuda, the resident management consultant, as Acting Manager to the Construction Company, and Mr. H. V. Barnard, the Government Development Officer, to assist with the accounts in the Construction Company and the Copra Board.

The Tonga Copra Board also considered the draft reports on the Construction Company prepared by P. A. Management Consultants Ltd., the firm of management consultants called in by the Government of Tonga to investigate the activities of the Commodity Boards and the Construction Company. The consultants' reports included the following observations :

- if adquate provision is made for stock obsolescence and a realistic estimate is made for bad debts, it is unlikely that T.C.C. will have traded at a profit over the last 5 years
- the true worth of the T.C.C. is considerably less than the net asset value shown in the Balance Sheet. A preliminary assessment places the value of current assets at some $193,000 less than that shown in the unaudited accounts for 1969
- when the costs of stock holding, sundry debtor financing, actual bad debts, and overheads are taken into account, the present retailing activities are not profitable
- management has not realistically faced the problem of old and excessive stocks. Profits in previous years have been inflated because of the failure to write down stocks to a realistic figure
- internal control on the original verification of work done on sub-contract appears to be very loose

The Consultants made the following recommendations to the Copra Board regarding the Construction Company :

- that the activities of the Construction Company be separated financially from those of Copra Board
- that a detailed investigation be undertaken to determine the feasibility of integration of some or all of the activities of the Construction Company with those of the Public Works Department
- that the present sub-contracting policy be investigated in depth and a decision on future policy made on the basis of alternative costs
- that stocks be written down on the basis of a recommended formula, and this be applied consistently from year to year
- that the Government Auditor be requested to commence the annual audit at the earliest possible opportunity and to make such investigations as he deems necessary into activities in previous years
- that a detailed review be undertaken of the existing retailing activities
- that, within any new organisation structure for construction linked with Government, the appointment of a Manager and of an Accountant be on a full-time basis
- that no person holding any position of authority within the Copra Board or Construction Company should continue to be employed where he has private financial interests which could be in conflict with the interests of the Board or Company.

The appointment of Mr. Jeuda as Acting Manager of the Construction Company will be of a temporary nature. Mr. Jeuda and and Mr. North will be preparing an urgent report, to be considered at another meeting of the Copra Board to be held to-day, outlining the immediate programme of consultant involvement in the day-to-day management and reorganisation of the Company.

PREGNANCY TESTS FOR W. SAMOAN TRAVELLERS

APIA - - All single females over the age of 18½ years who wish to travel to New Zealand must undergo pregnancy tests, and if cleared may be allowed to enter New Zealand.

Mr. Mansfied, the Deputy High Commissioner, said that this was not a new requirement at all. In the past he said, the medical officers were required to state whether a woman was pregnant or not. The officers simply looked at the women and declared according to what they saw.

Now there will be a scientific test and the hospital authorities have decided that it would cost an extra $2.

Mr. Mansfield said that the Labour Department in New Zealand have decided to enforce this requirement because of the significant number of women who have travelled to New Zealand and were found to have been pregnant when they arrived there.

When he was asked what the percentage was of the women who arrived in New Zealand in such a condition, Mr. Mansfield said that he did not have the figures but he said that it must have been a significant number otherwise the Labour Department would not have asked that these tests be carried out.

To Act As Consultant Adviser

Mr. Barry North, Senior Consultant with P.A. Management Consultants in Auckland, who is taking over the role of adviser from Mr. Vic Huddleston in the current investigation being carried out into the two commodity boards, arrived in the Kingdom on Wednesday.

Mr. Vic Huddleston has been appointed Area Manager for P.A. Management Consultants Limited in South East Asia and will be leaving New Zealand early this month to take up residence in Singapore.

Mr. North carried out the main field work in the investigation of the coconut industry carried out last year in Fiji for the Ministry of Natural Resources.

During his current visit he will be working with Mr. Basil Jeuda, resident consultant in Tonga and also have discussions with H.M. King Taufa'ahau Tupou IV, H.R.H. Prince Tu'ipelehake, senior Government officials and the Tonga Copra Board.

L. A. Closing Next Tuesday

The 1970 session of Tonga's Legislative Assembly will be officially closed next Tuesday morning, October 6 at 10.30 a.m. by His Majesty King Taufa'ahau Tupou IV.

The present session, which commenced on Thursday, June 11, apart from being a particularly busy one has been a session of historical significance; it being the first Parliament to be held since Tonga's Re-entry into the Comity of Nations and joining the Commonwealth of Nations.

According to the Clerk to the Legislative Assembly, S. P. Vaea, tickets for admittance to the closing ceremony will be issued on application to the Prime Minister's Office not later than 4.30 p.m. on Monday, October 5.

AUST. TV TALENT QUEST

TONGAN IN "SHOWCASE 70" FINAL

A Tongan now resident in Australia, is at present enjoying a measure of success on Australian Television.

He is Mr. Cliff Fua, who lives in Townsville, North Queensland, and he is now appearing in "Showcase 70" a national talent quest held annually on the Australian Television network. He is the son of Mr. Paul Fua of Nuku'alofa.

His pleasing baritone voice has carried him through the preliminary heats and semi-finals to the grand final to be held late in November.

The first prize-winner will be awarded a trip for two around the world plus a cash award of $1,000 — to encourage further study in his chosen field.

This item will be of special interest to Tongans now living in Australia and their friends as this section of the contest is decided by public vote. A placing in the contest would bring about very agreeable public relations and indeed, create another first for Tonga.

'AKAU'OLA,
Minister of Police.

EXPLANATORY NOTE TO PARAGRAPH I : Drivers when approaching an intersection at which a "Give Way" Traffic Sign has been erected and is facing the direction from which they are coming must obey the indication on the Sign. FIJI LIFT BAN ON TONGAN AGRI. IMPORTS

Fiji has shown great interest in commercial importation of Tongan products exhibited at its trade fair last week.

The Marketing Adviser, Mr. Ken Masters, has contacted the firm of C. Sullivan (Suva) Ltd. to find out more about this newly aquired market.

Confirmation has been received from the firm through radio-telephone yesterday stating that it is interested in importing garlic and strawberry in an F.O.B. price of 80 seniti per pound for garlic and 60 seniti for strawberry.

The company will be interested in importing other produce during this month.

According to Mr. Masters, "It should be remembered that for many years, the Fiji Agriculture Department restrictions relating to imports of produce from neighbouring countries have been extremely difficult to overcome."

"Through the generous acceptance by the Department of Agriculture in Fiji of Tongan produce to be exhibited at the recent trade fair, it is hoped that similar consideration will be given by the Fiji authority for imports of similar commodities on a commercial basis," he said.

* * *

ARRANGEMENTS have been made for a local producer to ship strawberries to Fiji by "Hifofua" tomorrow. This will be a trial shipment consisting of one tin, weighing approximately 50 lbs., to the firm of Tip Top Ice Cream Co. of Suva for the purpose of making ice cream puree.

It is hoped that from this trial shipment beneficial business will develop for all producers.

'Queen of the Isles'

ing as intermediary between Government and the owners of the vessel.

Mr. H. V. Barnard, Development Officer, who supplied the above summary of events leading up to the purchase of the "Queen of the Isles" stated that both he and Captain Hill-Willis had spent rather worrying days between the day on which Cabinet decided on purchase and the receipt of a cable confirming that the vessel was ours.

It was known that other parties were interested in it and further there was a distinct possibility that the owners would decide not to sell in view of the fact that the "Queen of the Isles" was having a successful season.

Its purchase by Government has fulfilled one of the main projects in the Kingdom's Development Plan, 1970–75, which is for the benefit of Tonga as a whole.

During the recent Agricultural Shows at Vava'u and Ha'apai, the Director of Agriculture, Mr. J. H. N. Pitman, in speeches at the opening ceremonies, emphasised the importance such a vessel would play in the marketing of agricultural produce. The vessel is a bargain and its purchase will complete the "road" from Nuku-'alofa to Pangai and Neiafu.

NOTICE

TO ALL DRIVERS, CYCLISTS AND PEDESTRIANS, TONGATAPU

The opening of the New Talamahu Market and Bus Station necessitates a reorganisation of the traffic flow in Nuku'alofa in order to avoid severe congestion on roads. All drivers are requested to study the following notes and are invited to assist by co-operating fully in the Scheme.

1. The main feature of the scheme lies in the redesignation of Fatafehi Rd. and Railway Rd. as MAJOR ROADS from their junctions with Salote and Mateialona Road. This means that any vehicle using these MAJOR ROADS between Salote and Mateialona Road has the right of way over any other vehicle approaching from it's right hand side. Sign posts have been and are being erected on all roads that intersect Fatafehi and Railway road to indicate that vehicles wishing to cross or turn into these MAJOR ROADS must stop and allow any vehicle already using the MAJOR ROADS to pass before themselves crossing or turning into the MAJOR ROAD.
2. A second feature of the scheme is that all passenger carrying buses and lorries will be restricted to these MAJOR ROADS for the purpose of arriving at and leaving from the new Talamahu Market. Passenger vehicles coming to the Talamahu Market will do so via Railway Road. Passenger vehicles leaving the Market for the country will do so via Fatafehi Road. These MAJOR ROADS will (for passenger buses and passenger lorries) become "One Way" roads.
3. Road users are reminded that after the commencement of this scheme the existing rule of the road requiring vehicles at intersections give way to other vehicles approaching from the right will not apply ON THESE MAJOR ROADS. Instead, road users will be required to obey the traffic signs erected at all intersections.
4. Pedestrians are invited to assist in the success of the scheme by keeping to the sides of roads when walking and exercising caution when crossing over. This will apply particularly to roads in the area of the new market.
5. This system will commence on Saturday, 3rd of October, 1970.

P. K. NAUFAHU,
Chief Superintendent of Police.

World Shocked By Death Of Arab Leader

CAIRO — The sudden death of Egypt's President Nasser sent shock waves through world capitals on Tuesday but brought unstinted tributes to his unchallenged stature as leader of the Arab world.

Vice-President Anwar El Sadat announced Nasser's death of a heart attack over radio and television, his voice breaking with emotion. The news left Egyptians stunned and disbelieving.

In Israel, all radio programmes were interrupted to announce the news. Crowds in Tel Aviv gathered around radios hardly able to believe it. In Cairo, people wept in the streets.

On Tuesday, messages poured in from world leaders.

A 40-day period of mourning was ordered throughout Syria.

The first broadcast by Cairo Radio was from King Hussein, Nasser's closest Arab ally in the Middle East conflict.

Then came a message from Soviet leaders who had supplied Nasser's regime with billions of dollars worth of military equipment.

The United States President, Mr. Nixon, on board the USS "Saratoga" in the Mediterranean, expressed the hope that in view of "this tragic loss" all nations - "particularly those in the Middle East" - would renew their efforts to calm passions and work for a lasting peace.

* * *

ARAB OBSERVERS said Nasser's death could have incalculable consequences for the future of the 100 million people of the Arab world.

No obvious successor to Nasser could hope to wield anything like the same influence for years to come, they said.

President Nasser had just accomplished another diplomatic success by bringing King Hussein and guerilla leader Yasser Arafat together to sign a peace pact in Cairo on Monday, ending the Jordan fighting.

Tall and powerfully built, he first came into the international limelight in the 1952 coup which deposed King Farouk and put General Mohammed Neguib into power.

In 1954 Nasser became Prime Minister and Military Governor of Egypt. He became President in 1956.

Born on January 15, 1918, he was a soldier on the battlefields in the Palestine war of 1948.

In the Suez conflict of 1956, which followed his nationalisation of the Suez Canal, and in the six-day war of June, 1967, he was the acknowledged leader not only of the United Arab Republic, but also of all the Arab armies involved.

EXPLORATION FOR OIL

By Alan Jackson

PART TWO

The Formation and Accumulation of Oil

In a sequence of sedimentary rocks, four factors are needed, before an accumulation of oil can be formed. These are a source rock, a reservoir rock, a sealing layer, and a trap in the subsurface.

Source Rocks – The Formation of Oil

The seas in which the sediments are deposited also support a rich and varied marine life. The remains of the larger animals (corals, shells, fish) are preserved in the sediments, and their skeletons known as fossils, can frequently be seen in sedimentary rocks. Less obvious are the remains of the microscopic animals such as the plankton, diatoms, algae and foraminifera, which inhabit the open seas in countless numbers. There is a constant rain of their remains, slowly sifting down to the sea bed, to become part of the sedimentary layers being deposited.

Where little sediment is being brought into the sea, certain types of clay or shale are developed which are extremely rich in these organic remains. In the course of time, as they are buried deeper, they are subjected to heat and pressure.

Complex chemical reactions, which even now are not fully understood, convert the organic remains into oil and gas.

Such a rock is known as a SOURCE ROCK. It is of interest to note that oil is never formed without some gas being also present, but gas can be formed without oil.

Reservoirs and Seals

Certain of the coarser sedimentary rocks, such as sandstones and limestones preserve space between the individual grains making up the rock. They are thus porous and can hold a certain amount of liquid or gas in these pore spaces, like water in a sponge. These types of rocks are the RESERVOIR ROCKS. Other types, commonly clay or shale, are highly compacted with little or no pore space, and form an essentially impervious layer. These are the SEALING ROCKS.

To be a good reservoir a rock must have two properties. It must be porous i.e. capable of holding fluid, and it must be permeable i.e. sufficient connection between the pore spaces to allow contained fluids to move through the rock mass.

The Migration and Accumulation of Oil and Gas

The same pressure on the source rock which helps to form the oil, also squeezes it out and concentrates it in the more porous, reservoir rocks.

These in the first instance are saturated with salt-water originally laid down with the sediments. The oil and gas particles, once in the reservoir rock commence to join together, and move through it. Oil and gas, being lighter, will rise through the water in the reservoir rock and, if it is tilted will also move upslope. This process is known as MIGRATION.

If the reservoir rock emerges at the surface, and if there is neither a seal or structure in the subsurface to trap the migrating oil and gas, it will eventually emerge at the surface in the form of a seepage and be lost.

Seepages

As seepages of oil were one of the factors which first drew attention to Tonga as a possible favourable area for exploration, it seems appropriate to discuss their implications a little more fully.

As mentioned above, a seepage means that oil is being formed in the underground, and is escaping at the surface.

A seepage is a valuable indication that some oil is present in the subsurface, and as such is an encouragement to explore, but it tells us nothing of either quantities which might have been formed by the source rocks or whether there might be accumulation in the underground layers. A seepage is thus not a guarantee that oil is present in commercial quantities.

There are many oil producing areas with no seepages, and conversely there are many areas with impressive seepages which have proved disappointing.

Traps

If subsurface conditions are present, which prevent migrating oil from escaping at the surface, accumulations are formed.

Under certain conditions, the oil and gas migrating through the reservoir rock come up against a barrier which prevents their further migration.

Such a barrier is known as a TRAP. There are many kinds of possible traps, and the accompanying diagrams show two of the most common types. The most usual is the anticlinal structure or upfold. The oil and gas migrate to the highest part of the reservoir (which is covered by a sealing layer) and are held there by surrounding water.

The other common type of trap shown is the fault trap. Others comprise combinations of fold and fault or are even due to variations in the porosity and permeability of the reservoir, or the lenticular development of a reservoir rock.

The size of the accumulation is dependent on the size of the trap, the thickness of the reservoir, and the amount of oil and gas which have migrated into it.

The definition of these potential traps, in a sequence of sedimentary rocks, is the objective of exploration surveys. When defined these possible traps are the locations at which the final step, exploration drilling, is carried out.

BIG SHIPMENT OF BANANAS ON "TOFUA"

The "Tofua" sailed from Nuku'alofa for Auckland yesterday morning with 9147 cases of bananas - - the biggest banana shipment since March this year.

It also double the number of cases exported last month, which was only 4,769. Total shipment for the year so far is 140,655 cases.

The original quota for yesterday's banana shipment was 4000 cases. An increase was applied for twice and was granted. But a third application was refused.

However, the Acting Minister of Agriculture the Hon. Laufilitonga Tuita made a personal appeal to the New Zealand Fruit Distributors in Wellington on Wednesday afternoon, with the result it was agreed that a further 2000 cases be shipped. This delayed the "Tofau's" departure by another two hours.

The interisland vessel "Kao" was unable to picked up 120 cases of bananas at Nomuka as her hold was filled with 709 cases from the other islands at Ha'apai. These were included in the Tofua shipment.

FLOATING SHOP FROM N.Z.

A New Zealand business man plans to operate a ship in the Pacific Islands as a permanent floating shop.

The ship would be supplied with goods from New Zealand by another ship.

The businessman, Mr W. G. Chester, said the basing of a trade ship in the Pacific Islands would mean reduced freight rates and distribution costs.

Goods would be sold to customers straight off the deck and the ship would have a bank and accommodation for the Customs officers of the territories visited.

Mr Chester said he was offering exporters freight rates which were 42½ per cent below the current rates if they booked space in the ships he would charter.

He hoped the first sailing would be in January, as soon as New Zealand exporters had booked up space.

Mr Chester said his company had received a favourable reaction to the scheme from Tonga, Fiji, Western Samoa, the New Hebrides and the Gilbert and Ellice Island Governments.

Little Girl Washed Overboard

A three-year-old Fua'amotu girl, Sisilia was drowned on Monday when she and several other passengers were washed overboard from the interisland vessel Fonualei, near the island of Tonumea in the Ha'apai group.

A Tonga Shipping Agency spokesman said the vessel, on a trip from Nuku'alofa to Pangai via Nomuka, was struck by heavy seas about 2 p.m. on Monday.

Many of the 21 passengers were washed overboard, but with the assistance of the crew they all managed to get back on board again, except Sisilia.

Mail bags were also swept into the sea, but were soon recovered by the crew, the spokesman said.

The vessel continued to Nomuka arriving at 5 p.m.

The body of the little girl was buried there on Tuesday morning.

'Queen of Isles' At Azores

The new inter-island vessel for Tonga, the "Queen of the Isles", has arrived at the Azores on her way from Britain. She is due at Nuku'alofa about the middle of next month.

MANAGEMENT CONSULTANT GOING HOME

Mr. Basil Jeuda, of P.A. Management Consultants, who has been investigating the activities of the Tonga Produce Board, the Tonga Copra Board, and the Tonga Construction Company, will leave the Kingdom next Monday after a stay of nearly five months.

In the recent weeks Mr Jeuda has visited all the main island groups in the Kingdom and has held meetings on the consultant's proposals with District and Town Officers, Department of Agriculture and boards' staffs.

A request has been made by the Tonga Government to the United Kingdom Government for further technical assistance in order to implement the consultants' recommendations for the re-organisation of the boards.

FIT FOR A KING

A car fit for a king. It is a six-door black Mercedes-Benz, type 600, Landaulet, built in West Germany for His Majesty, Taufa'ahau Tupou IV.

The car has been landed in Suva and is expected to arrive in Nuku'alofa on December 20 on the "Niuvakai".

The new Royal car is about 20ft long, over six-feet wide and about five-feet high. It has radio, air-conditioning, tinted windows and designed to carry seven to eight passengers. There are centre folding seats facing the direction of the driver.

The maximum speed the car can attain is 127 m.p.h.

The particular type of car was chosen because on State occasions it would enable the people to see their Majesties more easily as the car drive spast.

The plough has handles, is made of mould-board and drawn by two horses.

It was brought to Tonga freight free by Mr Callagher, the owner-skipper of the "Hamutana", an 88ft steel motor yacht which arrived in the Kingdom on December 3.

The "Hamutana" is on a voyage from New Zealand to Samoa. It has been sold to American-Samoan interests and will be used for an inter-island passenger service.

Americans Moving Nerve Gas To Johnston Island

American nerve gas stored on Okinawa will be moved shortly to Johnston Island, in the mid-Pacific, to comply with a Japanese Government request, says a Washington report.

A U. S. Defence Department spokesman said the first shipment of 150 tons of munitions filled with mustard gas would be shipped from Okinawa "in the near future."

Transfer of the remaining chemical weapons, including both highly toxic GB and VX nerve gas, would be delayed until additional storage facilities can be built on Johnston Island.

Although the new storage sites may not be finished until late next year or early 1972, all chemical munitions on Okinawa would be removed by the time the island reverts to Japanese control.

Johnston Island is a US possession about 700 miles southwest of Hawaii.

The only inhabitants of the island are about 900 military and civilian workers who maintain facilities capable of nuclear testing should the nuclear test ban treaty signed by the United States and other world powers be dissolved.

SURVEY OF FISHING

A consultant from the South Pacific Islands Fisheries Development Agency based at Noumea, is in the Kingdom making a survey of the availability of fish.

He is Dr. R. W. George now of Noumea but originally of Western Australia. Dr. George has made visits to New Caledonia, Fiji, W. Samoa and American Samoa for the same purpose.

While in these places, he makes a resource survey of species and the abundance of fish for export, catching method and management of existing fisheries.

Plant Material Requires An Import Certificate

No insect, plant, tree, cutting or any part of a plant, including seed, may be imported into Tonga without a certificate signed by the competent authority of the country of origin.

This is implemented under the Diseases of Plants Act (Cap 65) and Rhinoceros Beetle Act (Cap 66) more generally considered together as the Diseases of Plants (Consolidated) Regulations.

Without a certificate, plants or part of a plant may be seized and destroyed without compensation.

On the arrival of plant material in Tonga it is the responsibility of the consignee to notify the Department of Agriculture within 24 hours to facilitate inspection. Pending an inspection the plant material may not be moved from the place of arrival. If upon inspection the authorities consider that the material is diseased or infested, then it may be destroyed.

Even within Tonga it is not permitted to move plant material from island to island without inspection and necessary treatment.

Inspectors may without notice enter upon any land to carry out inspections (Cap 65, Section 7) at any reasonable time, if it is considered possible that the land may be carrying diseased plants (bunchy top of banana) and may order the destruction of the plants.

If the plants are not destroyed as instructed by the landholder or occupier and action has to be taken by the inspector, the costs of such action may be recovered from the occupier or landowner.

Failure to comply renders the offender liable to a fine of $40 (Section 14, Cap 65).

MUST DESTROY

Bunchy top virus disease of bananas has been gazetted as a notifiable disease, and owners of land are obliged to completely destroy diseased plants, both aerial growth and the underground portions. Kerosene should be used to initially kill the aphid which carries the disease, and then more kerosene on the chopped-up plant to help burn it.

The rhinoceros beetle regulations have been published under the Diseases of Plants (Consolidated) Regulations, and broadly speaking every one who occupies, leases, rents or owns land is responsible for ensuring that the land is kept free from rhinoceros beetle breeding sites, and is also responsible for the destruction of rhinoceros beetles at whatever stage in the life cycle they may be, eggs, larvae or adult.

Failure to comply with the regulations will not only permit the build up of the beetle population with the consequent increase in damage to the coconut palms, drop in production and loss of earning power, but will also render the offender liable to heavy fines and/or imprisonment.

The fines that may be imposed are equivalent to at least double the costs of carrying out eradication, if this has to be done by Department of Agriculture staff, and subsequent offences may result in a re-doubling of such fines.

FASTEST MEMORY?

The Russians believe 19-year-old Sasha K. may have the fastest memory in the world.

Soviet scientists and psychologists have been amazed by the lightning visual memory of Sasha, a student at a Moscow technical institute.

After studying a row of 42 figures for only 15 seconds, the youth repeated them all, faultlessly, one after the other.

Ten days later, scientists found that he could still remember them.

A Soviet psychologist, Professor Alexander Luria, who tested the boys is a world-renowned expert on human memory.

He said: "This young man's visual memory is phenomenal.

He sees an entire row of figures in his mental eye as though they were on a printed form in his head.

"He even records the differences in spacing between the numerals."

MAIL FOR HA'APAI BELIEVED UNDER SEA

A bag of registered mail containing three letters, three packets and two parcels destined for Ha'apai's Post Office at Pangai, is believed to have been lost at sea from the interisland vessel "Fonualei" last week.

The Chief Postmaster, Siua K. Holani said, "Eighty private letters addressed to Ha'apai residents were also lost. These letters were sealed inside the same mail bag."

The Chronicle last week reported that a little girl was drowned when passengers and mail were swept into the sea from the "Fonualei". The information was based on a telegram from the master of the vessel. However, it is now reported that the vessel reached Pangai without the mail.

Mr Holani said since he joined the Post Office more than 30 years ago, this was the first time he could recall mail being lost.

Registered mail lost was addressed to :

LETTERS: To Mrs Lesieli Fonua, Pangai from Hawaii, to Lisita K. Niu, Fakakakai from Fiji and to Miss Sofia Fisilau, Fakakakai from Papeete.

PACKETS: To Sitaleki Mausia, Hon. Governor, Ha'apai and Miss Lisita Niu, all from Tongatapu.

PARCELS: Two were addressed to Mr & Mrs Jim & Lynn Booth, 'Uiha from the United States of America.

A Birthday Treat

Hundreds of people were at the Vai-ko-Latai, Fua'amotu, yesterday to celebrate the 16th birthday of Prince Alaivahamama'o, second son of His Majesty and Queen Halaevalu Mata'aho.

The occasion was honoured by the presence of Their Majesties, Crown Prince Tupouto'a and the Deputy High Commissioner for Tonga, among Ministers of the Crown, and Nobles.

Before the feast, roast pigs were traditionally presented to the King, accompanied by ceremonial speeches.

This was followed by the prince being carried into the Vai-ko-Latai (as shown in the picture), a pool of water in the sea, believed to have been owned by one of his forefathers.

Guests were afterwards entertained to hundreds of "polas", all laden with sucking pigs, chicken, yam and other tropical delicacies.

THREE IN CRASH

Three teachers were involved in a road accident when the car they were travelling in skidded off the Hahake main road and hit a mango tree near Tofoa early last Saturday morning.

One of the two passengers, Mana Lātū (34), received several cuts to his face, arm and body. The driver, Paul Bloomfield and the other passenger, Talia-'uli Langi escaped unhurt.

Lātū was admitted to Vaiola Hospital and after receiving few stitches, was released.

FINED $100 FOR SPEEDING

A fine of $100 for speeding has been imposed on Stanley Brown jr. by Mr Justice Roberts in the Supreme Court.

He was sentenced to pay the fine within 30 days or in default, six months imprisonment.

Brown was tried for the manslaughter of Hala 'Opeti of Haveluloto.

The prosecution evidence showed that the deceased was staggering under the influence of liquor along Vuna Road at night when he was struck by a Holden station wagon driven by Brown.

The defence said Hala 'Opeti lurched into the front of a moving car. Although the accused had also been drinking, the amount he had consumed was not excessive and there was no evidence to show he was incapable of exercising proper control of the vehicle.

Nevertheless, the accused was found to have driven at a speed in excess of the statutory limit for Vuna Road.

The Judge said that in the circumstances, it was reasonable to accept as probable that the deceased, being drunk, did lurch into the accused's car, as alleged.

Brown was accordingly found not guilty of manslaughter, but guilty of an offence under Section 23 of the Motor Traffic Act.

NEXT WEEK AND THE FOLLOWING WEEK, THE CHRONICLE WILL BE PUBLISHED A DAY EARLIER, ON THURSDAY BECAUSE OF THE HOLIDAYS.

Tonga has a new fishing vessel, the "Ekiaki". The purchase has been confirmed with Japan and the ship has been completely overhauled and refitted.

The voyage from Japan will take about 17 days.

The price of $119,942 (£56,614) includes bait for six months and engine room and deck spares for two years.

The new vessel was formerly the Taiki Maru No. 11 and its new name, "Ekiaki", is the name of a seagull.

When fishing it will carry a crew of 20, have a steaming range of 35 days and a freezer hold capacity of 50 tons.

A crew of eight will bring the "Ekiaki" to Nuku'alofa. The Government fishing master, Zuzumu Kawakami, and the engineer Mosese Fakatou, are already in Japan, the master 'Etoni Tu'ifua and five other crew members left Tonga by air on Wednesday. They are: Tevita 'Aholele, AB; Tupou Fetu'u, AB; Ngalongalo 'Akau'ola, second engineer; 'Alipate Tufui, greaser; A. V. Sandys, cook.

The former Government fishing vessel, the "Pākeina" will remain in service with the Tonga Shipping Agency for general duties.

The "EKIAKI" still showing her old Japanese name, "TAIKI MARU NO. 11".

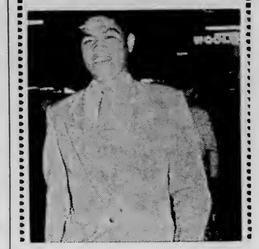
First



Marine Officer Sioeli Fotu (33) has attained the distinction of being the first Tongan to gain a foreign going master's certificate.

He has just passed his final examination in Auckland at the School of Navigation and arrived back in Tonga yesterday.

The marine superintendent, Captain Chris Hill-Willis said Fotu's success is a breakthrough in Tongan seamanship.

"It is tremendously encouraging to the whole of the Tongan fleet and people to know that the entire shipping service of the British Commonwealth is now open to one of their own officers as master, if he chooses to apply," he said.

Captain Hill-Willis said Fotu will shortly become the master of the "Niuvākai".

Fotu is the eldest son of the former master of the inter-island vessel "Fangailifuka" and his uncle Captain

SOUTH AFRICA GOT HIM DOWN

The Archbishop of Canterbury has denounced secret police methods in South Africa and said he suspected he had been spied on there himself.

"There were one or two occasions when I said to myself that my room might be bugged so I must be very careful," the 60-year-old spiritual head of the Anglican Church, Dr Michael Ramsey, told a news conference.

"The fact that I had a thought of that kind itself was very unpleasant. I have little doubt there were people who knew everywhere I went."

Dr Ramsey talked about "the things which really got me down" during his three-week visit to South Africa.

SALARIES FOR SPYING

He complained about "the penetration of the country by secret police and paid informers - - poor Africans drawing large salaries for spying on their fellows."

The Archbishop compared South Africa with Russia where "criticism of the Government was treated like treason."

"Africans were not really free to say what they thought because of the risk of being detained and interrogated," Dr Ramsey said.

The Archbishop warned that there must be considerable change if violence is to be avoided.

He said there were anti-apartheid elements in South Africa, particularly among students, but there was also overwhelming pressure to retain the status quo.

Christmas Postponed

Cuba's Christmas holiday season is to be postponed until next July, Prime Minister Fidel Castro told the nation in a radio and television speech.

The reason: To avoid any delay in harvesting the country's estimated seven million ton sugar cane crop.

JET AIRLINER FOR PACIFIC

Fiji Airways has chosen the British BAC111-475 airliner as the jet it wants for its South Pacific regional services.

The chairman of Fiji Airways, Captain G. U. Allan, said the 74-seat twin-jet should be in service by June, 1972.

The BAC 111 will cost $3,583,000. Initial spare parts will cost a further $1,400,000.

Ground support equipment and the training programme to convert pilots and engineers to jet skills will mean a total investment by Fiji Airways of about $5 million.

Captain Allan said the directors had agreed to issue a letter of intent to buy one of the jets from the British Aircraft Corporation.

The final decision to buy would be made by the governments which were shareholders in Fiji Airways. These include Tonga.

About 210 BAC 111 airliners are in service throughout the world.

The BAC 111 is specially designed for economical use on flights from 100 to 1000 miles.

The plane will operate from runways of 4,000 ft or less. It will cruise at 550 mph. at a height of 30,000 ft.

"It will cut flight times almost in half" the general manager of Fiji Airways, Captain A. J. R. Duffield, said.

Captain Allan said the BAC 111–475 was the jet aircraft which was best suited to Fiji Airways particular needs.

One outstanding feature was its freedom from mechnical faults.

Second choice had been an American aircraft, the Boeing 737.

However, compared with the BAC 111, the Boeing 737 was too big and more costly, and to operate it would have meant that higher fares would have to be charged.

According to traffic forecast, a second jet would be needed by 1974 or 1975, he added.

Captain Allan said the 111 would fly to Tonga and Samoa and to the New Hebrides, the Solomon Islands and Papua-New Guinea.

It would not be used on the service to the Gilbert and Ellice Islands until the Funafuti and Tarawa airstrips had been improved.

Replacement for Herons Wanted

Although Fiji Airways has picked on the 74-seat BAC–111 as the aircraft with which to enter the airline jet set, it is no nearer to finding a replacement for the Herons it used to begin overseas services 10 years ago.

The 15-seat Herons are now restricted to domestic use in Fiji and the Gilbert and Ellice Islands.

Fiji Airways wants a replacement which has between 35 and 50 seats.

"It is a size of aeroplane which manufacturers have yet to produce," Captain G. U. Allan, the chairman of the airline, said after he announced the decision on the BAC 111.

While there were a lot of aircraft with a 35 to 50-seat capacity, they were so expensive that to run them on Fiji's internal services would mean much higher fares.

No manufacturer had yet come up with an aircraft which would fit the domestic routes without pushing fares up, he said.

Captain Allan said Fiji Airways would not be adding to its fleet of three HS748s.

"Our traffic forecasts show that in 1974–1975 we will need another jet," he said.

Captain Allan said that neither Fiji's independence nor Fiji Airways' decision to buy a jet would make much difference to the airline.

University Regional Centres

The University of the South Pacific is to set up a network of regional centres, using its Carnegie Foundation grant of $US149,000.

Applications for positions as lecturer in charge of a centre closed in September. Five centres are to be established initially, probably in Tonga, Western Samoma, British Solomons, Bilbert and Ellice Islands and the Cook Islands.

The university centres will be the visible presence of the university in the countries in its region. They will act as a base for the UNDP secondary curriculm project, organise extension and in-service courses and support the university's correspondence courses.

They will also provide an information service, a base for travelling university staff and take on other functions as appropriate.

They will not, however, deal policy negotiations with governments in the university's region. These will continue to be dealt with by the vice-chancellor.

Warning

The manager of the Tonga Electric Power Board, Mr. J. Bernabe said fatal accidents were usually the consumer's fault.

"We have issued warnings to all the consumers in the past that any repairing to be done has to be reported to us and we are prepared to do it.

"But since the consumers are aware of the fact that they are going to pay the service of my staff, some are risking their life in doing repairs without our knowledge," he said.

An inspector from the power board was sent to make a thorough investigation of this week's accident so that a recurrence can be avoided.

THE BATTLE AGAINST TB GOES ON

The TB project in Tonga, operated by six local members from Vaiola Hospital and advisors from WHO, is combating tuberculosis in the kingdom.

The TB project in Tonga, operated by six local members from Vaiola Hospital and advisors from WHO, is combating tuberculosis in the kingdom.

The projects task, under the leadership of Dr Tili Puloka, is twofold: First, to find through mantoux testing, the persons who are non-infected. Second, to protect the non-infected against TB by BCG vaccination, and a case finding develops for each infected person.

Dr S. Endo, one of the three advisors from WHO, at present in the Kingdom to help with the project, said that BCG is a less costly technique, but it gives a high protection against tuberculosis.

Since the inception of the project in May last year, until February this year, a systematic campaign of mantoux testing and BCG vaccination, was carried out covering 90% of the population. The work now concentrates on the remaining 10% and newborn babies.

Dr Tili Puloka, stressing the need for newborn babies to get vacinated, said it has been proved that babies who die of tuberculosis are the ones who were not vaccinated.

"Although TB is a serious problem, all hospitals throughout the Kingdom, are now well equipped with modern drugs to combat the disease," said Dr Endo.

He added that an infected person could be cured within a short time if he is treated regularly.

Dr Endo confirmed that the number of persons in Tonga suffering from TB is small, but all the same, people must be given every protection against the disease.

Faulty Drill Causes Fasi Man's Death

A 33-year-old Fasi man, Tevī Molofaha, was electrocuted Tuesday night at Vainī when he touched a shorted electric drill.

Molofaha was repairing his truck at a Vainī garage and had the drill in his hand. He called out to someone in the garage to switch the power on and was knocked to the ground when it was.

Molofaha was rushed to Vaiola Hospital, but was pronounced dead on arrival.

Two years ago, a 10-year-old boy, Toni Pōmana, was electrocuted when he came into contact with a shorted power line at Vainī.

RUDE CHILDREN

Tongan children are usually well-mannered and polite, but this image was spoilt for some recent tourists.

They were taken to see the blowholes at Houma by local friends. Children persistently badgered the visitors to buy souvenirs and even asked for money. When the visitors refused and asked the children to stop pestering them, the children became rude.

They followed the visitors shouting at them, and then as the visitors left in a car, the children threw sticks and stones.

This surprised the visitors and their local hosts; they had not known this type of treatment before in the Friendly Isles.

The case could be an isolated one, but it gave this small group of tourists a bad impression.

Where Time Begins

Nuku'alofa, Thursday, December 31, 1970 — Vol. VII. No. 30 — 3 Seniti

PORT BUSIEST SINCE U.S. FLEET IN 1942

The port of Nuku'alofa had its busiest time over last week when four cruise ships with passengers totalling 5600, and four cargo vessels called.

The marine superintendent, Captain Chris Hill-Willis said: "This is the first time Nuku'alofa harbour has had so many vessels in port since the American fleet was here in 1942."

As the Tonga Shipping Agency were agents for "Niuvakai", "Aoniu", "Jean Phillippe" and "West Star", the staff was fully employed over the Christmas period, he added.

On Monday, P & O Orient Liner "Orsova" berthed at Queen Salote Wharf, the cruise liner "West Star" at Vuna Wharf, the "Hifofua" and "Pakeina" at Yellow Pier while "Sprucebank" and "Aoniu" were anchored in the stream.

Five small inter-island vessels were berthed at Faua boat harbour.

The "Niuvakai" arrived from Australia and Fiji's ports on December 24. She left for Apia early on Monday after unloading 1000 tons of cargo.

On Wednesday last week, the cruise liner "Fairstar" called at Nuku'alofa and left the same day, allowing the "Niuvakai" to discharge her cargo at Queen Salote Wharf.

The "Aoniu" and "Pakeina" arrived from Vava'u and berthed at Vuna Wharf and Yellow Pier while the "Jean Phillippe" anchored in the stream.

On Boxing Day, the P & O Orient Liner Arcadia berthed at Queen Salote Wharf and the copra ship "Sprucebank" also arrived to load copra.

The "Sprucebank" berthed at Queen Salote Wharf as the "Orsova" left on Monday afternoon. She loaded 600 tons of copra and 100 tons of dessicated coconut all night until 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon before leaving for Ha'apai and Vava'u at 6 p.m. on Tuesday to load further copra.

Part of the busy scene in the port of Nuku'alofa during the holidays. In the background is the "Orsova" at Queen Salote Wharf. In the foreground the "Fangailifuka" runs a shuttle service to ships in the stream.

SHOPS FEEL PINCH

The general decline in the economy of Tonga was felt by the shops during the Christmas period. Although they looked very busy they did not record the business of recent years.

A spokesman from E. M. Jones said this Christmas period was the worse they have had for the last three years.

Textiles appeared to hold first preference with customers. An exception was Lipoi Store where 60% of the total purchase came from the groceries. Textiles accounted for 30%.

Despite the setback in the economy, the shops were crowded. To cater for the extra demands of the public, Morris Hedstrom Ltd., did not close down at lunchtime on Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

New prices for the luxury goods are not yet in operation. It is expected the increase will be brought into effect early next year, when the new stock comes in.

Hope Springs Eternal

Exploration for oil in parts of the Kingdom raised speculation at Fo'ui last week end when the residents saw bubbles of what appeared to be oil oozing to the surface off the reef at 'Utukehe Beach, half-a-mile west of Monotapu Beach. But officials who visited the site this week say there is no trace of oil. Pictured are Hahano Vaha'i (extreme right) with several Fo'ui residents, inspecting the oil.

HOME FOR HOLIDAYS

The Minister of Finance, the Hon. Mahe 'Uli'uli Tupouniua is spending the holidays in Tonga with his family. He is back temporarily from Britain where he is studying under a year's fellowship provided by the Ministry of Overseas Development.

The Minister will accompanied the Tongan delegates to the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference in Singapore on January 12.

Sick Woman Take Ashore From "Orsova"

Mrs H. Drysdale, an 82-year-old passenger from the cruise liner 'Orsova', was admitted to Vaiola Hospital on Monday suffering from a bleeding peptic ulcer.

Director of Health, Dr S. Foliaki said that when the woman was brought to hospital, her blood content was very low. Donors were immediately called for.

Mrs Drysdale's condition was reported to be satisfactory at the time of going to press.

According to Mrs Drysdale's granddaughter, Mrs Bailey who was accompanying her on the trip and is at present staying temporarily at the Dateline Hotel, her grandmother was confirmed by her doctor shortly before they left Australia to be in the best of health.

However, Mrs Drysdale collapsed three times on board the "Orsova" during the voyage and she was then admitted to the ship's hospital.

Upon arrival in Tonga, Mrs Drysdale's condition proved critical and she had to be transferred to Vaiola.

Rude Children

Sir. — We read with interest the article "Rude Children" in the Chronicle, of December 18.

Not long ago, possibly two weeks, we went to the blowholes at Houma. We wanted to spend a quiet afternoon reading our books and watching and listening to the ocean on the reef of this wonderful island. We were also badgered by a group of 10, perhaps more, children who were very, very rude.

We asked them to go home, they refused. We closed the car windows and locked the doors thinking they would leave us alone. Yet they shouted and screamed. Some hung on the car windows in an attempt to read the books were trying to read.

We gave them money and asked them to go home; they refused. So in desperation we tried to back up the auto to leave. They stood in the way. We dared not move for fear of hurting one of them. All this time they continued their shouting and badgering.

We love the Tongan children and the adults, and we want them to love us, but we do not feel it is proper to be hounded and screamed at when we want (and need) a quiet afternoon near our home to read and relax by the ocean.

We will be living in Tonga for nearly three years, maybe more. We hope to know all our neighbours. But we are afraid we are getting off to a bad start, as this is the third time this has happened to us at the blow-holes and we came home quite upset each time.

May we suggest the children are asked not to spoil that beautiful place by making it a spot to be avoided!

We submit this suggestion with respect, and appreciate the wonderful way we have been treated by the general residents of this beautiful friendly country.

MR & MRS THERON R. FARNSWORTH.

Grateful

Dr. Louise E. Light (62), a physician from Los Angles, a passenger on the "West Star", was greatly impressed with the attention she received at Vaiola Hospital on Wednesday that she made a donation of $30.

The doctor fell while the ship was on its way to Tonga from Suva and was believed to have a fractured wrist.

She was taken to hospital by Tonga Shipping Agency, agents for the vessel, shortly after the "West Star" berthed.

Arrangements were immediately made for an X-ray and the wrist was set.

Back From Honeymoon

Major Kalaniuvalu Fotofili and his bride, Princess Mele Siu'ilikutapu returned to Tonga from their honeymoon in Hawaii, just before Christmas.

The couple who have been away for two months, were met at the airport by the Prime Minister, Prince Fatafehi Tu'ipelehake ,father of the bride.

Traditional lakalakas were performed at the airport by groups from some of Kalaniuvalu's estates.

While on their honeymoon, the couple took the opportunity to visit some of their friends in the U.S., including a few days with T.H.R.'s Princess Melenaite and Princess Taone, mother and younger sister of the bride who are on vacation with a friend in Hollywood.

The bride and bridegroom are making their home at Fongoloa, Major Kalaniuvalu's residence.

$50,000 DAMAGES CLAIM AGAINST GOVERNMENT

A claim for about $50,000 damages has been filed against the Tongan Government by Mr Fred Withana, a Ceylonese employed as the Estate Officer for the Coconut Replanting Scheme.

Last October, Mr Withana (52) was attacked and seriously wounded by an escaped prisoner while he was living at the Government quarters at His Majesty's plantation, Kauvai.

Mr Withana has just returned to the Kingdom from Auckland where he had to go to receive specialist medical treatment.

His contract with the Government expired on November 17 and is not being renewed, but he is staying here until he can receive a medical clearance to go back to Ceylon and his family.

According to the police at the time of the incident, Mr Withana was alone in his quarters when he heard someone knocking at the door about 10 o'clock on a Saturday night.

He went to the door, but when he did not get a satisfactory reply refused to open it. Mr Withana then put on the outside light and identified the caller as escaped prisoner Sione Tovi Vea (30), carrying a .22 rifle and a carving knife.

When Mr Withana again refused Vea entrance, police say he shot off the door lock but failed to get it open.

Vea then tried to break in through another door while Mr Withana opened the front door in an attempt to flee from his house.

Vea then attacked and beat Mr Withana with the butt of the rifle and wounded him with the carving knife.

Mr Withana drove his car 11 miles to Vaiola Hospital later that night with a fractured skull, badly damaged right eye and a knife wound on his arm.

When Mr Withana called at the Chronicle this week his eye was clouded and he said it was permanently damaged and an indentation was apparent on his forehead. He also said his head was still numb on one side.

While in hospital in Auckland, Mr Withana said he appreciated the visits he had had from Tongans living there.

He said his claim for damages had been filed in the Supreme Court by his lawyers, but the exact amounted had not yet been settled. It would be about $50,000, Mr Withana said.

Here to Help Tonga

Twenty-three Peace Corps Volunteers arrivd in Tonga on Tuesday, bringing the number of volunteers in the Kingdom to 61.

Before coming here, the volunteers spent 12 weeks at Molokai, Hawaii, receiving lessons in Tongan language, culture and technical training.

The Director of the U.S. Peace Corps in Tonga, Mr Elmer Skoda, said the new group were all university graduates and would be in Tonga for about two years.

The Hon. Ve'ehala, one of the Tongans who trained the volunteers at Molokai, also arrived with them on the same plane.

The volunteers are :

Kathy Ayres, Ed Carlson, Gerald and Connie Eagleson, Larry Lien, Pennie Moblo, James Pelegano, Roger Ptolemy, Dean Roemmich, Fred Taus, Roger and Kennon Women, Ralph Cioffi, Carla Childs, Richard Crispin, George Fenigsohn, Donna Gerstle, Pete Kistler, Ann Losoff, Carla and Miles Mason, Dan and Sandy Olog.

FREIGHT RATE INCREASE

Freight rates from Australia will increase by 3% from February 1, the Marine Superintendent, Captain Chris Hill-Willis advises.

This was "regretably unavoidable", he said because of a recent Australian Arbitration Court decision raising wages by 6%. Stevedores' rates have consequently been raised to 60 cents a ton.

The effect of the increase in Tonga will amount to about 2 cents on a bag of flour.

STRIKE STOPS MAIL TO BRITAIN

Cabled advice has been received from the Postmaster-General in London, that all Post Office workers throughout the United Kingdom began a strike, of indefinite period, on Wednesday, January 20. All domestic and international services have been suspended.

The public is advised that the delivery of mail already en route to the United Kingdom may be delayed.

At the request of the Postmaster-General, London, there will be no further despatch of either surface or air mail from Tonga to the United Kingdom until further notice.

This action is regretted, but is necessary to avoid a large build-up of mail in Post Offices in England, says the Acting Controller of Post Office, Dr S. Tapa.

DOCTOR HOME WITH MEDICAL GIFTS FROM AUSTRALIA

A Tongan doctor, who has spent a year doing postgraduate work at Royal Prince Alfred Hospital in Sydney, flew home this week with an Australian gift of medical supplies and equipment for the people of Tonga.

He is Dr Viliami Tufui, (53) of Nuku'alofa, one of 26 Tongan doctors trained at the Fiji School of Medicine, Suva, under Tongan Government scholarships.

The Australian gift he brought to Tonga comprises three electro-cardiograph (ECG) machines, X-ray machines, dental equipment and medical supplies.

The ECG machines, used to analyse and diagnose heart conditions, are the first to be given to Tonga. One will be supplied to each of Tonga's three hospitals.

Dr Tufui used the machines for the first time at Royal Prince Alfred Hospital as part of his post-graduate studies in clinical medicine and general surgery.

Two of his colleagues at the hospital were Dr Peter Harvey and Dr Fred Niesche. When they were told by Dr Tufui that Tonga's hospitals were not equipped with ECG machines, they persuaded the board of Royal Prince Alfred to donate two.

The third ECG machine and other gifts of medical equipment and supplies were donated by the Rotary Clubs of Bathurst, Orange and Cowra - - country towns in the Australian State of New South Wales.

ROTARY ADDRESS

The money for these items was raised after Bathurst physician Dr Arthur Pepper arranged for Dr Tufui to address a local Rotary Club dinner on the medical problems of Tonga.

Dr Pepper is planning to visit Tonga in March to demonstrate anaesthetics and ECG procedures to Dr Tufui's colleagues. During the visit he will stay with Dr Tufui.

Dr Tufui went to Australia in January 1970 under a United Nations World Health Organisations scholarship.

He graduated from the Fiji School of Medicine in 1940, and has been a Tongan Government Medical officer for 30 years.

Dr Tufui and his wife Fane, who joined him in Sydney last August, have four children and three grandchildren.

Two of their daughters live in London: one, Anna (19) works as a nurse in Willesden General Hospital; the other, Mrs Saane Tupou, is the wife of the secretary to the Tongan Commissioner in London.

A third daughter, Mrs Wailangilala Finaulangi, works for Tonga Copra Board in Nuku-'alofa, and a son Albert, aged (21) is a marine engineer working in Japan.

Dr. Tufui reads an electro-cardiograph on a patient at Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, Sydney, as the machine is adjusted by cardiographer Miss Gail McCredie.

'MUST' FILM FOR ALL TONGANS

A film every Tongan should see screens tonight at Hauhau-'o-Tā-ufa'ahau Theatre.

"Our Voice Shall Be Our Own" is the official documentary of the celebrations in June last year of the re-entry of the Kingdom into the Comity of Nations and joining the Commonwealth.

"Our Voice Shall Be Our Own" is a colour film lasting an hour and a quarter. It will have three showings at Hauhau-o-Tā-ufa'ahau, tonight, Friday, February 5 and Tuesday, February 16.

On the same programme as the documentary is an exciting Western, "Duel at Diablo", starring James Garner and Sidney Poitier.

Part of the proceeds from this double feature programme may be used by the Government towards assisting sports organisations in Tonga.

Correction

The story in last week's Chronicle about the newborn baby's body being found on top of one of the shelters at Mala'e Pangai has proved to be incorrect.

It was published in good faith on information that was believed to be correct, but the source was found to be misinformed.

A parcel of meat wrapped in newspapers gave rise to the original rumour.

The Chronicle apologises to prison warder Saia Fifita, whose name was quoted in the story, for any embarrassment he may have been caused.

Commonwealth Conference

DISCUSSION ON A-BOMBS AND GAS WANTED

Island leaders hope the Commonwealth conference will discuss French Pacific A-bomb tests and the transfer of poison gas from Okinawa to Johnston Island, says Fiji Times Chief Reporter Matt Wilson at the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference in Singapore.

He says the three South Pacific territories, Tonga, Fiji and Western Samoa, plan to bring these issues up jointly.

An agenda item relating to the South-West Pacific will probably be discussed when the conference considers the world political situation.

The islands delegations aim to raise the A-test and poison gas questions under this item.

They consider the two topics as special problems for Pacific territories.

They will want to know whether the bigger Commonwealth powers can help persuade the French to stop the tests.

As one conference source put it: "The Pacific territories want to know whether their Commonwealth colleagues can help them."

What concerns the three delegations about the poison gas transfer is that the United States is moving the gas because it is considered unsafe for the people of Okinawa.

If it was a danger there could it not be a danger also to Pacific Islanders?

The three delegations also want to place on record their faith in the Commonwealth and their hope that it will remain a strong organisation.

The islanders also feel that the Commonwealth has much to offer in the way of technical and economic co-operation between countries.

Although they favour a joint approach as a "Pacific Islands bloc" the islanders do not want the conference to think they are working from a joint brief.

The Tonga and Fiji delegations have both said they would not support any walk-out - - now appearing less and less likely - - over the South African arms row.

SUPPORT FOR PACIFIC ON TESTING

The Prime Minister of New Zealand, Sir Keith Holyoake, has pledged his support to the three Pacific Island delegations at the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference in Singapore in their plan to bring the French Pacific A-bomb tests up for discussion.

But Sir Keith would not commit himself on the question of the transfer of poison gas from Okinawa to Johnston Island in the mid-Pacific.

Sir Keith said he had registered protests with the French in the past when they had carried out atom tests.

"I have also protested on behalf of Tonga, Fiji, Western Samoa and the Cook Islands," he said.

CRASHED THROUGH WALL

One of the seven Red and White Taxis owned by 'Uliti Uata (pictured) was totally damaged last week when it skidded off the Hahake road, crashed through a brick wall, overturned and came to rest on its side at Mu'a.

The driver, Tomasi Pati (28) of 'Utui, Vava'u, was taken to Vaiola Hospital. He broke his collarbone and received minor bruises.

There was no passenger in the taxi.

The police are investigating the cause of the accident.

Outsiders Warned: "Don't Try To Drive Wedge"

The Commonwealth Secretary-General, Mr Arnold Smith, has warned here of "outsiders trying to drive a wedge between Britain and the Commonwealth Africans."

He was answering questions about Britain's proposed resumption of arms sales to South Africa.

Mr Smith told a Press conference: "If you stop to think, it is quite clear that there are in the modern world those outside the Commonwealth who see real advantage to themselves in the prospect of driving a wedge between Britain and the Africans."

In the judgment of most Commonwealth heads of government, this would benefit neither Britain nor the Africans.

"I hope neither side will allow itself to be used to facilitate the driving of such a wedge," Mr Smith added.

"I have confidence in the wisdom and statesmanship of the leaders who will be meeting.

"It would be a monumental failure in wisdom and statesmanship to play into the hands of the outsiders to whom I alluded".

He declined to indentify any country by name, but told a questioner, who asked whether South Africa was among the outsiders:

"That would be, I should have thought, a reasonable guess on your part."

The Soviet Union and Communist China were other conntries mentioned by reporters.

Mr Smith said the arms issue would be discussed frankly and thoroughly.

It will be one of the conference's biggest topics. Some African nations have indicated that they might walk out as a protest against Britain's intentions.

Mr Smith, however, said he was "cautiously optimistic" about the meeting.

"In my judgment it can prove to be a very valuable and constructive one," he said.

There was a strong desire on the part of heads of government to use the meeting to strengthen the Commonwealth and not to weaken it.

The Commonwealth was not a grouping based on sentiment. It was based on a vision of the practical value it could have for its members.

He welcomed Tonga, Fiji and Samoa into the Commonwealth, and said that, although they were relatively small countries from "a different part of the world" they would add to the perspective of the representative nature of the association.

"Their membership is a source of enrichment and is very welcome to the older members," Mr Smith said.

Memorable Visit To Port - O - Refuge

TEVITA TAPUELUELU
REPORTS FROM VAVA'U.

During her visit to Vava'u last week, H.R.H. Princess Pilolevu paid a visit to the site of the new hotel and to the beach of the Port-o-Refuge where everything was in tip-top beauty.

They have erected an oval hut out of coconut trunks only, with a single post at the centre. H.R.H. was summoned to her seat, specially prepared for the occasion, and from there she watched the entertainment of various dancing groups.

The princess was so impressed with the oval hut she wanted to know who was the builder and I informed her that the builder was a Mr Lisee from the village of Leimatu'a.

Seeing that there was no indication nails being used for the construction, she further inquired how the different parts of the hut were inter-connected with one another.

Tuita, a chief's spokesman of Vava'u answered that the various parts of the hut were held together by the screwing of nail-like pieces of wood within the framework and the binding of kafa around the outside. She was also impressed with the exquisite air-conditioning therein, which was provided by an electric fan.

The princess's party enjoyed themselves on the white sand which was brought to the site from the southern isles ('Otumotulalo).

At nightfall, all the lights were put out and out came a young male dancer to the scene. He descended the surrounding terrace with a torch lighted at one end and performed a dance. All of a sudden both ends of the torch blazed shiningly and the deftly mythmical movements of his limbs and body continued. Next he was seen with two torches, one at each hand with both ends of each blazing shiningly. This was a very impressive sight indeed for H.R.H. to witness on this night at Port-o-Refuge.

The dancing continued and the royal party was given paramount reception. They enjoyed themselves dancing at "go-go" speed.

The beach is constructed in terraces and on the off-lying water were canoes paddling. After the reception the Princess ordered that her party must retire and they were conveyed on canoes to the other bank of Neiafu.

TONGA RUGBY TEAM FOR SOUTH PACIFIC GAMES

A team of 20 rugby football players and one official was approved by the Tonga Rugby Football Union executive meeting last week to represent Tonga at the fourth South Pacific Games in Tahiti later this year.

The union's president, Mr Lupeti Finau, said the executive approved the team going on condition the "Queen of the Isles" is available to take the Tonga athletes to Tahiti.

It was also revealed at the meeting that in the rugby tour of Australia in 1973, Tonga has to meet the return fare between Tonga and Nadi. The Australian Rugby Football Union will bear the fares from Nadi/Australia/Nadi and other expenses incurred during the visit to Australia.

Mr Finau will visit to Sydney next month to finalise the arrangements and fixtures for the tour.

The tour of Wales in 1974 will include 23 players and two officials. However, the executive requested the president to contact the Wales Rugby Football Union and asked them to increase the number of officials from two to three so that a representative of His Majesty may go with the team.

The union has also requested the Welsh Union to arrange matches to be played in New York, Boston, Montreal, Vancouver, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Honolulu on the team's return to Tonga.

For the next three years, Tonga faces a tight schedules of international matches: 1971, Tonga to the S.P. Games; 1972, Fiji will tour Tonga; 1973, Tonga will tour Australia; 1974, Tonga will tour Wales.

Letters To The Editor

DEAR SIR . . .

Sunday Laws

Sir. — As a humble citizen of this peaceful and beloved land, I was very interested in "Perplexed's" and "Progressive Tonga's" letters to the Editor concerning our local Sunday laws.

It reminds me of a story I heard as a boy – where in a certain city in a certain country there lived a much respected sculptor. One day the sculptor decided to sculpture a statue of a man and have it placed in the city square for the people to see.

The statue was duly completed and placed in the city square. People from far and wide came to see and admire this masterpiece. Among the onlookers, however, was a youth who criticised the sculptor for the way the shoelaces in the shoes of the statue were placed. The sculptor then patiently explained to the youth his reasons for the shoelaces being so placed and so the youth was satisfied and was surprised at the wisdom of the sculptor.

The sculptor then asked the youth what occupation he was in and the youth replied that he was a tailor. The sculptor, then quietly and firmly told the youth "I'd say it would be better for you to keep to your cotton and needles for you'll bruise and cut your fingers playing around with hammers and chisels."

I am sure "Perplexed" and "Progressive Tongan" are well aware of the fact that the law makers of this beloved land, that is the Legislative Assembly and Privy Council, have the welfare and the interest of Tonga at heart when they pass these laws. If it is decided that visiting the beach, swimming and picnicking on Sunday at the beach would deter people from keeping the "Sunday sacred for ever" then such things should be prohibited.

And if anyone has a crisis of conscience about it, why do anything that your conscience doubts? Anyway, surely there is plenty of time for you and I to visit the beach on the other six week days of the week.

"Perplexed" and "Progressive Tonga" are worried about Tonga loosing income if we do not cater for tourists.

Who needs tourists anyway?

It is true we need the money. But do we need it to the extent to which we sacrifice our identity, as it happens in other places, our characteristics and our treasured laws just so as to please a millionaire tourist who wants a "Scotch on the rocks" not a "Coconut off the tree."

If our laws are to be changed then, what should it be changed into? Would then our national motto be changed into "Perplexed and Tonga are my heritage", and that the cross on our national flag is to have no meaning?

May I inform "Perplexed" and "Progressive Tongan" that what Tonga needs at present and the future is not money and tourists, but law abiding citizens and citizens who respect God, for then "these things shall be added unto you".

PATRIOT.

* * *

Sir. — I have begun to wonder why Tonga has put so much stress on only one of the Ten Commandments. Is it possible because it is the one that shows the most to the outside world?

One would have to turn a blind eye not to see the many many times the other nine commandments are broken in Tonga. Stealing is commonplace, murders are far from infrequent, covetness seems to be inbred into the Tongan culture, and adultery and fornication is evidenced by the number of illegitimate children, even among the highest-born families, and lastly, bearing false witness is a daily pastime.

I am sure there will be those who think I have been overly critical in my judgement, however I think the police are overly critical in harassing people whose only crime is relaxing on the beach with their families after church is over.

WONDERER.

MORE LETTERS ON THIS SUBJECT HAVE BEEN RECEIVED AND WILL BE PUBLISHED NEXT WEEK.

Tupou College Successes

Results have been received of Tupou High School students who set the Victoria Higher School Certificate (Matriculation) and the Victorian Leaving Certificate. Three qualified in the former and 35 in the latter.

Because of the shortage of space this week, full details will be published in next week's Chronicle.

Consumer Price Index Down

The All Groups Consumers' Price Index for the fourth quarter 1970 is 99.7 compared with 100.9 for the previous third quarter, says the Ministry of Finance's Statistician. This decrease of 1.2 points represents 1.1 per cent decrease in the average level of retail prices in Nuku'alofa between the fourth and third quarter of 1970.

The lower average level of retail prices in Nuku'alofa is due mainly to the sharp fall (of 11.3 per cent) in the prices of local foodstuffs which more than offset the general increases in the prices of imported goods during the fourth quarter of 1970. The decline in aggregate expenditure during fourth quarter 1970 relatively to the higher level of supply of local foodstuffs is responsible for the sharp drop in local prices.

The Consumers' Price Index, which is based on the July 1969 pattern of the comsumption of a Tongan family living in Nukualofa with weekly earnings of up to $ 24 is heavily biased towards food items. Almost two-third (63.4%) of the All Groups Index belongs to the food group of which approximately a third (17%) is local foodstuffs.

Sweet Sue

Meet "Miss Endeavour" from Western Australia. She is Sue Groucutt (19), secretary in a Perth legal office, and she was in the Kingdom this week on board the "Southern Cross" on what she describes as a "trip of a lifetime".

The cruise was part of he prize for winning the Western Australia "Miss Endeavour" quest and she was chosen out of 19 finalists.

The cruise was for two so Sue took her mother along. Other prizes included $500 spending money, a watch and a taperecorder.

The "Miss Endeavour" quest is not so much a beauty contest as a personality contest, Sue told the Chronicle. In selecting the winner the judges were looking for poise, charm and public-speaking ability, as well as a pleasing appearance.

Before qualifying as a contestant, each entrant had to raise $300.

A total of $16,000 was raised for the Flying Angel Mission to Seamen.

And for Sue it has all been a 'fabulous' experience. Although she lived in Malaya as a girl she had never been on a sea cruise before.

WATCH YOUR STEP!

Pictured are humps made across the driveway to the Dateline Hotel by the direction of the manager, Mr Karl Brosig.

He said: "Drivers at times drive madly through the driveway, so building the humps to slow them down was necessary."

When asked whether the humps will create a hazard for pedestrians he said: "Pedestrians will have to watch out for themselves. But a person tripping over the humps won't hurt himself as much as when a car runs into him."

He agreed the humps are higher than what he planned, and said they will be lowered as soon as possible.

Where Time Begins

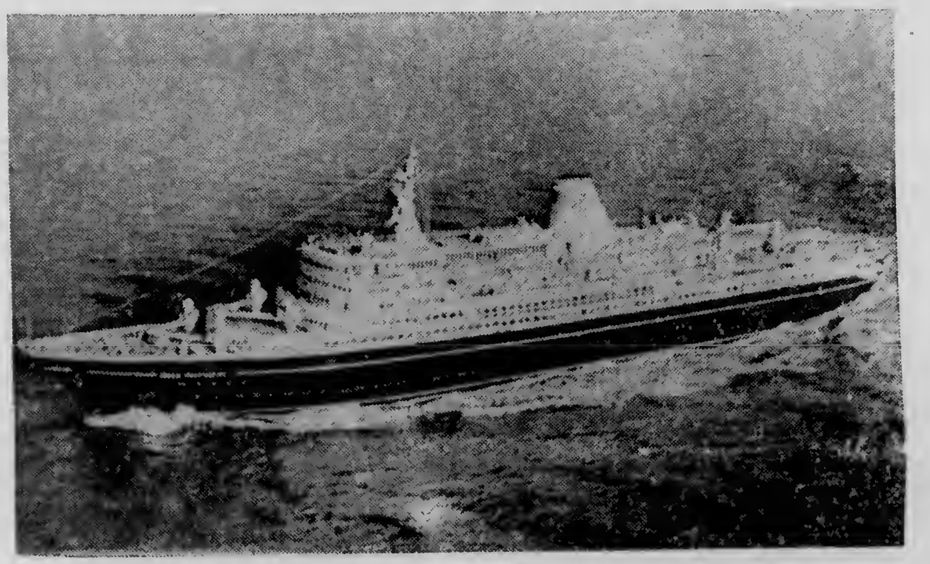
Nuku'alofa. Friday, January, 29 1971 — Vol. VII. No. 34 — 3 Seniti

Welcome Home!

Tonga's new inter-island passenger ship "Queen of the Isles" is due to arrive in Nuku'alofa this morning after its 10,400 miles voyage from England.

But it will not be known as the "Queen of the Isles" much longer. A new name has been chosen by His Majesty and will be conferred at a ceremony at Vuna Wharf on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

After the ceremony Their Majesties and the 100 invited guests will board the vessel and cruise around Nuku'alofa Harbour for an hour.



The Russian liner "Shota Rustaveli"

FIRST VISIT BY RUSSIAN CRUISE SHIP

For the first time a Russian liner has visited Tonga. The cruise ship "Shota Rustaveli" arrived on Monday evening and sailed again on Tuesday afternoon with 750 passengers on a holiday trip from Sydney, Suva, Nuku'alofa, Auckland and back to Sydney.

The "Shota Rustaveli" is a 2½ year-old vessel of 20,000 tons operated by the Black Sea Steamship Company of Odessa. It was built in East Germany. The crew is all Russian and the Captain is Alexandr Nazarenko.

For this cruise the ship was under charter to Trans Tours of New Zealand. From February 1 it will transfer to the Charter Travel Club and carry passengers from Australia and New Zealand to Britain.

One of the unusual features about the "Shota Rustaveli" is the number of women in the 392 crew — 200 are women. Their duties include servicing the cabins, waitressing and working in the kitchen.

The cruise passengers were high in their praise for the accommodation and service on the Russian vessel. All cabins have an outside window or porhole and the whole ship is airconditioned.

The meals were a balance between Russian and Australian-New Zealand, but they consisted of anything from six to nine courses.

For entertainment there was a Russian band that played American swing-style music, and two smaller groups from New Zealand. The New Zealand singer Liza Keil was also among the entertainers.

But the entertainment was not restricted to the professionals. the crew also presented spectacular concerts of singing and dancing.

Praise For Police

High praise this week for the Tonga Police from a visitor in the Russian cruise liner "Shota Rustaveli".

The Consul-General for Czechoslovakia in Sydney, Dr Jaromir Johanes, paid a courtesy call on the Acting Secretary of Government and said he was most impressed by the appearance and efficiency of the police.

What struck him particularly was the gentle but firm way the police handled the large crowd which greeted the ship at Queen Salote Wharf.

He observed members of the police during his tour of Tongatapu and this confirmed his first impression that they were a well-disciplined force.

Replacement

Mr Bill Wight has been named as Tongatapu and 'Eua representative to replace Sisi Hangale who is unable to travel with a group of nine banana growers to New Zealanga next month. (See Story, Page 5).

DISTINGUISHED TOURIST

The Australian Leader of the Opposition, Mr Gough Whitlam, paid a brief visit to the Kingdom this week as a tourist on the Russian cruise liner "Shota Rustaveli".

Mr Whitlam was accompanied by his wife and the Australian "shadow" Minister for Labour, Mr Clive Cameron.

Mr Whitlam was welcomed on the ship by Government representatives and entertained at a cocktail party at Langafonua. He later joined the 450 other tourists who were being entertained at Oholei Beach.

Just before the "Shota Rustaveli" sailed on Tuesday afternoon, Mr Whitlam was given an audience by His Majesty. The King and the political leader were together at law school in Australia.

WARNING OF GAP BETWEEN RICH, POOR

A warning about the possible dangers arising from the use of phrases such as "the haves and the have-nots," was given to the Commonwealth Conference by the leader of the Tonga delegation, the Prime Minister, Prince Tu'ipelehake, the chief reporter for the Fiji Times, Matt Wilson, reports from Singapore.

The Prince said in a speech: "The gap between the industrial and non-industrial countries is widening rather than narrowing. The gulf between the developed and the developing countries is wider than it should be.

"But we would urge caution and restraint in the use of expressions like 'rich and poor', 'haves and have-nots' because of their highly emotional connotation.

"Their indiscriminate use may well result in confusing rather than clarifying the basic factors underlying unequal economic development. Their indiscriminate use might well divide rather than unite us."

The Prime Minister said total world production had continued to rise spectacularly and with it the standard of living of the industrialised countries.

"We the primary producing countries, or predominantly agricultural countries, have not shared in this growth to the same extent," he said.

"And so we have grown relatively poorer, not, I repeat, not absolutely poorer."

Prince Tu'ipelehake expressed concern at a drop in aid from developed countries.

"We very much regret to note the trend towards a decline in the total flow of aid from the developed to the underdeveloped countries and the growing insistence on tied aid," he said.

"We know the recipients have not always made the best use of aid received and that there have been severe criticisms and allegations of abuse of aid funds.

We are not surprised therefore, if the donor countries may have had second thoughts.

"It remains true however, that a large number of countries, including my own, cannot hope to gain economic independence without a measure - - a large measure - - of external assistance.

"And without economic independence political independence has little meaning. The glories of independence day and the high spending that went with it are gone. We now face economic reality.

"We accept that the primary responsibility for their development rests with the developing countries themselves.

"We accept that the development of Tonga is the responsibility of Tonga. But the realities of economic life are harsh.

"We are convinced that our efforts to develop will need to be supplemented by assistance from the developing countries - - not only by way of aid but by aid and trade."

Earlier, the Prince said there was very little, perhaps nothing, a small country like Tonga could hope to do to influence the course of the world economic situation and trends.

"Our very size and geographical isolation in the South-West Pacific severely limits our participation in world economic affairs," he said.

"We should be careful, that in concentrating on the faults and weaknesses of others we may become blind to our own, so that we see only the racial discrimination in others but not our own restrictive trade practices, that we do not merely replace one form of arrogance with another, be it racial, political or economic.

"For of one thing I am sure: while there is enough in the world for all our needs there certainly is not enough for all our greed."

Good News For Fua Family

A surprise visitor for Mr and Mrs P. H. Fua last week brought them news of their son Cliff who is making a name for himself in entertainment in Australia.

Mr and Mrs McCaig of Newcastle who had become well-acquainted with Cliff and had followed his career, were passengers on the cruise ship Fairsky. They told Mr and Mrs Fua they thought Cliff had a wonderful future for his singing. He had appeared on top television shows in all the capital cities and major towns in Australia and had won many prizes. He was ranked fourth-best artist in one contest.

Cliff is expected to return to Tonga at the end of February for about six weeks.

Fastest Ever Round Trip

The "Niuvākai" was expected back in Nuku'alofa today after completing its fastest ever round trip to Australia, Fiji and Samoa in 24 days.

This was the vessel's first voyage under its new Tongan master, Sioeli Fotu.

On Its Way

The new fishing vessel "Ekiaki" left Tokyo on Monday and is expected to arrive in Nuku'alofa on February 14.

DEAR SIR . . .

Letters To The Editor

Sunday Laws

Sir. — I have been following with interest the articles and letters concerning police raids on Sunday bathers. It is very confusing to me about this since the man who stole, killed, and ate my American dog was convicted about 6 months ago, but did not pay his fine nor go to serve his term in prison.

I've inquired several times about this lack of justice, however no action seems to come about. Maybe the police find it easier to round up citizens relaxing and cooling off at the beach than to round up convicted felons.

In most civilized nations, which Tonga has elected to align herself, stealing and dog-eating are far worse than preforming duties on Sunday which attribute to peace and public welfare.

If Tonga is really interested in building up a tourist industry, they had better change their ideas of justice since most civilized people consider dog-eating half a step from cannibalism.

Sir. — I was rather amused by the enclosed lines by A. P. Herbert and found them somewhat applicable to the situation in Tonga today:

"Lets stop somebody from doing something!
Everybody does too much.
People seem to think they have a right to eat and drink,
Talk and walk and respirate and think,
Bicycle and bathe and such.
So lets have lots of little regulations,
Lets make laws and jobs for our relations,
There's too much kissing at the railway stations,
Lets find out what everyone is doing
And then stop everyone from doing it."

IRMA ROBERTS.

* * *

Dear Sir.—I am privileged to compliment you for printing interesting and useful letters in the Chronicle. I'm sure these letters bear educational values on every Tongan.

Although I'm very impressed with all the letters dealing with Sunday Laws, I'm apt to say that it seems to me that each of these writers is trying to exalt his own side and belief.

But I believe, the Law is justifiable and consistent with the cessation of Tonga to God, and as it is apparent to every one, the Tongan emblem bears the motto: "God and Tonga are mine Heritage".

I believe the misinterpretation of the Law is a direct outcome of one's own volition to uphold his own beliefs.

I would also convey my very deep concern about the "sacreds" which to my mind, should be kept as such and not otherwise. The following would suffice as good examples:

1. Taxis are forbidden to operate on Sunday yet taxi owners still use their taxis for their own purposes. The running of taxis should be thwarted altogether, even to the use of the owner, since the vehicle is licensed as a taxi.
2. I do not object to the prohibition of Sunday tradings. However, I'm very confused that while other trading is forbidden, the clubs are allowed to open and sell on Sunday. Does the Law specifically allow this.
3. I support the prohibition of Sunday sea-bathing but not the church ceremonies. I believe that the noise from the churches causes no disturbance on Sunday. It makes it sacred, as it should be.
4. With regard to visitors from overseas, I don't believe that our Sunday Laws should be amended to co-incide with their liking. A visitor should comply with the laws of the country he visits.

If we could exemplify to the visitors that we do virtually nothing else except going to church on Sunday then, I should think, they will be impressed with how we keep the Sunday sacred.

DISTURBED.

* * *

Dear Sir. — I am wondering again after reading "Patriot's" letter of last week. "Who needs tourists?" Isn't it the same body of law makers of this beloved land who voted to build a large hotel to accommodate tourists; to build a jet strip to make Tonga more accessible to tourists; to build a wharf that would be able to dock large tourist boats? Or, are "Patriot's" lawmakers the lawmakers of over a century ago and NOT the modern body?

Does "Patriot" really mean to imply that the people of this country should sit back and not take an active interest in the country's affairs? To be like dumb driven cattle without any voice in their own destinies?

WONDERER.

* * *

Dear Sir.—One gains the impression on reading the long list of things that are forbidden on a Sunday that the founders of this law were working under the impression that physical rest was of the essence of Christian worship.

This is a quite erroneous interpretation of Christianity. The essence of Christian worship is not rest but activity: the communal act of worship to the Trinity offered through Christ. Rest only enters insofar as it gives Christians the freedom they need to perform this public communal act of worship.

Different churches with different backgrounds have formulated their own laws to ensure this freedom for their people, and the whole matter of Sunday observance would be better left to them than be written into a constitution.

The idea that rest is something good in itself is an Old Testament idea arising out of the Law of Moses, a law which Christ himself kept, since He was a Jew, while at the same time being highly critical of the ridiculously strict interpretation of the Pharisees.

Paul constantly preached that those laws intended for the Jews as the chosen people of the Old Testament are abrogated by the freedom of the spirit in the New Testament.

We've been in New Testament times now for almost 2000 years. Surely it is time the law took cogniscence of the fact.

Gifts Handed Over

The first of the Australian gift medical equipment for the people of Tonga was received by the Director of Health, Dr Supileo Foliaki last week.

Two electro-cardiograph (ECG) machines were brought to Tonga by two doctors from Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, Sydney, Dr John Buttsworth and Dr Henry Brodaty, tourists on the cruiseship "Fairsky" which called at Nuku'alofa last week.

The ECG machines, used to analyse and diagnose heart conditions, are the first to be given to Tonga. They cost $500 each.

Each machine is inscribed: "Presented to the people of Tonga by the doctors of the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, Sydney, to mark the stay of Dr Viliami Tūfui at this hospital during 1970."

Another ECG machine, X-Ray machines dental equipment and medical supplies will follow.

Awaiting Reply By Government

The man who is claiming up to $50,000 from the Government as compensation for injuries when he was attacked by an escaped prisoner, has advised the Chronicle that he is witholding his intention to file a claim in the Supreme Court pending a satisfactory settlement.

Mr Fred Withana, a Ceylonese employed as the Estate officer for the Coconut Replanting Scheme, was seriously wounded last October and has just returned from receiving medical treatment in New Zealand

He said he had made his claim for compensation, but he was still awaiting a reply from the Government. Salary matters have also yet to be settled.

Mr Withana hopes a satisfactory settlement can be made without having to resort to the Court.

COMMEMORATIVE COIN AND STAMP ISSUE

On Saturday morning, January 30, 1971 the Post Office will place on sale throughout the Kingdom a memorial commemorative series of postage stamps marking the fifth anniversary of the death of Queen Salote Tupou III.

These commemoratives have been produced by appropriately blocking in metallic foils over the original memorial series.

Less than 10,000 complete series, postage, airmails and officials exist. The overblocking dies and all remaining basic stamps have been destroyed.

The stamps are illustrated actual size and shape. They are individually produced in boxes of 50.

Postage Commemoratives: 2 seniti, 3 seniti, 5 seniti, 15 seniti, 25 seniti and 50 seniti - - $1.00 face value.

Airmail Commemoratives: 9 seniti, 24 seniti, 29 seniti and 38 seniti - - $1.00 face value.

Official Airmail Commemoratives: 20 seniti, 30 seniti, 50 seniti and 2.00 pa'anga - - $3.00 face value.

The grand total face value of all 14 memorial commemoratives is $5.00 equivalent to US$5.70 or Australian $5.05 or sterling £2-7-6.

Also to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the death of Queen Salote, the Treasury has been authorised to place into free circulation on January 30 two memorial coins as legal tender.

Exactly 10,000 uncirculated pieces each of the 1 Pa'anga and 50 seniti regular coins of 1967 bearing the portrait of the late Queen have been countermarked by hand in Tonga "In Memoriam 1965 + 1970". Additionally the coins have been gilded in pure gold.

No additional quantities of these memorial coins can ever be made. At the completion of the authorised quantities the countermarking dies were destroyed. No proofs of any kind exist of these memorial coins.

The only source of distribution for the coinage and bank notes of the Kingdom of Tonga is the Treasury of Tonga.

The numismatic section of the Treasury in Nuku'alofa has been given a supply of the Queen Sālote memorial coins for sale to numismatists and others living abroad. These may be ordered by mail or cable.

To expedite delivery purchasers should use the official order form and all orders, regardless of the quantity must be accompanied by payment in full. No unpaid reservations can be accepted.

GROWERS GOING TO NZ TO SEE FOR THEMSELVES

A group of nine growers and officials will go to New Zealand next month on behalf of the Pacific Islands Producers' Association to see what happens to the bananas there.

The party includes three growers from Tonga, two growers and one official from Western Samoa, and two growers and an official from Fiji.

Tonga's representatives are Sisi Hangale (Tongatapu and 'Eua), Pousima Afeaki (Ha'apai) and Suli Takeifanga (Vava'u).

In New Zealand the group will see at first hand the condition of the Islands 'green' bananas on arrival and subsequent ripening and distribution processes up to the point of retail sale to the New Zealand consumer.

The party leaves on February 8 and returns on February 18.

TWO TROPHIES

The Fiji School of Medicine trophies for the best student and the sportswoman of the year 1970 were awarded to a Tongan assistant physiotherapist, Miss Talita Manu (21), of Vaini.

She is also one of the six Tongan students who received diplomas at the school graduation last month.

The others are : Taniela Palu, Soane 'Amato and Sione Moala who were trained as medical officers; Sitiveni Manoa as assistant health inspector and Sefeti Siale as assistant radiographer.

Miss Manu is not the first Tongan to receive this award. The Lawson Cup for the best all around graduate was awarded to 'Alisi Tatafu in 1967 and to Salesi Finau in 1968.

The Association of Assistant Medical Practitioners (AMPs) of Fiji trophy for the best all-around woman athlete was awarded to Miss 'Ofa Falevai in 1968 and Miss Manu is the second Tongan to have that honour.

Pictured is Miss Manu with the two trophies she won.

Conference Is Cancelled

Lack of Government support has forced the Fiji travel industry to drop its plan to have the annual conference of the Pacific Area Travel Association in the Dominion in two or three years time.

An application to host the conference which Fiji submitted at the PATA conference in Auckland last April, has been withdrawn.

A COUP FOR FIJI

Fiji, the newest member of the Commonwealth, has achieved a coup in London.

The registration number of the official High Commission car is FIJ I, but the letters and the number have been skilfully run together to appear as FIJI.

Fiji is thus the only diplomatic mission in London to have the name of the country on its car registration plate.

To obtain this number the High Commission needed the co-operation of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, the Ministry of Transport, the Ministry of Development in Northern Ireland and Down County Council.

The FIJ I series has been allocated to County Down, but they are not expected to be required there until 1974.

No Business Like Showbusiness

The first Tongan to have entertained in places like "Caesar's Palace", Las Vegas, the "Little Club" and "Miramar Hotel", Los Angeles, and to rub shoulders with show business personalities like Frank Sinatra, Trini Lopez, Jerry Lewis and Terry Moore was with his fiancee in Tonga for a short holiday recently.

He is 25-year-old Meteliko Tu'i-'asoa, eldest son of Mr and Mrs Tu'i'asoa of Ha'alalo, but now adopted by Miss Larraine Day and Michael Grilikhes, both famous showbusiness personalities of Beverley Hills, Hollywood.

His fiancee is blonde Miss Bernadette Jaegar of Los Angeles.

Meteliko is a former student of Tonga High, Liahona College, Church College, Hawaii, Pierce College, Los Angeles and Brigham Young University, Utah.

He majored in communication and fine arts at Brigham Young University.

In 1969 he began an apprenticeship with the Movie Director's Guild in Hollywood.

While serving his apprenticeship he was draughted to go to Vietnam. To avoid going to Vietnam, Meteliko started teaching at Junior High, Los Angeles.

During his teaching career, he signed a contract with Universal Records for five years, two of which remain to be completed.

Meteliko's first album will be released by Universal Records next month. In this album will be a song titled "'E 'I Tonga", which he wrote with the help of his fiancee.

Although he is heading in the right direction to make a name for himself in the entertaining business, he emphasises that he has a long way to go yet, and that when he does he will return to Tonga.

CONTEST TO RAISE FUNDS FOR PACIFIC GAMES TEAM

The Tonga Sports Association will hold a Miss Tonga contest this year, in an effort to raise funds to send a team of athletes to the South Pacific Games in August.

The association's secretary, Mr Jack Barnard said it was decided at a meeting last week that the contest will start in the last week of April with the final in June.

The winner will be selected on beauty and deportment alone and her prize will be a holiday trip to Fiji.

"There is also a possibility that Miss Tonga will accompany the Tonga's sports contingent to Tahiti for the Games," Mr Barnard said.

To make the contest fully representative of the Kingdom, sub-committees will be formed in Vava'u, Ha'apai, 'Eua and Tongatapu and finalists will be selected in each of these places to compete in the grand final in Nuku-'alofa early in June.

Final details of the contest will be announced later when a special committee is selected at the Association's meeting on April 16.

Boxing Champs Next Month

The 1971 Tongatapu Amatuer Boxing Championship will start early next month, the secretary of the association, Mr D. Wendt has announced.

This decision was made at a main committee, Tongatapu club delegates and representatives from Vava'u and 'Eua.

The meeting also approved that the national championship to be held in the third week of April when Tongatapu, Vava'u and 'Eua will vie for the title in each divisions.

The association hopes Ha'apai will enter in this championship in which a team of boxers will be selected to represent Tonga at the South Pacific Games in August.

Great Test Tonight For Pulu

Promising Kolonga heavyweight, Toni Pulu will have his greatest test tonight for a title bid this year, when he will meet No. 1 heavyweight contender Koli Vailea of Vava'u in a 10-round contest at Hauhau-'o-Taufa'ahau Theatre.

Many boxing fans rate him as the finest young heavyweight to have been seen in Tonga for many years. His fantastic footwork, natural evasive action and ability to hit hard, coupled with his concentration and accurate body punching, make him a dangerous opponent.

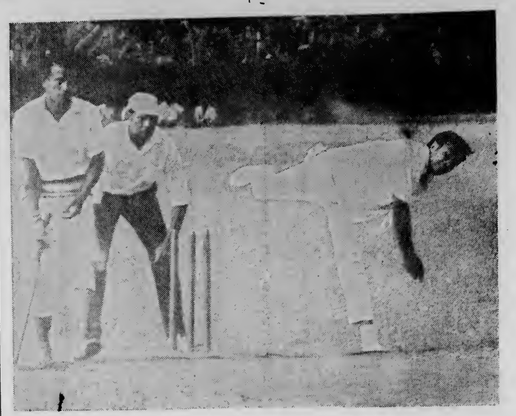
Koli Vailea as the heavyweight champion of Vava'u late last year, scored a technical knockout over the Ha'apai heavyweight champion, Mahe Pepa.

He is an experience boxer, having fought in Fiji, and Samoa.

The main bout will start at 5.30 tonight.

Admission will be 50 seniti for adults, 40 seniti for secondary school children and 30 seniti for primary school children.

Fast Ball



The fastest and best bowling performance of the current inter-district cricket competition came from Tevita Ului of 'Eua (pictured) who took nine wickets by bowling seven and having two Niuatoputapu players caught in the second innings last Saturday. 'Eua scoring 61 and 64 in their two innings beat Niuatoputapu, who scored 71 and 26 outright.

Other results of Saturday matches were: Hihifo scoring 133 and two for 35, beat Central 87 and 80 by eight wicket and Halaliku scoring 61 and 105, beat Hahake districts, 38 and 50 outright.

Final Round Of Soccer Tomorrow

Last week's soccer matches saw several entertaining games. In a fast match Veitongo No. 1 and Kolofo'ou No. 2 drew and in the main game the Kolomotu'a defence proved too good for Kolofo'ou No. 1 as they fought out a scoreless draw.

The two top teams in the women's division, Kolofo'ou and Ma'ufanga, also played out a scoreless draw in a very even match.

The final round of matches in the competition for the Lion Shield and Captain's Cup will be played tomorrow. In the A Division, two top teams, Kolofo'ou No. 1 and Ha'ateiho No. 1, meet in the main game.

Other promising games include Veitongo No. 1 and Funga 'Onetaka, Tonga Club and Ha'ateiho No. 2, and Toa Faka'amu and Ngele'ia No. 1.

In the women's division, four top teams clash with Mu'a No. 1 playing Kolofo'ou and Ma'ufanga playing Fasi.

Tomorrow's draw is:

A highly successful table tennis challenge was played between the Yacht Club and Tonga Club at the Nuku'alofa Yacht Club on Friday night.

All the games were keenly contested, most of them going to three sets. Although the six doubles matches were drawn, it was in the singles that the Yacht Club had the edge, and they won by 10 games to 8.

The Tonga Club, who had issued the challenge, provided an excellent Tonga supper for the large crowd of suporters from both clubs.

A return challenge by the Yacht Club is expected to be issued soon.

NOT ENOUGH COCONUTS TO MEET ORDERS

Tonga's dessicated coconut factory is unable to cope with the overseas demand for dessicated coconut. Orders cannot be fulfilled, the Tonga Copra Board's Acting Manager, Mr Sione Kinahoi says.

The board is faced with a shortage of coconuts to keep the factory running, he said.

Outstanding orders from England, Australia and New Zealand will have to wait until March.

"We hope by then, we are in position to meet their requirements," he said.

The factory, with its 300 labourers, resumed operation on Monday after a close down of nearly three weeks.

Mr Kinahoi said they have enough coconuts to keep the factory working for possibly for this weekend only.

When the supply is exhausted, the factory will again close down and the labour put off.

A sharp drop in copra production is also being experienced by the board. Some of the daily labourers have been put off.

A tour of inspection of the coconut plantations throughout Tongatapu by Mr Kinahoi and his staff this week verified the shortage of coconuts.

"The main reason for the shortage is because some of the growers, are picking the green coconuts to sell to the tourists and public," Mr Kinahoi said.

OIL AGREEMENT SIGNED

The petroleum agreement between His Majesty's Government and the oil companies comprising Shell, British Petroleum, Acquitaine, Ampol, Gulf and Republic — the Tonga Oil Participants — was officially signed at the Prime Minister's Office on Wednesday.

Signing the agreement confirms the concession rights of exploration for oil in the Kingdom by the oil participants with effect from June 4, 1970 which was initialled by all parties at the conference in Nuku'alofa last May.

The concession covers 6000 square miles of on-shore and off-shore areas, including the main islands and adjoining waters.

A programme for the first two years of exploration has been approved. It provides for geological and drilling phases.

The seven copies of the agreement executed by all participants were signed by the Minister of Lands, Hon. S. L. Tuita on behalf of His Majesty's Government.

Present at the ceremony were the Ministers of the Crown, Secretary to Government, Taniela Tufui, the general representative for Tonga Oil Participants, Mr Alan Jackson and the Tonga Shell N.V. administrator-accountant, Mr V. M. Johnson.

In the picture, a copy of the agreement is handed to the Prime Minister, Prince Tu'ipelehake by Mr Jackson.

The Kiwis Are Here

This year's group of Volunteer Service Abroad school-leavers and teacher trainees arrived by air on Saturday morning. They were met by their hosts and all six adult VSAs in Tonga.

During the week they have been taking part in a familiarisation course at the Teacher's Training College.

Visiting them this week was the VSA's newly-appointed first full-time field officer in the Pacific, Mr Tom Muir. He is based in Suva.

Memorable Night

out the ship, one of them open from 10 a.m. to 3 a.m. — sometimes later.

The language was not the problem that might have been expected, passengers said. Most of the crew had a smattering of English and the top staff spoke "quite good" English. The tourists were advised to speak carefully without slang and they would be readily understood.

And just to make it easier for the tourists, language lessons were conducted each day.

The first visit of a Russian liner to Tonga will long be remembered – and the tourists on board are going to remember Tonga for a long time.

A highlight of their cruise, and a tourist achievement for Tonga, was the night visit to Oholei Beach by nearly 450 tourists, organised by Teta Tours and Mr Oscar Karmi and his people.

Everyone received a Tongan meal, drinks were available at two bars and groups were entertaining on the beach as well as in the cave.

This was the largest group of tourists ever taken to Oholei Beach at night and the arrangements went very smoothly.

About 20 tourists enjoyed themselves so much they did not want to go back to the ship, so arrangements were made for them to stay Tongan-style in the fales at the beach and return to town the following morning.

A BBC television film team has been in the Kingdom for a week filming for "24 Hours", a highly-rated daily documentary programme. The aim of their time in Tonga has been to film an impression of the King and his Kingdom for the people of Britain. The final programme will last from 15 to 20 minutes and may be seen in Britain in about three weeks. "24 Hours" is seen nightly by from five to seven million people. In the picture they are filming the return of the Tonga delegation to the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference.

Pulu is one of several young heavyweights regarded by many fans in Tonga as a future champion, but Koli stole the show.

Referee L. Faleola and judges J. Barnard and A. Johansson saw it 112 - 109, 39 - 36 and 38 - 36 for Koli at the end of round eight.

Seconds at Pulu's corner as well as spectators thought it was one of the luckiest bouts Pulu had ever gained.

Koli, a fine boxer with a powerful punch, carried the fight to Pulu from the beginning to the end of the fight.

During that interval, he was wild at the timekeepers and he told his seconds he was not going to fight any more. But he did walk in when the bell rang for round nine.

Midway through this round, Pulu landed a telling right on Koli's left cheek. Koli turned facing his corner and put both gloves on the canvas. Then he demanded that his manager throw in the towel that ended the bout.

The Good Ship "'Olovaha"

The arrival of Tonga's new inter-island passenger ship "Olovaha" heralds a new era in the Kingdom's communications. Tongatapu, Ha'apai and Vava'u will be brought closer by the fast, regular service this ship can provide.

A voyage from Nuku'alofa to Pangai will take about seven hours and from Pangai to Neiafu about five hours.

The "Olovaha", formerly the "Queen of the Isles" was built in Bristol, England, in 1965 for the 42-miles open sea passage from the Isles of Scilly to Penzance on the south coast of England and normally made the trip in 2¾ hours, averaging 14 — 14½ knots.

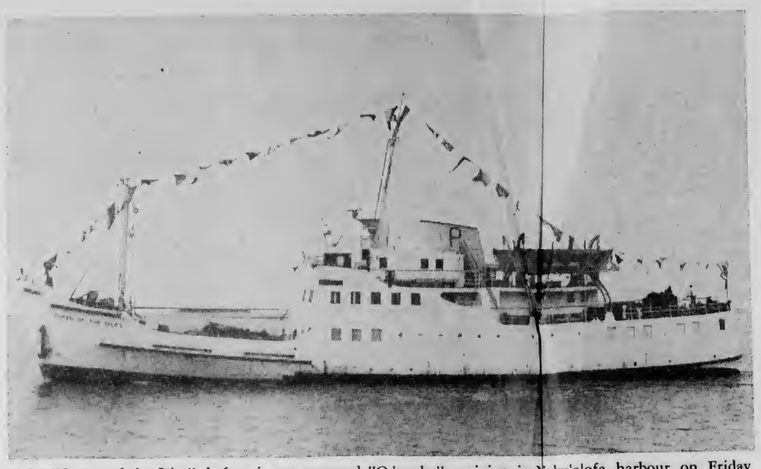
One of the aspects of the ship's design attractive to Tonga is the comfortable seating accommodation for 300 passengers.

This is divided between an observation lounge at the bridge front fitted with upholstered settees, seating about 70 people, two smoke rooms with seating for about 50 — 60 people and two other rooms capable of taking 100 more passengers.

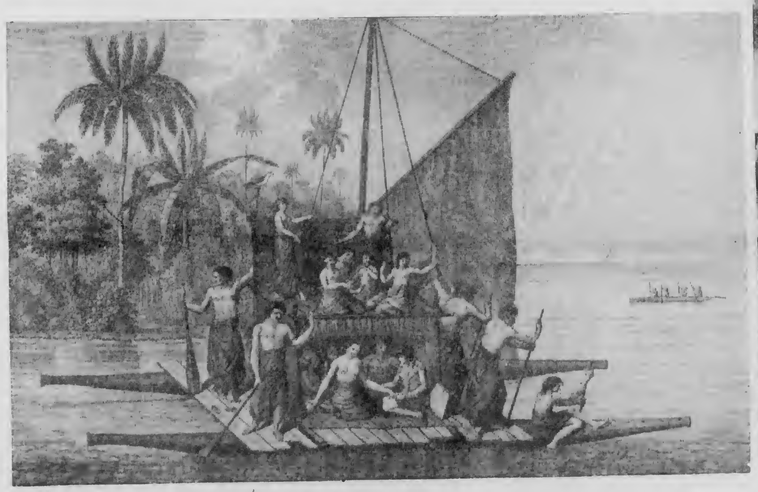
The promenade deck aft is an open deck with seating for a further 70 — 80 people.

The "Olovaha" also carries 100 tons of cargo.

The new vessel is a gift to Tonga from Britain, the cost being met from U.K. Development Aid Funds.



The "Queen of the Isles", before it was renamed "Olovaha" arriving in Nuku'alofa harbour on Friday afternoon after its 10,400 journey from England.



The name Olovaha was chosen by His Majesty and derives from the days of the ancient canoes, shown in the picture above.

The olovaha is the platform between the two canoes and it was here the chief and passengers travelled.

The shelter built over the olovaha is the falevaka. The chief sat inside the falevaka and issued his instruction and commands.

Tongatapu, Ha'apai And Vava'u Brought Closer

The whole Tonga maritime fleet passed in review around the "Olovaha" on the harbour on Monday afternoon. Above three vessels line up to pay respects.

The "Olovaha" is dressed and ready to go and the guests invited to the renaming ceremony go aboard.

His Majesty Chooses Five Soccer Films

Tonga is to receive five soccer films through the courtesy of the Carreras of Fiji Limited.

These films were selected by His Majesty, King Taufa'ahau who is the patron of the Tonga Football Association from a list made available by the Carreras' General Manager, Mr Mike Ransome.

His Majesty's selection was three training and coaching films, "Road to Success", "Victory Methods" and Football '70", all of which are 45 minutes long. Two full length international matches were also selected. They are a European Cup final and the 1966 World Cup final between England and West Germany.

It is expected these films will arrive in Tonga soon after Mr Ransome returns from a business trip to England.

Urgent Call For Women

Women of Tonga, your country needs you . . . to form a cricket club.

The secretary of the Tonga Cricket Association, 'Iteni Helu, is calling for women who can play cricket or would like to learn to play cricket to meet him next Thursday, February 11, at 5 p.m. at the Tonga Defence H.Q.

Shops, offices, schools and groups are invited to form teams to make up the club. From these will be chosen a team to play a women's team from New Zealand in April.

Equipment will be supplied by the Tonga Cricket Association and association members will train the women players.

Mr Helu says he is sure there are many women in the Kingdom who would like an opportunity to play cricket and he hopes they will come to the meeting on Thursday next.

DEAR SIR . . . Letters To The Editor

Sunday Laws

Dear Sir.—Your letters on Sunday laws for the past few weeks interest and amuse me to the extent that I too wish to donate my opinion.

Before going any further, I would like to make it clear that I am one of those known as a "Free Thinker". I believe in a Superior Being, and some of the teachings in the Old and New Testament, Koran, Talmud, Book of Mormon and a few other professed-to-be-inspired books of various religious groups.

I have absolutely no complaint against the Police Force for interferring with Sunday bathers relaxing and minding their own business on some of our lovely beaches, for these officers are only enforcing our Sunday Laws.

I will not object to the Police Force should they enforce the Sunday laws to the extreme and close up bakeries, water boards, power boards, hospitals, T. & T. Dept., hotels, clubs and whatever else that they may interpret as working and breaking the Holy Sabbath, for they are only carrying out their duty of enforcing the OLD Tonga Sunday law.

I do not object to the Police working on the Holy Sabbath, for no doubt the law is intepereted that they are a body that is "urgently necessary" to protect the public from doing evil or having fun.

But I do object most strongly to the Sunday law of Tonga which is over a 100 years old and definitely needs reviewing to keep up with modern religious ideas and modern civilization thinking.

I would point out to fellow free-thinking Tongans, that our Sunday law is based on the Law of Moses, written nearly 4000 years ago?

The prophet Moses, we are told in the Old Testament was inspired by God and wrote Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deutronomy. I do not wish to be involved in any religions arguments, but I do wish to enlighten fellow Tongans on this one point that may help to relax our present Sunday laws. Moses never wrote the above mentioned Books. They were written by an unknown author.

In the 20th Chapter of Exodus the reason given for keeping the seventh day was because (says the commandment) God made the heavens and earth in six days and rested on the seventh, but in the Book of Deuteronomy the reason given is that it was the day on which the children of Israel came out of Egypt, and therefore, says this commandment, the Lord Thy God commanded thee to keep the Sabbath Day.

In these modern days of space travels and unaccountable fantastic discoveries, I'm sure the majority of us freedom – loving Tongans would only be too pleased to have the Tonga Sunday law looked into with a free and clear mind for the benefit of modern men and simple, pure common sense.

Last, but not the least, I wish to point out to Mr L. T. Lancaster, BSc Cert. Ed. Lecturer, TTC. that if dog-eating is one step from cannibalism, Tonga has a lot of followers in the 600,000,000 Chinese that treat dog-eating as a delicacy.

BILL WIGHT.

* * *

Dear Sir.—People are tired of this controversy about the rights and wrong of sea bathing on Sundays and a change of subject on this most popular page would be a relief.

There is, however, a very fair and democratic procedure that usually solve a situation such as this – saving precious time and a lot of palaver.

Let the people decide by referendum, for after all it is a matter for the individual conscience and religious beliefs whether sea bathing on a Sunday would ultimately condemn a whole nation on the Day of Reckoning.

Referendum in an enlightened country is usually resorted to obtain a completely unbiased nation-wide finality to the burning question of the moment.

What a noble gesture of goodwill, confidence and love of the people for the Establishment to proclaim henceforth such a referendum for an honest, definite and final decision on this rather delicate, soul-searching subject from the voice of the people, from all ranks, from all denominations.

The whole world will sit up with profound interest, nod and note.

A HUMBLE VOICE.

The correspondence on Sunday laws is now closed.

Angry Tourist

Dear Sir.—I noticed one of your writers last month warning about Tonga becoming a "land of beggars". Worse, it is becoming a land where they rob the tourist.

We engaged a taxi driver who informed us he was driving for the Methodist Church. He tried to charge us $50 for a five-hour drive.

If something is not done about robbing the tourist, Tonga's tourist trade will stop.

All you hear is: "We are the friendly people, we are your friends". I have been to Tonga four times on cruise ship, but hope my next cruise ship won't call at Tonga.

T. G. OBER,
AUBURN, N.S.W.

The President of the Free Wesleyan Church, the Rev. Justin Gooderham, commenting of this letter said the Methodist Church does not operate taxis, neither are any drivers authorised to work on behalf of the church.

Films

Dear Sir. —
What fun if we could see
Films as they used to be.
They now all carry guns
In film adverts,
The heros are gangsters
And other perverts.
A buxom wench
Holds a whip in her hand,
Corpses are bleeding
On desert sand.
Was it not better
When we laughed
Till tears come to our eyes
At clowns and comedy
And custard pies?

The First Voyage

Other amenities suggested by the staff include a library of reading material for passengers in the observation lounge, and taped music.

My contribution to the suggestions is a map of the Kingdom showing the route taken by the "'Olovaha", for the wall of the lounge, and a large picture or painting of an original 'olovaha to be placed above the main stairway to the lower deck lounges.

The "'Olovaha" is a good ship now but it will be an even better ship when the improvements are made. Then I will be looking forward to my next trip even more than I am now.

QUEEN NOT WANTED AT SINGAPORE?

The London Observer newspaper has reported that the Queen wanted to be in Singapore Harbour aboard the Royal Yacht Britannia during the recent Commonwealth summit conference, but was discouraged from going by the British Prime Minister, Mr Edward Heath.

The newspaper based its report on hints dropped by the Duke of Edinburgh. It said the reason why Mr Heath discouraged the Queen from going was anybody's guess.

"Ours is that he anticipated a frightful row over the arms to South Africa issue and wishes to protect her from the appalling political embarrassment which would have ensued had the Commonwealth dropped to bits in her presence.

"Also, the Queen's views on the importance of the Commonwealth are well known through her Christmas broadcasts - and (who knows?) this might have embarrassed or even depleted Mr Heath," the paper said.

The Queen is nominally head of the Commonwealth.

"ASTOUNDING" RESULT: A 15-year-old Kings College, New Zealand, pupil, Robert Gunn, who gained a 92.3 average in the School Certificate exam says the result astounded him. His marks were mathematics 99, English 87, French 97, chemistry 92, biology 92 and physics 87, a total of 554.

CRUNCH!

A car owned and driven by the Ministry of Finance's Accountant-General, Mr L. W. Robertson, and a minimoke taxi collided last Saturday. Driving from Nuku'alofa down-town area in Taufa'āhau Road, Mr Robertson was unable to avoid the accident, police said, when the minimoke, driven by Siosifa Lau'ese of Matahau, parked on the roadside, suddenly swung into the road in an attempt to make a fast U turn. No one was injured. Lau'ese has been charged by the police with careless driving.

Mr Muir was in the Kingdom recently and will be returning at the end of next week.

Mr Muir, who holds a Trained Teacher's Certificate and a Diploma of Education and Youth Leadership, has also completed a year's post-graduate study in community development at Columbia University, New York, under a Carnegie Fellowship award.

Mr Muir is familiar with most of the areas into which his work as a field officer will take him In 1957, he took up a post as assistant director of social development of the Cook Islands and became director in 1959. In 1967, Mr Muir was appointed secretary of the Cook Islands Internal Affairs Department. While in the Cook Islands he was responsible for establishing and maintaining youth services.

Since his return to New Zealand in 1968, Mr Muir has worked at the New Zealand Education Department's Correspondence School, teaching post-primary subjects and giving tuition in Trained Teacher's Certificate studies.

Mrs Muir is a trained teacher. She too was awarded a Carnegie grant for study in the United States and Britain. She has had wide experience in teaching both in New Zealand and the Pacific where she was for some years lecturing at the Cook Islands Teachers' Training Centre. Before leaving she was involved in setting up a new broadcast to schools service.

She has been in the home training section of the Correspondence School, working with intellectually handicapped children and their parents.

Both Mr and Mrs Muir hold advanced certificates in the Cook Islands language, Rarotongan.

Mr and Mrs Muir have four children, one of whom, Joanne (15), the youngest, is with them in Fiji.

GIFTS FROM AUSTRALIA

The Australian Government has further helped Tonga by providing two International Harvester tractors and a towed five-ton vibrating roller.

They will be used by the Ministry of Works to assist in the construction and maintenance of airfields to be built in Tonga during the 1970-75 Development Programme.

Both 55 horsepower diesel tractors cost $A9000, and the roller, the first of its kind to be brought to Tonga, costs $6800. All three have been supplied complete with spare parts to ensure adequate maintenance.

The Director of Works, Mr C. L. Wilford said: "This sturdy addition to the Ministry of Works, is part of the Australian Aid programme to Tonga."

NO ORDINARY HOUSEWIFE

Temaleti K. Lousiale (39) of Kolomotu'a is no ordinary housewife. Although a teacher, wife and mother to three children, she still finds time to fit in her studies which she resumed in 1969 after 16 years and this year, passed her New South Wales School Certificate examinations.

Sitting for English, mathematics, science, commercial and needlework, she passed all five with a credit pass in English and B passes in the other four subjects.

Asked why she resumed her studies, Mrs Lousiale said: "My husband stood in the parliamentary election for the last two years. I feel that a good education on my part will be of tremendous help to him."

Mrs Lousiale's "classroom" is restricted to whatever spare time she gets out of her domestic duties, while she is cycling to Liahona High School where she teaches Tongan and physical eduration and between her classes.

She also teaches social studies, English, algebra and needlework at 'Atenisi College.

"The more I dig into my studies, the more I come to believe that education does not imply a few of years, but is a continuous process throughout the life span of a person," she said.

She is now proceeding with her studies for the University Entrance exams to be held towards the end of the year.

Mrs Lousiale's success comes as no a surprise to those that know her. Since she entered the Nuku-'alofa Catholic primary school, she showed herself to be a promising student. In 1952 at the age of 19, and sitting from Liahona College, she succeeded with the highest aggregate in the Lower Leaving examination, then the only internal exams available for girls.

Mrs Lousiale's eldest boy (15) is a fourth former at Tonga High School, her second, a girl (12) is at 'Atenisi College and will be sitting for her New South Wales School Certificate at the end of the year. The youngest boy (10) is at Tonga College.

Historic Step For Students At 'Atenisi

'Atenisi College is about to take a historical step in the field of education in Tonga, when five students will do units extramurally at Massey University, New Zealand, and London University this year.

The principal of the college, Mr Futa Helu has just returned to the Kingdom after seeking textbooks and teachers in two major universities in San Francisco, Stanford and Berkeley, as part of the preparations for the new move.

"I have been notified that Stanford will send two teachers, early next month. Another teacher will also arrive at the same time from Auckland", said Mr Helu.

The three teachers will work on a volunteer basis.

Units available are: Pure Maths I, English I, psychology I, philosophy I, history I and economics I.

Although some former-university students in Tonga are taking units to complete their degrees, this is the first time a school here has availed itself of extramural university courses.

Lectures will be restricted to three nights a week. The rest of the week will be devoted to self study, said Mr Helu.

Tonga To Have National Red Cross Society

Tonga, now being an independent country, is moving towards having a national Red Cross Society. It will then take its place in the League of Red Cross Societies and will be recognised by the International Red Cross Committee as another country whose people are always ready and willing to help those in need, especially in times of disaster.

The Red Cross Committee was formed in September 1961, under the patronage of Her Majesty Queen Salote, who became its first president.

Miss Jenny Scott from the British Red Cross is in the Kingdom to discuss with local officials and the Tonga Government a new constitution for the society, drafted by her, and based on the British constitution.

After gaining the approval of the Tonga Government the committee will formally apply to the League of Red Cross Societies, based in Switzerland, for membership, and send the entry fee of $600.

Only then will Tonga be given a major role to play in preventing and alleviating human suffering in the world today, regardless of nationality, creed or race.

"But before the Tonga Red Cross could commit itself to helping other countries, it must first assist its own people," said Miss Scott.

This calls for more local ardent supporters. In case some people are under the impression that to become a member involves heavy financial responsibilities, Miss Scott pointed out that financial obligations are entirely at the members' discretion.

During her four-week stay, she will visit and talk to people in the villages on how indispensable they are to the local Red Cross committee.

Miss Scott said the Tonga branch has something to be proud of. Although it is under the guidance of the British Red Cross, it has never appreached Britain for financial help.

"Tonga's ability to stand and function on its own is much to be commended," she said.

Miss Scott added that any organisation needs money for its smooth running and maintenance. This is one reason why the local branch must have the full support of the Tongan people.

She emphasized that the work of the local Red Cross committee does not stop at the clinic in Nuku'alofa, the teaching of artificial respiration and first aid in schools, it also helps families who through sickness may require welfare assistance.

COPRA PRICES

The Tonga Copra Board announces the following local prices to be paid to copra producers during February: 1st Grade $116.80 a ton; 2nd Grade $104.80 a ton.

These figures are an increase of $1.30 over the January, 1971 prices, and will be payable throughout the Kingdom.

The price for whole coconuts throughout Tongatapu will be maintained at 2 seniti a coconut.

Tax man Resigns

The Deputy Commissioner of Inland Revenue, Mr Lūpeti Finau has given the Government three months notice requesting that he be released from the Civil Service on a pension.

Mr Finau said he was resigning because he was not satisfied with his revised salary as well as the salary of his staff.

As Deputy Commissioner of Inland Revenue, he is responsible for the collection of about a quarter of a million dollars as revenue from Income Tax and Poll Tax during each financial year.

Mr Finau is 55 and has served the Tonga Government for 31 years. He has to serve four more years before he is entitled to a full pension.

Mr Finau was one of the first holders of a Government scholarship, and matriculated at Newington College, Melbourne in 1939. The Government decided to recall him and offer him an appointment in the clerical division of the Civil Service.

He held several positions in the service before being appointed to his present post in 1965.

Mr Finau said he has planned several things to do after leaving the Civil Service, but he is not in the position to disclose them yet.

Russians Have Audience With King

Scientists and officers from the Russian research ship "Vityaz" which spent two days in Nuku'alofa last week had an audience with His Majesty on Friday afternoon.

They presented the King with seven pamphlets and eight world maps. The pamphlets described aspects of their research work and also facets of the Russian scene.

The group was led by Gleb B. Udinstev from the Institute of Oceanology, USSR Academy of Sciences.

On the departure of the "Vityaz", the following message was received by His Majesty: "Upon leaving the waters of your Kingdom, we wish to express our gratitude for the kind hospitality of your people and the great honour you extended to us by granting an audience. We wish you long life and good health to the benefit and prosperity of Tonga – (signed) Chief Scientist Soviet research ship "Vityaz", Udintsev, Master, Svitailo.

Tongan XI To Play "West Star"

This afternoon at 2 o'clock there will be a soccer match on Mala'e Pangai between a Tongan XI and a team from the crew of the tourist ship, "West Star".

Last Monday, when the "West Star" was in port, a team from on board defeated the Royal Guards 2 - 0.

This afternoon's game will be the first time this season that a representative side has been assembled. The last time that a Tonga XI played was last June, during the Independence celebrations, against a strong team from H.M.S. "Whitby" It will be remembered that the game, played before a large crowd, resulted in a 1 - 1 draw.

Tomorrow sees the start of the knockout competition for the Friendly Islands Biscuit Cup and the continuation of the women's competition for the Māketi Cup. The draw is:

The last 4000 seats at Madison Square Garden for the March 8 heavyweight title bout between Cassius Clay and Joe Frazier were sold in two hours, guaranteeing the largest indoor live gate in boxing history.

The remainder of the 19,500 seats available went on sale at prices ranging from $18 - $67 a piece. Ringside seats, at $134, were sold out earlier.

Hihifo district representative team, the winners of the President's Trophy in the 1971 inter-district cricket competition. Last Saturday, saw the end of the 1970 cricket season when the association's patron, H.R.H. Prince Tupouto'a presented trophies to the Tonga Defence Force Club, winner of the Steinlager Shield for A grade inter-club competition, Ha'amonga-'amaui Club who won the Tonga Construction Company Shield in the B grade and the President's trophy to Hihifo District.

VAULTING POLES AND BOOKS CONSIGNED TO ROTARY CLUB

When the "'Olovaha" arrived from Britain it had on board two consignments for the Rotary Club of Nuku'alofa.

Two fibre-glass vaulters poles were obtained through the assistance of the Rotary Club of Bury, Lancs, and are being handed over to the Tonga Amateur Sports Association. They were purchased from a donation of $200 received from the Rotary Club of Lautoka, Fiji.

The second consignment comprised five cases of educational books, and its arrival here was made possible by the co-operation of three Rotary Clubs in the British Isles.

During November, last year, the Rotary Club of Guernsey was approached by Mr J. Nicolle, a local schoolmaster, who had recently returned from a holiday in Tonga, visiting his son, a teacher at Tonga High School.

Mr Nicolle, through the help of Guernsey State Education Committee, collected sufficient books to fill five tea chests, then looked around for ways and means of getting them to Tonga. He contacted Baron Vaea, Tonga's High Commissioner in London who told him space was available on the "Queen of the Isles."

A Guernsey shipping company took the chests to Portsmouth. A member of the Rotary Club there sent them by special van the 250 miles to Penzance. The chairman of the international committee of the Penzance Rotary Club, who is also the harbour-master saw the books safely on board.

The fact that the books were to come to Tonga brought an immediate response of good will and help and indicates the warm regard for Tonga in the United Kingdom.

The books are destined for Nuku'alofa, Vainī and Folaha Primary Schools, St. Andrew's School and other schools on Tongatapu.

A Rare Tie In Cricket

Ties in cricket are very rare. In Tonga it happened, possibly for the first time, when Hihifo and Hahake districts met at Tonga High School in the final match of the inter-district competition.

Hihifo scored 49 runs in their first innings and Hahake replied with 51 runs.

In the second innings, Hihifo scored 42 runs. Hahake required 41 runs to win but they were all out for only 40 runs, bringing the result to a tie.

The Cricket Association, however, proclaimed Hahake the winner, on the first innings.

Where Time Begins

Nuku'alofa. Thursday, March, 4 1971 — Vol. VII. No. 39 3 Seniti

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, PEACE CORPS!

Now You Are 10

Peace Corps volunteers in Tonga celebrated the movement's 10th anniversary on Monday evening with a cocktail party at the Peace Corps office in Nuku'alofa.

Among the many notable guests attended were Crown Prince Tupouto'a and the Prime Minister His Royal Highness, Prince Tu'ipelehake.

The idea of a Peace Corps volunteer movement was originated by the late President John Kennedy. He saw the movement as an agency which would meet requests in the way of manpower assistance, from developing nations.

The first group of volunteers, after the inception of the movement, was sent to Ghana.

But with a present membership of 8000 volunteers, the movement now operates in about 60 countries, providing valuable assistance in fields such as education, agriculture, health and public works.

Peace Corps volunteers have now been in Tonga almost four years during which time they have proved to the people of Tonga that John Kennedy's aspirations did not end with his death.

There are 60 volunteers at present working in the Kingdom.

Urgent action to meet coconut factory crisis

Nut Price increased to 3 cents

The price of whole coconuts has been increased from two cents to three cents immediately in an effort to meet the serious situation at the desiccated coconut factory at Haveluloto.

The factory for the past three months has been working only one week in four.

The marketing adviser, Mr Ken Masters, recently told the board he had acquired several new markets for desiccated coconut and that there was a potential for many more orders for the sale of bulk and prepacked product. However, outstanding orders were in excess of 200 tons.

As an urgent action, the chairman of the Tonga Copra Board, H.R.H. Prince Tu'ipelehake, directed that the price be revised immediately. He said it was appreciated that the increase would not be economically viable, but the emphasis was not so much on the economics of the increase but on a solution to the situation at the factory at Haveluloto.

The fact that there were outstanding orders to established markets was an integral part of the decision to increase the price of a nut as the chairman of the board was most anxious not to lose these markets because Tonga could not meet the demand.

Western Samoa now has a desiccated coconut factory and even though production is about half the total production potential of Tonga, Western Samoa nevertheless stands to gain from the Kingdom's decreased production.

Whole coconuts are to be shipped to Tongatapu from Niuafo'ou and Niuatoputapu to supplement the depleted Tongatapu supply.

The manager of the Tonga Shipping Agency is making arrangements to transport the coconuts. The freight charges, however, will have to be borne by the board.

Copra production, therefore, for the Niuas will be virtually neglible, but it is thought by the board that since the quality of copra in the Niuas is inferior to Tongatapu production, the whole coconuts could be more useful employed at the factory.

COPRA PRICE FOR MARCH

There has been a decline in the world copra market and the downward trend in world prices has not only continued over the past two weeks but accelerated.

However, the Tonga Copra has decided to assist local producers by maintaining the present prices for March, 1971.

These are: 1st Grade $116.80 a ton; 2nd Grade $104.80 a ton.

Do you know this man?

Mr Lanakila' Brandt of Hawaii is trying to locate a Mr Sioka Tupou of Tonga and has asked for help of the Chronicle.

Mr Tupou was an entertainer in Polynesian showbusiness and returned to Tonga from Hawaii either late in 1968 or early 1969. He was a close friend of Mr Brandt.

If Mr Tupou or anyone reading this knows of his wherabouts, would they get in touch with the Chronicle.

Not Quite Full Banana Quota

The "'Olovaha" brought with her on Monday, 443 cases of bananas from Vava'u, 57 cases short of the expected number.

The shortage was due to the wet weather on Monday, which prevented many farmers from the villages from bringing all their bananas to Neiafu.

Seamen fined for smuggling

Three members of the M.V. Aoniu's crew were fined in the Apia Magistrate's Court $20 each for smuggling, and trying to sell smuggled goods.

The men were Motu'isela Lēlea, chief steward, S. Lolohea, second mate and L. F. Finau, chief engineer.

The Collector of Customs, Mr Vincent Brebner, said Customs Officer Poufa Te'o stopped two cases being "rushed" through by one of the men. When these were opened 82 cartons of cigarettes were inside.

The Superintendent of Police, Lavea Lio, said the police received a report from a club that the sailors were trying to sell two cartons of cigarettes.

The report is understood to have made by a Cabinet Minister who was at the club at the time.

DEAR SIR . . . Letters To The Editor

Death Sentence

Dear Sir.—A man is under sentence of death in this country and as an ardent foe of capital punishment I found a quote from the January 11 edition of Time magazine relevant.

Governor Rockefeller of Arkansas who left office in January, exercised his right of clemency and commuted the death sentences of all 15 prisoners awaiting execution.

In announcing his decision he said : "What earthly mortal has the omnipotence to say who among us shall live and who shall die? I do not. Moreover, I cannot and will not turn my back on lifelong Christian teaching and beliefs, merely to let history run out its course on a fallible and failing theory of punitive justice."

Governor Rockefeller urged other Governors to follow his lead "so that as a people we may hasten the elimination of barbarism as a tool of justice."

Tonga is small but I don't believe it is insignificant. It has an opportunity now to set an example by commuting this death sentence and eventually abolishing capital punishment from the laws of the Kingdom.

CHARITY.

Salary Revision

Dear Sir.—It is a comforting thought to know that the chair you may sit on, or the bed you may lie on, or the stage on which you may perform is strong enough to carry your weight. On the other hand, your life maybe in danger if the chair, the bed or the stage is weak.

Tonga is one of the poorest countries in the world but we are thankful that God has worked wonders in the minds of the more developed countries to provide us with financial assistance.

During the present decline in copra and banana production, which seriously affects the people, a phenominal one-sided salary revision has been authorised by Government.

What worries me is the imbalance that exists between you people on top of the scale and us at the bottom.

There are widespread mainfestations of discontentment among the lower echelons of the civil servics, cause by the recent salary revision.

I am most concerned with the thousands of unemployed and the landless masses, because the higher the salary rises, the poorer they become. And what eventually happen to a country where there exists widespread discontentment and frustrations? That, I will let you answer.

The higher the salaries rise, the dearer the goods become.

Again this will seriously affect the thousands of people with the exception of workers and handful of well to do families. If a worker and an unemployed were to fight for the same item of goods which has been raised in conjunction with the salary rise, who would be the more fortunate? The person with the money of course.

The salary revision should wait until there comes a time when we are in a better financial position. There would have been less trouble, if we were to continue with the old salary revision authorised during the past few years. But if Government feels that if could comfortably afford another salary rise, I suggest that this same money be utilised for the purchase of some type of machinery that could process flour from local crops such as manioc, bananas and plantain, to assist the people.

The problem of "Poverty" could not be solved mathematically but with a Godly love for your fellow men. Vava'u, Ha'apai and the Niuas are experiencing serious financial crisis for the simple reason that they could not afford to keep pace with the steady rise in the cost of living. Local businessmen could help alleviate some of the problems by granting scholarships for higher education to some of the students.

To raise the higher income earning brackets by 30% and the lower income earning brackets by 10% only, is a demonstration of sheer selfishness.

A lot of us would not have been what we are today if it was not for the people of Tonga.

However some may say, that Tonga did not spend one cent for their education, and if that is the case than it must have been somebody else's money. May I suggest that we should love one another just as we love our own well-to-do families.

PATRIOT.

Coconut Dilemma

Dear Sir.—Regarding the desiccateed coconut factory dilemma at Haveluloto. Wisely I know and soundly I think, the Copra Board is one of the indispensable economic anchors for the financial survival of the Kingdom. It is indeed sad to find that it does not play its proper role for Tonga.

Now that we read in the Chronicle of the periodic closing of the desiccated coconut factory through lack of efforts to obtain nuts, and the merging of the Tonga Construction, a subsidiary of the Copra Board, with the P.W.D., one cannot help wondering if the board is aware of the factory's importance to the economy.

When His Majesty Tupou IV was the chairman of the Copra Board, the fabricated a very sound administration, in the organising planning, staffing, directing and controlling of this institution. Some of his brilliant ideas were the formation of the desiccated coconut factory and the Tonga Construction Company. A pity these excellent ideas have not been carried out efficiently and honestly. A Tongan proverb says: "Maumau e matangi lelei 'oku tō ki he lā mahaehae" – "What a waste that a favourable wind is blowing at a tattered sail".

I am aware that P.A. Consultants are recommending the implimentation of a three-man governing body with a directorate. To my opinion, and please treat it as my own, based on a down-to-earth experience, this idea will not work.

The solution to this problem is the right men to fill the administrative echelon; and they have been at our fingertips all along. Certainly not from the Government servants, expatriates, or from the ministerial level, as they are the most over-worked men in the Kingdom. Who else but the managers of the trading firms and overseas companies. These men with business background, I am sure, would be willing to contribute help to the Copra Board of the people of Tonga.

I recommend these businessmen because :

1. They have theoreticcal and practical know-how on the administeration of such a board.
2. They have high ethical principles, otherwise they not have been in their respective positions.
3. These people are sharp businessman and with their practical knowledge on the subject pooled together no doubt, it would be to the mutual advantage of the Copra Board and the community.
4. If we look around for the the most active and contributing church to the economy of Tonga, we will find that its success lies on its sound administration, and the fact that it is being staffed by highly ethical men. These genetlemen apart from their spiritual laurels, are practical businessmen.
5. I have no fear that one of these men can pull a trick to his own advantages without his colleagues being alerted. This also can be applied to the manager running the operation.

These ideas have been generated purely from critical thinking and reasoning and absolutely not from emotions.

Topicalities

Dear Sir.—

Some tourists say
Tongans are a rotten lot,
We're going to stay away.
Other visitors describe
The people of these isles
As generous, loving, full of smiles;
Possessing all the graces
Having sweet angelic faces.
The mentally ripe
Must reject such tripe,
For it is clear
To a discerning mind,
That Tongans
Like other people
Have all the faults and virtues
Of the human kind.

Horse Hiring

Dear Sir. — During the past three months there appears to be a marked increase in the number of horses, ridden by very young youths, made available to tourists on the arrival of a cruise ship, who are charged from $1 - $1.50 for the hire of the horse for an hour.

On two occasions I have seen two riders, vying for custom, nearly cause a major motor vehicle accident by galloping across roads, regardless of traffic, much to the consternation of tourists travelling in the vehicles.

Not only do I think the irresponsible actions of these youths derogatory to the tourists' image of Tonga, I think the physical condition of some of the animals a disgrace.

Most visitors to Tonga come from animal-loving countries and I wonder what their feelings are towards Tonga when they see these underfed, dejected beasts being used for monetary gain.

Many months ago a youth was killed by falling from his horse. Following this accident the police gave notice that it was an offence for any person, under the age of 14, to ride a horse unaccompanied. May the police please enforce this law and the veterinary officer look into the condition of the animals paraded before our visitors.

One Authority

A broadcasting and newspaper corporation will be established in the Cook Islands.

The Legislative Assembly there has just passed the third reading of a Bill to establish it.

Previously, both the daily Cook Islands News and the Cook Islands Radio came under the Internal Affairs Department of the Cook Islands Public Service.

Now, they will come under the corporation, which is to consist of three members.

The minister responsible for the corporation will be the Minister for International Affairs and Tourism, Mr T. A. Henry.

The first issue of the Cook Islands News to be published under the new corporation appeared on Friday to commemorate the visit to the islands of the Duke of Edinburgh.

Commentary

Salary Revision

These days, in all Government offices, the common topic under discussion is the recent salary revision and the sequence of amendments since the salary revision commissioner's recommendations were first submitted to His Majesty's Cabinet, through the Staff Board.

There was a happy expectation by all when the commissioner arrived: the well educated because of their qualifications, the older members because of their long years of services, and the newly employed because the future would be assured.

However, the expectations started to wane rather rapidly when the commissioner's recommendations took a journey through the Staff Board, Cabinet, Legislative Assembly and its sub-committee, Staff Board again, the finally Cabinet.

At this time, a new look was added or imposed on the commissioner's recommendations and complaints started to pour into the Premier's office. This new look was crased and it was back to the original recommendations.

But again, the accepted original recommendations were given a face massage by Staff Board, and decided upon by Cabinet in December, 1970.

This created an agonizing wail from most of the civil servants that sounded like the air of the song "the rich get richer and the poor get poorer". They felt their qualifications, efficiency, long years of devoted services, loyalty and love of Government and country were no longer the standards used for salary increments.

The happy expectation originated in 1969 suddenly disappeared, replaced by a feeling of intense resentment.

Most unexpectedly, the probationer nurses took an unprecedented initiative. They walked out from the nurses' home as a body and stayed away from their duties for a whole day, which was greatly felt at Vaiola Hospital.

Will this be the way the civil servants express their dissatisfactions in the future? Is the traditional loyalty of the Tongans to their leaders and country starting to wane?

Is it the best policy to try to disorganize the Government administrative system to gain an end?

Never in the history of Government salary revisions, have so many great minds met in so many meetings to decide a salary revision, yet, more than 90% of those affected are extremely unhappy and frustratingly dissatisfied with the result.

A man has the right to choose his own method of approach to his own problems. He can use anarchical means and expect its relevant complications, or humanitarian means and expect its harmonious interactions.

It will be extremely interesting to note whether centuries of self-rule has any imprint on the well-educated and responsible Tongans.

No one can deny, that careful judgement, deliberate consideration, patience, use of peaceful measures and loyalty to one's own people and country, make man far superior to all living creatures.

It's a divine gift of mankind to accept or reject at will. Such a gift is the proud heritage of all people everywhere, including Tonga.

Airline's name not finally decided

Fiji Airways has not decided on a new name for itself, although officially it will adopt the name of Pacific Islands Airways from April 1.

The Minister for Communications, Mr C. A. Stinson, hinted this in answer to a question about the airline put by the Fiji Liberal Party leader, Dr W. L. Verrier.

In the House of Representatives Dr Verrier asked for retention of the word Fiji in the airline's name.

Mr Stinson said the airline's future name was "still under consideration".

The Fiji Times understands that the board of Fiji Airways will announce soon that the airline will adopt the name of Air Pacific.

It is understood that Fiji Airways will take over the name from the small Suva-based domestic airline now operating under it in return for commercial concessions.

Women's association playing increasing role in community

The Langafonua 'a Fafine Tonga Association is playing an ever increasing role in the life of the Tongan community.

The association, with an initial membership roll of 13 women, was formed in 1954 under the patronage of her late Majesty, Queen Salote, who became its first president.

With a motto "Ngāue lototaha pē", or "Let us work with one accord", members are sent to villages to help and to teach women to sew, cook and make Tongan handicrafts and tapa.

The association with a present roll of 800 members, including those from the other islands, plays an important part in most public functions.

During the Royal visit to Tonga last year, the Langafonua provided the morning and afternoon teas.

In 1968 and also last year, the Government asked the association to provide a display of handicrafts for the Horticultural Show in Auckland and the Panorama of the Pacific in Sydney.

Since 1966, members have concentrated their efforts on the making of Tongan handicrafts for sale at Langafonua House.

For some members, money from the sale of their work is their family's only reliable means of income. To others, especially those with large families, it helps provide their children with an education.

Last year, the association received a record of $8000 from the sale of handicrafts. Out of the total, Mr Matekitonga, a wholesale distributor from Hawaii, bought more than $2000 worth of handicrafts.

Last month, when the "Fairstar" was in port, the sales manager from the ship's duty-free shop bought handicrafts worth $548.

The secretary of the committee responsible for the sale of handicrafts, Mrs M. Finau, said the association had received orders from overseas companies as well as from individuals. Members are at present trying to fulfill these orders.

Present office holders are: Patron, Prince Tu'ipelehake; president, Queen Mata'aho; assistant presidents, Princess Melenaite, Mrs Tuna Finau, Mrs Leafâ-i-Tulangi; secretary, Mrs Liu Lavulo; treasurer, Mrs Nānisi Helu.

Good Response To Call, But Unfortunately...

In response to a call by the Tonga Cricket Association to form a women's cricket club team, five villages indicated interest — Fasi, Vainī, Ngele'ia, Pea and Nukunuku.

The association's secretary, Mr 'Iteni Helu said, "We planned to have an inter-club competition when a representative team was to be selected to play against the Y.W.C.A. girls cricket team from Wellington. But their proposed visit is now postponed until next year."

The secretary of the Wellington club was very apologetic of the fact they had to cancel their visit, Mr Helu said.

The association is suggesting that the woman's teams play social games.

EDUCATION WILL BE MADE RELEVANT

Tongan children may not have to puzzle over Maori words they can't understand and flowers they have never seen and students in the Gilbert and Ellice Islands may no longer have to learn how to knit a pullover and cook rissoles. That's if all goes to plan with a $US3.5 million United Nations project to build a new Islands secondary school curriculum and examination system in the next four years.

The project will give 10 Island territories a secondary education system more relevant to their social conditions and customs and not borrowed piecemeal from the UK or New Zealand. (The territories are contributing $US148,000 to the project in cash plus $2,038,000 in housing facilities, use of existing equipment, etc. UNDP is giving $1,401,200 in cash).

Taking part in the UNDP/UNESCO project, one of the most costly ever in the Islands, are the British Solomon Islands Protectorate, Gilbert and Ellice Islands, Cook Islands, Fiji, Tonga, New Hebrides, Niue, Tokelau Islands, Western Samoa and possibly Nauru. Absent are French, Australian, and US territories.

The Secondary School Curriculum Development Unit, based at the University of the South Pacific, Suva, has been busy the past year making preliminary contacts with Islands teachers and administrators, producing teachers and administrators, producing teachers' aids for the new curriculum and holding classes to instruct Islands teachers in new teaching methods.

The new curriculum is being introduced by degrees, as experiments and trials prove its adequancy.

The UNDP is spending $US100,000 on travel to allow UN people to visit the other islands and establish the courses.

After the new materials have been tried out in schools throughout the South Pacific, they will be revised and rewritten in the light of feed-back.

The man in charge of the UNDP course is Dr G. D. Bishop, chief technical adviser of the Secondary School Curriculum Development Unit.

Dr Bishop is quick to dispel any thought that the UN has come into the South Pacific to tell the Islanders how to educate their young. The UN is collaborating closely with local teachers and administrators to produce what governments want, he says.

Dr Bishop envisages dropping the "external" examinations system altogether for "more appropriate" local examinations run by a body such as a South Pacific Examinations Council. (A similar idea for a South Pacific Conference, and it is beng studied). He says external examinations can be "cramping" to Islands children.

Dr Bishop says the new curriculum will encourage pupils to understand basic principles of subjects rather than learning by rote.

An Examination can be a Lottery

How inadequate is the present "imposed" secondary school curriculum in the South Pacific?

Project manager of the UNDP curriculum development unit, Dr G. D. Bishop, has given these instances:

"In the Kingdom of Tonga several school principals pointed out the great disadvantages that children in the South Pacific suffer when they take external school leaving examinations. In the recent New Zealand School Certificate examination pupils were set an English composition on the Golden Kiwi. Children in the South Pacific and even adults who had not been to NZ could be forgiven for supposing the composition had something to do with a New Zealand bird.

"I understand that the Golden Kiwi is the name for the NZ national State lottery. No doubt most NZ children would know what the Golden Kiwi referred to, since their parents would buy these lottery tickets, but how on earth could the children in the South Pacific be expected to know this, least of all those in Tonga where lotteries are illegal?

"This is one further example of the need to change to our own local South Pacific Regional School Leaving Certificate as soon as possible.

"In this same NZ English paper pupils were asked to write a composition on constructing an earthenware oven. Tongan children would have answered such a question with glee, resulting from their considerable experience in this field. But not one pupil attempted what would have been almost a gift question because in the question paper the Maori word for an earth oven was used, and Tongan children don't know Maori.

"All principals of the high schools complained that in the biology examination all the photographs of the flora and fauna related to Australian or NZ ones, common to any school child in one of these countries but completely foreign to children in the South Pacific.

"The difficulty posed by children having to sit an examination in a language which is not their mother tongue is exemplified by the question which pupils at Tupou High School (Tonga) attempted in the recent Victoria (Australia) School Leaving Certificate examination. In the history paper they were asked to comment on a statement that a particular policy was not so much a failure as being too successful".

In Tongan the words 'too' and 'very' are synonymous. The entire class of pupils answered the paper as though the statement referred to the policy being very successful. One can understand their missing completely the subtlety of the statement."

Toni Pulu went down to the canvas, for the first time in his career, as Fonomanu Sēkona of Fo'ui landed a powerful left-right combinations to the head and body towards the end of round 4 in their 10-round heavyweight contest at Hauhau-'o-Taufa'āhau Theatre last Friday.

DANCING SEKONA DOMINATED FIRST PRO. FIGHT FROM BEGINNING TO END

The dancing former amateur heavyweight champion, Fonomanu Sēkona of Fo'ui, in his first professional bout last Friday, beat the rain and Tonga No. 1 contender, Toni Pulu of Kolonga in a 10-round contest at Hauhau-'o-Taufa'āhau Theatre.

Sekona dominated the fight from the opening bell and by using his brilliant footwork, lightning strong left jabs and greater height and reach to good advantage, kept Pulu at arm's length. He danced and jabbed in masterly fashion, turning Pulu's face red.

Blood started streaming from Pulu's nose and towards the end of round two, Fonomanu exhibited his speed by landing left-right combinations that shook Pulu. He immediately moved in for the kill but the bell went.

Pulu took it heavily towards the end of round four, when Sekona landed another powerful left-right combination to the and body which sent him to the canvas.

This was the first time in his career that Pulu had been knocked down.

Pulu staggered to his feet while referee Jack Riechelmann was taking the mandatory count of eight. He was saved from further punishment by the bell.

Although the capacity audience at first appeared to favour Pulu, it soon became obvious that Sekona was the better man. While it was true he seemed to somewhat retreat through much of the bout, Sekona proved more vicious than a cornered tiger. With almost every step backward, Sekona landed gloved missiles with ferocious rapidity.

Pulu did land some good punches and in one instance seemed to be on the lookout for the chance to deliver a knockout blow. It never came.

The referee and two ringside judges scored the bout in favour of Sekona. Riechelmann decided 47-36. Judges A. Johansson and Dick Meredith gave 47 - 43 and 48 - 44 respectively.

The fight had gross a record gate of $959.54 from which Sekona went home with $409.12 excluding the $100 side bet he won. Pulu received $272.75.

In the six-round middleweight contest, Soakai Pulu, of Kolonga outpointed Fetaiaki Namoa.

Mani Vaka knocked out by flu bug

Tonga heavyweight champion, Mani Vaka was unable to fight Vuniivi Nadumu of Ba, at Suva last Monday as he had influenza.

The 10-round return bout between Vaka and Nadumu was postponed.

No new date for the contest has yet been set by the Professional Boxing Association of Fiji. But an association spokesman said it would not be held next Monday.

Vaka, resident in Australia for some time, tops the Australian rankings published in the Melbourne magazine Fighter as the leading contender for both the Australian heavyweight and light-heavyweight titles.

In the magazine's Commonwealth ratings, Vaka is named number six for the heavyweight crown, with Waqa and Naliva of Fiji seventh and eighth.

Vaka is ranked fourth contender for the Commonwealth light-heavyweight title, currently held by Chris Finnegan, of England.

TAVO OUTSTANDING IN HAWAII RUGBY

Sione Tāvō from Tonga was selected as one of the two most outstanding varsity athletes last year at Church College Hawaii.

Tāvō played an important part in the CCH "Gold" championship team which won the Hawaii Rugby Union championship, the symbol of rugby supremacy in the state.

Tāvō is considered one of the best forwards in the Hawaii Rugby Union.

He is 32 and started playing rugby at 14. He played for Kolofo'ou from 1954 to 1969, which won the Tongan championships for five years.

From 1957 to 1969 he was a member of the All-Tongan rugby team and received a silver medal at the South Pacific Games in Fiji in 1963.

He has toured New Zealand, Fiji and Western Samoa.

Coach John Lowell said Tāvō had shown his team a new level of quality control coupled with explosive rugby. "He is undoubtedly the best player seen in Hawaii. If he were in New Zealand he would certainly be an All Black."

Another coach, Hani Smiler calls Tāvō as big, fast and strong as they come. He is 240lb and stands 6ft 2in tall.

"Tāvō is the greatest player in Hawaii rugby today. He can hold his own against the best forwards in the world today. He is very coachable and is a very sincere person. Everybody on our teams respects him for his leadership ability."

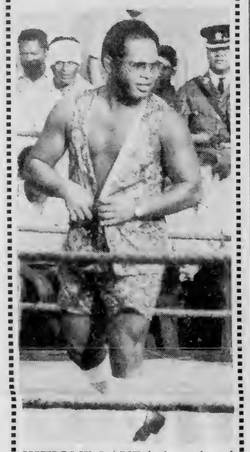
Champion Returns



KITIONE LAVE is introduced to the crowd at Friday evenings big fight.

The former heavyweight champion of the South Seas, Kitione Lave (37) of Hunga, Vava'u returned to Tonga last week with his wife Petty and daughter Patrica.

Lave is known as the man who paved the way for the Tongans in boxing overseas.

In his great fights he defeated nine overseas heavyweight champions ranging from Fiji and the South Seas, New Zealand, Australia, the Orient, Italy, Germany and the British and Empire heavyweight champion, Don Cockell.

Lave said, he reached the top of his career when he met the world heavyweight No. 1 contender Tom McNeil in Boston in the elimination bout to fight with Floyd Patterson for the world title.

He lost and retired in 1963.

Lave joined the Royal Air Force for three years and seven months and saw service in Singapore.

Later in 1966 he returned to England where he established a casino, nightclub and gymnasium at Doncaster. Lave sold his business before returning to Tonga.

He said: "My return is basically to see my parents and to establish a business in Tonga, such as discotheque and gymnasium, where I can help people, if the Government will permit me to do."

Soccer Players Not Bothered By Wet

Although conditions were wet underfoot last Saturday, in no way did it detract from the standard of play seen in several matches.

The big surprise of the day was the defeat of Ha'ateiho No. 1 by the improving Sopu team; Kolofo'ou No. 1 won both their matches by a handsome margin.

With one round left to play in the elimination rounds for the Friendly Islands Biscuit Cup, Kolofo'ou No. 1 are virtually assured of a place in the semifinals. Veitongo No. 1 and Kolofo'ou No. 2 need only to draw their respective matches on Saturday to be two more semi-finalists; while in the fourth division Sopu, Ma'ufanga and Ha'ateiho No. 1 all have a chance of making the semi-finals.

Saturday's draw is:

How's this for a catch?

A Greymouth New Zealand, fishing boat NETTED three tons of crayfish in an hour and 10 minutes the other day.

No one was more surprised than the fishermen who were trawling for bait.

They had stumbled on one of the mysteries of the sea - a giant migration of crayfish which started before Christmas near Dunedin on the east coast of the South Island and now moving up the West Coast of New Zealand.

Such migrations were fairly common years ago but today they are almost unheard of.

Aboard the Red Witch there was no time to meditate on the mystery.

Mr D. R. Briggs, the skipper, said they were trawling for bait in a net designed for sole.

There were so many crayfish when the net was open that many spilt over the side of the 46ft Red Witch and back into the sea.

"We catch crayfish in pots and I've never seen anything like this before.

"Crayfish in this quantity has not been seen this far north for years - at least since 1952."

Another trawler, Mi Jay, from Bluff, earlier picked up two and a half tons from the same migration, in five days.

When the crew ran out of bait they used their own food and discovered a quirk of crayfish taste.

They would not touch paua, sausages or pickled pork.

When moving on sand, the march of the crayfish is speedy.

Tagging has shown they can move 145 miles in six weeks.

Veteran fisherman Mr F. W. Newman said: "We know we have to move our gear (pots) three miles a day to keep up with them."

Retired After 33 Years — Constable To Magistrate

Mr L. Fehoko Fotu (59), Police Magistrate, has retired after 33 years of service to the Government of Tonga.

Mr Fotu (right) was first appointed to the Civil Service in 1938 as a police constable and rose to the rank of sergeant.

With a credit pass in the 1949 local law exams, Mr Fotu was elevated in 1951 to the post of Police Magistrate.

He said that although the Police Force at the time was short-staffed, he felt that they were just as competent as the present Police Force.

Mr Fotu said that the first discovery of the rhinoceros beetle at Vava'u was made while he was there as the island's Police Magistrate.

His retirement took effect as from Tuesday.

10 Years Jail For Attacker

Sione Tovi Vea has been sentenced by Mr Justice Roberts in the Supreme Court to 10 years imprisonment on three charges.

Vea was sentenced to seven years imprisonment for housebreaking, 10 years for robbery and 10 years for inflicting grievious bodily harm.

All charges are to run concurrently for 10 years.

On a Saturday night, in October last year, Vea forced his way into the residence of Mr F Withana, the estate officer for the Coconut Replanting Scheme.

Vea attacked and beat the estate officer wth the butt of a .22 rifle. Before he left, he ransacked the house.

Mr Withana was admitted to hospital later that night with a fractured skull, badly damaged right eye and a knife wound on his arm.

36 ATTEND COURSE FOR RED CROSS LEADERS

A junior leaders' course organised by the Tonga Red Cross Committee was held at the Red Cross Hall in Nuku'alofa on Saturday.

Thirty-six delegates attended, some of whom were leaders of Red Cross Junior Links in schools. Others were senior pupils from St Mary's High School and Tonga High School.

Speakers were Mrs P. Warner, former junior officer and Miss J. T. Scott, field officer from the British Red Cross. Demonstrations and practical exercises were organised by Miss M. Taylor from St Mary's High School and Miss F. Taumoepeau, a junior officer.

During the course, delegates studied the background of Red Cross. They also examined the new step the Tonga Red Cross is about to take.

Miss Scott said the most exciting part of the day came with the demonstrations and practical exercises. Care for the sick and the wounded was demonstrated by the use of a life-sized doll. The art of resuscitation, in which everybody took part, was taught with the aid of a dummy.

Schools, she said were responding well to the request made for more local support.

Miss Scott said the constitution was now in the hands of committee members and awaiting their comments.

She left this morning on the "'Olovaha" to discuss the constitution with the Ha'apai and Va'va'u sub-committees.

Accident That Might Have Been Worse

Miss Sisi K. Holani (18) narrowly escaped serious injuries, when she was hit by a car at Taufa'āhau Road on Friday afternoon.

While crossing from the Post Office to the Prime Minister's Office she was hit and thrown into the air by a car driven by Mr Vaka Latuimaumi of Kolomotu'a, travelling south. Miss Holani fell on the car's bonnet before rolling on to the road when the car stopped.

Miss Holani said she saw the coming but she thought she had ample time to cross the road.

She was rushed to Vaiola Hospital in one of the hospital's landrovers which was outside the Post Office at the time of the accident. After being treated for minor injuries, she was discharged.

Miss Holani, one of the successful candidates from Tonga High School to pass the University Entrance Examinations last year, left on Monday for the University of the South Pacific in Suva under a Tonga Government scholarship.

Government Denies Liability To Compensate Attacked Officer

The Government does not accept any liability to pay compensation to Mr Fred Withana, a Ceylonese employed as the estate officer on the Coconut Replanting Scheme, for the injuries he received as the result of an attack made by an escaped convict, according to a letter he received from the Secretary to Government.

Mr Withana left the Kingdom yesterday on his return to Ceylon, but first he has to go to Auckland, New Zealand, for possibly more medical treatment. This he said he was bearing at his own expense because the Government had said it was not prepared to meet the cost of more medical treatment in New Zealand.

An offer was made by the Government to remove Mr Withana's affected eye in Tonga, free of charge, but Mr Withana said he hoped such drastic surgery would not be necessary. The New Zealand specialist, Dr. C. C. Ring, who treated Mr Withana had said in a report that he wanted to see Mr Withana again after two months for possibly further surgery ,but the removal of the eye was not indicated.

STILL HOPEFUL

Mr Withana said he had made his request to the Government for compensation hoping they would be compassionate. However, he had not entirely given up hope, he told the Chronicle. He believed Privy Council would be considering his case and the decision could be favourable.

In a letter to the Government, Mr Withana said he felt he had been the victim of an unfortunate incident in which he had lost an eye and suffered pain of mind and body and lost a career. He said he appreciated the Government's gesture in paying the initial medical costs in New Zealand, and if they wished to contribute towards his additional trip to New Zealand for more treatment he would be "deeply grateful".

Mr Withana said he was returning to his own country "with a clear heart, without enmity and with due respect and gratitude to His Majesty, King Taufa'āhau Tupou and H.R.H. Prince Tu'ipelehake."

The escaped prisoner who attacked Mr Withana last October, Sione Tovi Vea, was sentenced two weeks ago to 10 years in prison.

Vea forced his way into Mr Withana's home, attacked and beat him with the butt of a rifle and ransacked the house before he left.

Mr Withana drove 11 miles to hospital later that night with a fractured skull, badly damaged right eye and a knife wound on his arm.

T$100 AWARD IN BREACH OF PROMISE

A Kolovai woman was awarded a claim of T$100 damages with court fees of T$3.20 against a 25 year-old Houma man, Fineasi Liu at Nukunuku Police Court last week, for breach of promise to marry her.

The claimant whose name was suppressed, represented by Mr Sekonaia Tu'akoi, told the Court that Liu had promise to marry from the Registrar of the Supreme Court in Nuku'alofa.

The woman said: "To solemnize our marriage, we went to Pea where he told me the Rev. Tali Mafi, of the Wesleyan Church would officiate. But when we arrived at Pea, Liu told me that he lost the licence on the way. And so we spent two days there where he twice had intercourse with me," she said.

Liu pleaded not guilty before Magistrate Malū Taumoepeau. He told the Court he was going to marry the woman, but her family came and took the girl away with them and that is why he did not want to marry her.

Liu once again refused the girl when Mr Tu'akoi told him the case would be cancelled if he proceeded with the marriage.

Magistrate Taumoepeau found Liu guilty and awarded the claim of T$100 with court fees bcause Liu failed to fulfil his promise after having an oath and licence to marry the claimant.

Nuts Roll In — But What About Copra

The increased of the price of whole coconut from two seniti to three seniti last Thursday will mean more coconut for the desiccated coconut factory but less copra production for export, the manager of Tonga Copra Board, Mr Sione Kinahoi, says.

A shortage of coconuts in the past three months, forced the board to have its factory working only one week in four.

The factory resumed on Monday after being closed for two weeks. Mr Kinahoi said they have enough coconuts to run the factory until next Tuesday.

He said the situation looked promising after the price of whole coconuts was increased. More coconuts were coming in this week.

"But there is a problem we are going to face. We might have more coconuts than we need to run the factory if all the growers neglect to make copra, which involved more work for them, than collecting whole coconuts and selling them to us.

"In that case we might have less copra for export in future," he added.

Mr Kinahoi said that he was approached by the manager of Niumate Coconut Plantation (the board's major copra supplier) who indicated that they would like to sell their coconuts to the board instead of making copra.

Mail to U.K. Going again

The seven-week British postal workers strike is over advice has been received from the Postmaster-General in London that international mail services are being restored on a gradual basis.

Air mail letters and parcels and surface mail parcels are now being despatched from Tonga, but surface letters are being held until further advice from London.

Air mails and surface parcel mails held in London will be cleared for overseas despatch as early as possible.

The public may now post air mail and surface parcel mail to the United Kingdom.

Peace Corps

Dear Sir.—Having attended the 10th anniversary of the formation of the Peace Corps I was most surprised to find that, in some eyes, a singlet and shorts would appear to be the National Dress of the United States of America. What greater insult could be paid to the Royal guest. Congratulations to the V.S.A. in their conformity to convention.

CONVENTION.

Topicalities

Dear Sir.—

Paper litter, plastic pots
On the beaches
And in favourite picnic spots
Complains about the Government
Playing the ancient game
Of finding someone else to blame?

Ode To Postie

Dear Sir.—

THE BRITISH POSTMAN'S SONG

I'm a Postal Worker; striking is my game
How I'll make you suffer, in my bid for fame
Jackson is our leader; he's a wily bird
Makes old England tremble at his every word.

2. No more silly letters do you have to write.
Telephones are silent in our pay claim fight
Give us what we ask for. What have you to lose?
They may increase the postage to pay our rightful dues.

3. Solo by Jackson :
Hear me valiant strikers. In my fight for you
We've used up all our money and our credit too
We fought a losing battle, and my advice today
Is go back to your duties and earn your daily pay.

4. Final Verse to be sung by all :
Now the strike is over, there's lots of work to do
We'll sort out all the letters and deliver them to you
There's overtime a' plenty to be earned, as well as pay
We'll spend this extra money on our annual holiday.

BARNEY BARNARD.

Salary Revision

Dear Sir.—In these days of learning and knowledge, it is quite disheartening to note that there is still a few who still think as "Patriot" in his comments on salary revision.

"Patriot" suggested "if Government feels that it could afford another salary rise, that this money may be used for the purchase of some type of machinery that could process flour from local crops such as manioc, bananas."

Can it be quaranteed that the farmers would be paid more for their produce to be processed locally than those exported overseas?

Maybe he woud be one of the operators of the machinery and never think of a salary rise for 20 years because people would be poorer.

It is quite fantastic to note that he would not like a raise in salary because people would be poorer.

The well-being of the public depends on the circulation of money locally. So how does he expect money to circulate if it is to be used for the purchase of machinery. Machinery means money sent overseas.

If a farmer brings his crops to be sold in the market, who would be his customers? The average workers – the labourer, clerk, teacher and few of the upper class. Can the average customer buy the farmers crops, at the present rate of wages. No! Far from it!

Selfishness is behind great deal of the problems of Tonga – 30% rise for those with salaries of T$3000 a year, 8% rise for those with T$300 a year. Quite unbelievable, but true!

What I am looking forward to is a raise for the workers of the lower class – namely the labourers, the clerks and the teachers – and a decrease in salary for the Ministers and those higher up. This will lead, I hope, to the benefits for all.

REALITY

Death Sentence

Dear Sir. — In the Supreme Court, last month, Mr Justice Roberts sentenced a man to death.

I am horror-struck, and a positive that mine is not a lone cry, that capital punishment still exists in a religious country such as Tonga.

May I have the audacity to point out then, that capital punishment should be erased from the Law of Tonga. It is said that our Constitution is based on the Ten Commandments and the Law, on the Bible. If this is so, where does capital punishment fits in?

A man has no right to terminate the life of another man, it is contrary to the will of God. In the famous Sermon on the Mount, Jesus pointed out that God equally loves the good and the bad, the saints and the sinners.

Capital punishment belongs to countries who do not recognise Christianity, and therefore has no rightful place in Tonga.

Punishment, I believe, should aim at reforming a person's life rather than doing away with it.

SEARCHER FOR TRUTH.

State of Tonga

Dear Sir.—We hear over the radio interviews with those who stow away and in most cases their reply to the question of why they had stowed away was to seek employment and earn a living.

It is quite apparent that Tonga is one of the poorest countries in the world. But we are lucky in that the wealthy nations are giving us financial aid. The point we must bear in mind is that there are thousands of people who are unemployed.

At present we do not even think about how we could find employment for the people. We are busy computing the amount of money we shall have earned in the interval between one salary revision and another salary revision. We are completely devoid of any plan about starting a project whereby we could give employment for the people of the future.

We are accustomed to the saying that the Government is poor, and that is why the people are new engaging on constructing school buildings, with the aid of overseas funds.

I recall a speech by Her Majesty Queen Sālote during the prize-giving at Tonga College at Nuku'alofa in 1937 in which Her Majesty stated that any student who entered Tonga College woud be very lucky indeed for his education would be free of charge. Today the entrance fee to Tonga College new almost exceeds that of other colleges.

Let us be unselfish and forget about the salary revision and directed by allowing the leaders of our country to visit the market and observe the poor condition of those who have strived to bring the fruits of their labour to be sold in the market. Perhaps if the Ministers do this they will be motivated to purchase machinery which will help these poor people in their struggle to earn a living.

Salary revision can only be implemented when there is enough cash at the disposal of either the Government or the business firms.

We frequently say that Tonga is a Christian Country, but if we think more about the real meaning of Christianity we will arrive at the conclusing that love is the first element. If love comes first, have we considered the northern groups, Ha'apai, Vava'u and the two Niuas? If we are suffering from the harshness of financial difficulties on Tongatapu, how about them, who have no definite means of earning money.

I do not blame the business firms for they afford employment for a lot of people besides being a channel whereby we are able to receive more money which in return is harvested by the Government.

VILIAMI SOAKAI.

Custom

Dear Sir.—This letter is intended as a support of the mode of custom of our poor Kingdom.

There is a trace of hippyism here in Tonga at the present day, but I state vehemently that this is absolutely in no way appropriate for our civilization since Tonga is still under the protection of our Heavenly Father.

VILIAMI EKE.

A Life of Service

Mr Henry Cocker (82) former foreman of the roads, in the Public Works Department and veteran of World War I died in his residence last Wednesday. The picture was taken during his war service years.

Before he joined the Tongan contigent, Mr Cocker was a driver on a temporary basis at the Public Works Department.

In 1937, he was promoted to the post of foreman of roads, (now redesignated as roads supervisor), left vacant by the death of his elder brother Albert.

Henry Cocker held this post until his retirement in 1955. He was succeeded by his younger brother, Roger, who died last year.

Mr Cocker was a foundation member of the Nuku'alofa Club.

He was given an impressive military funeral led by a firing party from the Tonga Defence Force at the Telekava Cemetery last Thursday afternoon.

The graveside service was conducted by Rev. Tevita Tu'ipulotu and assisted by Rev. Sione T. Simiki, who spoke of the service given to the community by the Cocker family, of which Henry was a prominent member.

As the coffin, draped with the Tongan flag was lowered into the vault, the firing party fied three rounds.

Mr Cocker, a grandson of the first British Consul, Mr Joshua Cocker, is survived by his wife Toa'ila, three brothers and two sisters.

TWO TRAINING TO BE TDF OFFICERS

Two young men have been selected for training with the Tonga Defence Force to prepare them for commissions as King's officers. They are Lūpeti Vī (22) and Fetu'utolu Tupou (21).

They are the first young men in the history of the TDF to become direct from school to be selected and trained to be long-service career officers.

The TDF already has two serving Tongan officers.

The new officer cadets began their recruit training at Camp Taliai on March 1. When this is finished they will carry out officer training under the direction of the commander of the TDF until September, when it is hoped they will be able to attend a three-month officer training course in New Zealand.

When this course has been successfully completed they will be commissioned into the TDF as regular officers.

Both Vī and Tupou were educated at Tupou High School where Vī was head prefect and Tupou a prefect. They are both keen sportsmen, playing rugby, tennis and athletics. Tupou was captain of the school first XV and he also played for Kolomotu'a first grade.

Their early days at Camp Taliai have been spent in drill, weapon training, fieldcraft and first aid but they said they were convinced they were going to enjoy the life.

They were finding all they learnt interesting and enjoyed the fellowship of the TDF. Even the discipline of service life was not hard to take, they said.

Vī and Tupou were selected from a final 13 candidates. They said they were very keen to make a success of their new careers and were aware of the the responsibility placed on them by their selection. They hope to have an opportunity to speak to other young people about their training and experiences in the TDF.

Australian Commissioner Presents Credentials

The Australian High Commissioner for Tonga and Fiji, Mr Rowen Frederick Osborn, presented his credentials to His Majesty last week.

He is seen here with His Majesty and H.R.H. Prince Tupouto'a, the Assistant Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

Mr Osborn was born in 1924, and was educated at Adelaide University. In 1948, he joined the then department of External Affairs and has served in Karachi, Tokyo, the Hague and London.

He took up his present appointment in January this year shortly after his predecessor, Mr R. N. Birch was recalled to Canberra.

Mr Osborn is married with one daughter.

Guest House Open Soon On 'Eua

The first and only guest house on 'Eua is expected to open in about three weeks. It is being built by a New Zealander, Mr Lance Collins of Oamaru.

Last week the name of the new guest house was chosen by the Royal Family. It will be known as Taha-kae-afe, which means one in a thousand.

Accommodation for eight will be provided in the guest house which has been built in Tongan style and in Tongan materials.

The four fales will take two people in each and the costs will be about T$5.50 a night, single, or T$10 double, all meals included.

Mr Collins has been in Tonga since May last year. He has travelled widely but says he is convinced he likes Tonga best to live. He has made three previous visits to the Kingdom.

Mr Collins says he hopes the guest house will attract tourists to 'Eua and also people from Tongatapu looking for a place to go for a few days.

The Policewomen of Tonga rehearsing for their passing-out parade tomorrow afternoon.

I had the opportunity to talk with them about their work.

But first, meet the eight policewomen (P.W.C's) : Misses, Simaima Halapua, Ane Kinahoi, Heleine Moala, Paea Kalavi, Saane Inukiha'angana, Mele Ma'afu, Loukinikini Salakielu and Fāpiola Taumoha'apai.

The first three were typists at the Police Department, Tonga Shipping Agency and the Department of Agriculture respectively before becoming P.W.C's. The remaining five were former students of Tonga High School and Tupou High School.

Because women and children total more than half Tonga's population, it was decided a policewomen's squad was needed to handle police matters dealing with them, and to avoid policemen having to handle embrarrasing cases dealing with women and children.

PWCs are trained with 18 police constables, by Chief Inspector Paula Vivili.

I was introduced first to the instructor before he took me to see the policewomen. He looked immaculate in his starched green uniform.

Before the interview got underway, I was introduced to my subjects. Sitting behind their desks, they all looked smart and bright in their uniform of white shirt with short sleeves, navy blue skirt, a belt similar to that worn by policemen and black leather sandals. To top it all is a navy blue beret.

At first, the PWCs were hesitant to talk. I think this was because their instructor was present throughout the interview.

However as we progressed, they began to talk more freely.

I asked them what made them take this job. I received two sets of answers : The first group were attracted by the novelty of the post. To the second lot, being confined to an office as clerks or typists did not appeal much to them, and consequently the present job appeared ideal.

The day's work starts at six o'clock with a worship period which the trainees must attend. This is followed by their morning run.

Drill is from 7 am to 8.15 am and then they are dismissed for breakfast. Lessons extend from 9 am until 4.30 pm with an hour for lunch.

Games are from 5 pm to 6 pm. After tea at 7 o'clock, PWCs and PCs report to their classroom for two hours of study before they retire for the night.

All lights must be out by 11pm.

The PWCs admitted that they found it hard at first to adapt themselves to this daily routine, particularly getting up before six o'clock in the morning. During classes they were overcome with physical exhaustion and drowsiness.

The training of PWCs does not concentrate on one aspect of life. As Chief Inspector Vivili told me, their training involves the mind and body. To be a successful policewoman, one has to consider both.

Subjects taught include criminal law and evidence, the art of self defence, life saving, etiquette, first aid, public speaking, English and shooting.

Unarmed combat is taught by the Minister of Police, Hon 'Akau'ola every Tuesday evening.

On two occasions, the trainees have carried out dummy shooting at Fua'amotu, about 18 miles out from Nuku'alofa.

Surprisingly, the first shooting session was won by Miss Moala, much to the annoyance of her male colleagues.

The PWCs all agreed that they were not in the least apprehensive when they first handled a rifle.

The PWCs, in their smart sporting outfit - white shirt and grey trousers, demonstrated for me a mock shooting. With envious eyes, I watched these eight women handling the deadly weapon with cool confidence.

Later, I was invited to observe with the PWCs a mock home-brew raid scene conducted by the Police Mobile Unit.

PWCs are permitted to visit their homes on Saturdays and Sundays, but they are expected back on the premises by 6 pm.

As part of an all-round training, Chief Inspector Vivili took his class to dinner (at the trainees own expense) to the International Dateline Hotel.

The PWCs' quarters are a four-roomed house which provides them with comfortable living. They even have hot water.

The most senior PWC, Miss Halapua said that they take turns in cleaning their house. But each is responsible for her own bedroom. Daily inspection is done by the Chief Inspector. Those who do not meet the necessary requirements, may not be permitted to go out during the weekend.

Saturday night is movie time.

The social life of the eight PWCs may appear to be restricted. But they do not seem to to mind this. Their time is fully taken up with their studies to allow them to think much about the social side of life.

Chief Inspector Vivili commented highly on the progress the eight women have made during their training.

Outstanding results have been obtained from them, he said and sometimes they have proved themselves superior to their male colleagues.

After tomorrow's passing out parade, the PWC will have a week's holiday before taking up their assignments in the Police Force.

Nearly Everyone Affected By Dental Decay

Dental decay affects the teeth of practically everybody at some stage. Inflammation of the gums or periodontal diseases affect also quite a large proportion of the population, usually later in life, says a World Health Organisation report.

In remote and primitive areas, periodontal diseases tend to predominate and often cause serious consequences to general health. In urbanizing societies on the other hand, there is a dramatic rise in the prevalence of caries.

In the South Pacific area perhaps half of the children of school age already have some dental decay.

In remote areas periodontal diseases often become severe because of neglect and absence of dental staff to give treatment. Consequences to general health include local and spreading sepsis, abscesses, osteomyelitis, and dispersal to other parts of the body, including possible effects on the heart and other organs.

SPECIFIC PATTERN

Each country of the South Pacific has quite a specific pattern of dental disease. The natural foods of the Pacific Islands are mostly relatively high in fluoride content. This element helps in the formation of sound tooth structure and gives a measure of protection against dental decay.

This sweet potato, taro, yam, coconut and the fish locally available all provided fluoride, in the traditional type of diet. However with the change to imported foods, the fluoride content of the diet has decreased drastically.

At the same time refined carbohydrates have been introduced instead of the less refined natural carbohydrate foods. The refined carbohydrates, including refined flour and sweetened products, hasten the processes of fermentation and dental decay.

The lack of trained dentists giving regular treatment from an early age, and this change in dietary pattern, with introduction of western-type foods, particularly in the town populations, have greatly accelerated the rise in dental decay.

HIGHLY VALUABLE

Fluoridation of water supplies can give a 60% reduction in the dental caries prevalence. Fluoridation can best be introduced where there are urban water supplies systems operating. In the South Pacific area progress in this field is slow.

The feasibility of implementation is still a problem. A very careful control of the water supply system is necessary since fluoride is a highly toxic element if taken in undue amount. Therefore it is unsafe to introduce water fluoridation when absolute safety in the management of the waterworks cannot be assured. Because of the lack of trained personnel, this also can raise problems.

There are several alternative ways of providing fluoride. The possibility of using fluoride mouthwashes extensively, in areas where water fluoridation is not feasible, is under consideration.

One of the major problems in dental health is the shortage of specialized personnel. There is a severe shortage of both dentists and auxiliary dental personnel in almost all countries in the South Pacific.

TOOTHBRUSH DRILL

Much of the dental ill-health could be combatted, particularly in schools by dental health education with toothbrushing drill, plus simple dental care which could be given by auxiliary dental personnel. Dental care should begin even earlier – during the pre-school years.

There is a need to train and utilize more auxiliary dental personnel in most countries and so to take the load off the shoulders of the professional dentists. There is also a need to utilize other health personnel including doctors, nurses and also health teachers in schools, to promote dental health education and so to reduce the amount of dental disease which is developing.

TONGATAPU'S WELL WATER IS A PRECIOUS NATURAL RESOURCE

By ALAN JACKSON

Tongatapu's well-water supply comes from an unusual natural reservior. If exploited without full knowledge of its nature the fresh-water accumulation could easily be permanently damaged, hence the need for scientific investigation and control, now being planned by the United Nations organisation, ECAFE.

The whole of Tongatapu beneath its cover of soil consists of a considerable, but unknown, thickness of highly porous coral limestone, which acts as the water reservoir.

It is in communication with the sea on all sides, so one might expect that the limestone would be saturated with saltwater. However, part of the abundant rainfall on land seeps down into the limestone reservoir, displaces the salt water, as it does not readily mix with it, and forms a freshwater lens floating on heavier saltwater. This lens must be thickest in the central parts of the island, and thins in all directions to the coast where it dies out.

Water level is approximately at, or just above, sea-level which explains why wells on the highest part of the island have to be dug the deepest before they reach water.

The diagram illustrates conditions that exist.

The size of the freshwater lens, once it has reached a maximum, as it has done in Tongatapu, will never increase.

Excess rainwater seeping into the reservoir will flow out at or near the sea coast as freshwater springs.

Conversely, and this very important, if more freshwater is taken out than can be replaced by rainfall, saltwater will be drawn in and local mixing then takes place which will ruin at least part of the freshwater reservoir.

Three main things have to be established before a freshwater lens, such as that on Tongatapu, can be used to best advantage. These are :—

1. How thick and extensive is the freshwater lens?
2. What is the safe rate of withdrawal?
3. How many wells, and how situated to extract the water?

When this knowledge is available a safe rate and pattern of extraction must be enforced, to maintain a steady and reliable water supply.

Another very important aspect of such a water supply it its susceptibility to pollution.

The rainwater which percolates through the soil into the limestone reservoir, can carry with it any contamination present at or just below the surface. Such things as sewage, and rotting vegetable and animal matter are particularly hazardous.

Very careful chemical and bacterial testing of the water, on a routine basis, is necessary to check on such pollution.

Prevention is better than cure and, ideally, adequate facilities for main drainage, sewage treatment and refuse disposal should solve the problem. Otherwise, once polluted, a chemical water treating and filtration plant is the only answer.

As population increases, which it is doing in Tonga at an alarming rate, (there will be 100,000 people on Tongatapu alone, by 1993 and 200,000 by the year 2016 if present trends continue) the need for water grows, but so does the possibility of pollution due to the increasing volumes of waste of all kinds.

Rainwater catchment will, at best, supply a decreasing proportion of domestic needs, on an unreliable basis.

The well-water supply of Tongatapu is a very precious, and very fragile natural resource. It must be carefully defined, and its use regulated scientifically to prevent squandering it now, and ruining it for the future.

Fiji's Premier May Speak For Tonga

The Prime Minister of Fiji, Ratu Sir Kamisese Mara, may make submissions about aid matters on behalf of Tonga and Western Samoa when he visits Australia next month, says the Fiji Times.

He told a news conference in Suva that island leaders planned to meet in Nuku'alofa, capital of Tonga, at the annual meeting of the Pacific Islands Producers' Association on April 21.

One of the main reasons he had asked whether it was possible for the leaders of Tonga, Samoa and Fiji to meet in Nuku'alofa was that he wanted to find out about their views on Australia's aid to the Pacific.

He said he would be going to Australia on April 27.

"I may be able to put their case as well as ours to Australia," Ratu Sir Kamisese added.

On the question of a Pacific regional shipping line, Ratu Sir Kamisese said this suggestion was not new.

It went back to the 1956 South Pacific Conference meeting at Nasinu.

He had been chairman of one committee and the King of Tonga had been chairman of another, and both committees recommended common shipping services for the islands.

Nothing more had been heard about the recommendations. This had been one of the things that had cooled the King's enthusiasm.

The Prime Minister said it had also "put my back up."

Generous Gift By Church Of Niue

The Church of Niue Island has sent $200 to the National Council of Churches in New Zealand to support the World Council of Churches' rehabilitation programme following the tidal wave in East Pakistian in November.

The director of Christian World Service, Mr F. G. Heard, said: "This $361 total is a really splendid effort from so small a population. On the same per capita basis, New Zealand would need to contribute $200,000."

T$50,000 Tonga Handicrafts To Be Sold To Hawaii

Mr Matekitonga and Mr Tupouniua inspect some of the Tongan handicrafts they will export to Hawaii.

The Tonga Trading Company in Honolulu will spend more than T$50,000 in buying the Kingdom's handicrafts to sell in Hawaii this year, the general manager Mr Mulikiha'amea Matekitonga said in Nuku'alofa this week.

The company was established in November last year.

Mr Matekitonga said that the purpose of the company was not to make money but to elevate the economy of the Kingdom.

He feels that through the export of handicrafts, the people of Tonga will not only receive financial help, but assistance in retaining their skills at making handicrafts.

Late last year, Mr Matekitonga purchased T$5000 worth of handicrafts from Langafonua Women Association and individual handicraft makers and these are now on sale in Honolulu.

This first shipment met with the approval of the buyers and was highly praised for its quality.

Mr Matekitonga said: "We had a breakthrough in having the honour to be the first supplier of the Polynesian handbags to one of the most respected stores in Hawaii, the Alamoana Shopping Centre.

"Sear, Roebuck and Co. also buy handicrafts from us," he added.

The Bishop Museum bought a dozen of each items in the first shipment for their gift shop.

Mr Matekitonga announced the appointment of Mr Tesimoni Tupouniua as the company representative in Tonga.

Yesterday, he bought T$6000 worth of handicraft, the biggest single purchase in Tonga, which included a majority of Tongan hand-made jewellery, different sizes and qualities of baskets, beads and pieces of tapa.

These goods will be shipped to Suva on Saturday by "Aoniu" and then transhipped to Honolulu.

Mr Matekitonga will leave also on Saturday for Honolulu. But he is due back early next month to purchase T$10,000 - T$12,000 worth of handicrafts.

Four "Marco Polo" Seamen Just Miss Their Boat

Three stewards and a sailor from the "Marco Polo" were left behind when the cruiseship left Nuku'alofa for Suva on Saturday afternoon.

The men were on a sightseeing tour of the island and arrived at Fāua harbour after the last launch had left for the ship. Although the "Marco Polo" had not yet weighed anchor, the pontoon tied to the ship to facilitate landing from the launches was being towed ashore.

The "'Alaimoana" was chartered by the men to take them to the "Marco Polo". After several unsuccessful attempts to bring the vessel close to the cruiseship, they had to give up for fear of smashing the "'Alaimoana" against the "Marco Polo".

The seamen all Chinese and holders of British passports, left for Suva by air on Monday to join their ship.

The four were looked after in Police Training School at the request of the captain of the "Marco Polo" to the Minister of Police.

Tour Firm has new brochure

A fullcolour brochure of the Kingdom of Tonga has been released this week by Tonga Enterprises Tourist Agent Ltd. (TETA).

Besides the five striking colour photographs, the brochure describes the Kingdom's location, climate, people and languages, air and sea services, entry requirements and scenic points of interest.

The manager, Mr Sione M. Lemoto said that his company is planning to expand this year to cope with tourist requirements.

"We have just opened an office at the Dateline Hotel and my brother Tonga is soon to joint us. He has graduated from a travel school in California," Mr Lemoto said.

Peace Corps Interviews

The Director of Peace Corps in Tonga, Mr Elmer Skold is in Washington to interview candidates for the next Peace Corps intake.

Those selected will be mainly technically skilled volunteers. About 20 volunteers will be assigned to Tonga.

Training will begin in Hawaii on the May 1 and the volunteers should be in Tonga by the middle of July.

FAMILY PLANNING CONFERENCE

The president of the Family Planning Association Mr Lupeti Finau will represent Tonga at the International Planned Parenthood Federation annual conference at Bagino, Philippines, March 17–27.

Mr Finau is expected to leave for Bagino early next week. His travelling and accommodation expenses will be met by the federation.

Charles Tu'a-'Ofa-'Eiki Havea, son of Dr and Mrs John A. Havea, has been awarded a United Methodist Scholarship by the board of education of the United Methodist Church. A student of Texas Wesleyan College, Fort Worth, he is a humanities-religion major.

All St. Andrews now at New School site

The whole of St Andrew's School came together on Monday at the school's new site.

Two-hundred-and-fifty students who were using the old school in town have now joined the senior classes and have moved into a new seven-roomed building costing T$9000. The picture shows some of the children standing outside the building and in the foreground is the headmaster, Mr H. R. Hornsby.

Much of the building on the new school site has yet to be completed. Work is concentrated on the completion of a two-storey building in which the ground floor will be a library and upstairs a flat for staff.

The old school will be used as a parish hall.

His Majesty, King Taufa'ahau Tupou IV opened the new T$25,000 school at Maile Taha in October last year.

The school this year has a roll of 520 students.

Nurses Told: Go Back or Go!

Notice To Government Nurses Who Are On Strike

His Majesty's Government has given careful consideration to the question of the nurses who are on strike, and had decided to advise them, by means of this notice, that they are given the opportunity of returning to duty within 24 hours from the time this notice is first broadcast by Radio ZCO, 7.15 p.m. on Wednesday, March 24, 1971. Failing that they will be dismissed from the Civil Service as from March 19, 1971, when they went on strike.

His Majesty's Government has further directed that all nurses who are on strike and who return to duty by 7.15 p.m. on March 25, 1971, will not receive any salary for the period they were on strike and they will be subjected to disciplinary action.

(Signed) Secretary to Civil Service Staff Board.

Petitions Being Considered

By The Editor

Cabinet is still considering what action it will take over the petition from the nurses for improved pay and conditions which has resulted in the strike.

The nurses' petition, along with others, including the clerks, was received by Cabinet at a meeting early this month. They were all referred to the Civil Service Staff Board for consideration.

The Staff Board in turn has been discussing the petitions and preparing submissions for Cabinet.

In the meantime, the clerks, who had asked for a reply to their petition by March 16, received written acknowledgement telling them their claims were being considered by the Staff Board.

The nurses, in a personal approach to the Secretary of the Staff Board asking for a reply to their petition, claimed they had also given March 16 as a deadline, but no such date appears in their original letter.

Their spokesman informed the secretary the nurses would strike unless they received a satisfactory reply from Cabinet.

An acknowledgement of the nurses' petition was prepared by the Secretary, informing them that Cabinet had referred it to the Staff Board who were in the process of preparing submissions. The letter was sent to the nurses' spokesman, through the Director of Health, Dr. S. Foliaki, who met the nurses last Friday and read the letter to them. He asked them to consider it and let him know their reaction.

Dr. Foliaki heard nothing more from the nurses and later that day they left the hospital on strike.

Better Wages And Conditions Wanted

Unfavourable salary and conditions of service were the main reasons why the 62 senior staff and student nurses went on strike at Vaiola Hospital in Nukualofa, Niu'ui at Pangai, Ha'apai and Prince Ngū at Vava'u, since last Friday said the secretary of a nurses association, Miss Mele Vea Matekuolava.

A petition signed by 69 members of the nursing staff was handed to the Prime Minister, Prince Tu'ipelehake, on February 19, requesting the Government to reconsider their salary according to service.

Miss Vea said that in their petition they stated they would go on strike if Cabinet had not replied to their letter within a month.

The nurses claimed that they worked 48 – 60 hours a week and were always on call at no extra pay or overtime. Other civil servants working only 40 hours a week do get overtime payment.

The nurses' said in a printed statement distributed to the public this week that their daily responsibilities are far too much, as a nurse has to look after about 30 patients at daytime and about 50 at night.

Patients Still Well Cared For

Voluntary help from unemployed nursing sisters, ex-staff nurses, Girls Guides, Red Cross and the public have poured into Vaiola Hospital since the 62 nurses went on strike on Friday afternoon.

The Acting Matron, Mrs A. Fineanganofo said the hospital has never issued any call for assistance but they are greatly moved by the invaluable service and the interest they are receiving from the public.

"After the strikers left we were still adequately staffed, but now we are even better staffed with the outside help," she said.

Volunteers who have some nursing skill help with injections, dressing of wounds, and other nursing procedures. The rest carry out the domestic chores, feeding the patients and delivering messages.

Mrs Fineanganofo added that all district nurses in Tongatapu immediately reported to Vaiola when the news of the strike reached them.

On Saturday, the dispensary was closed and all cases normally dealt with by this branch were transferred to the main hospital.

"This was not because we lacked the staff, but was an attempt to pull all our efforts together," Mrs Fineanganofo said.

There were about 90 patients in hospital, and Mrs Fineanganofo emphasized that all are being properly cared for.

"Since the strike no serious cases have had to be admitted," she added.

Fourteen nursing sisters, three senior, five junior staff, six student and 22 preliminaries nurses (recruited last month) at Vaiola Hospital and one senior staff nurse at Niu'ui Hospital refused to go on strike.

All the nursing staff at Vava'u went on strike. But two of the Tongatapu staff nurses who were on holiday volunteered to help and have gone to Vava'u.

The three staff nurses at Niu'ui Hospital who went on strike last Friday returned to work on Monday afternoon.

DEAR SIR . . Letters To The Editor

Philate-lick

Dear Sir.—
The stamp collector of today
Can make his albums bright and gay
With stamps of many different hues
From carmine – reds to Prussian blues;
Stamps of varied shapes and sizes –
All dressed up in strange disguises;
Crowns and crosses, hearts and stars,
Coins and nuts, a boxer spars;
Athletes and bananas too
With maps of island Tongatapu;
Overprints - sometimes double;
Inperforates that cause much trouble,
Have all appeared from Sixty Eight
In Tonga's stamp issues to date
They're colourful and well conceived.
They must be seen to be believed.
However nice, I'm dedicated
To good old-fashioned perforated;
Square and oblong, are my pick
Could we for once have stamps to lick?

BARNEY BARNARD.

Salary Revision

Dear Sir.—The recent salary revision is a problem only Tongans can solve.

A raise in salary will only be made possible if the heads sympathisize with their various departments.

I hope discontentment does not occur because of a few priveleged ones, because it will do nobody any good if these few were to be brought to the original level again.

Remember that every application for Government post ends with, "Your obedient servant", then your name.

Despite that, I believe the problem stems from the fact that the workers always count on their heads for help. It is a point of sadness to realise that this does not often work out.

It seems to me that what the workers want is for their heads to remain where they are, and bring them (workers) up to a satisfactory level.

But it seems that what the head want is to squeeze every seniti out of the workers in order to build their lot higher and higher.

I wish that mutual love could exist between the workers and their heads of department, because only us Tongans can solve this problem.

WILLING HELPER.

Justice

Dear Sir. — During the last few years certain Government Departments (Tonga Copra Board, Produce Board and recently the Water Board) experienced tremendous losses resulting in the suspension or dismissal of a number of civil servants.

The magnitude of those losses surely warranted detailed investigations into the workings of the departments. Further, steps to see that justice to the Tongan economy was duly carried out should have been taken—even to the point of having court cases if the evidence pointed to cases of embezzlement.

The losses of the Tonga Copra and Produce Boards meant a significant loss of confidence by the growers in the two Boards in particular, and in the Government in general. The growers argue that if a man is brought to court for stealing a chicken or a pig, then, any civil servant who is found to be responsible for losses of Government property which run into thousands of dollars (or even a dollar) should also be brought before a judge or a commission of inquiry.

There should also be attempts by the Government to devise methods of preventing recurrences of similar unfortunate losses, for the Tongan economy just cannot afford any such costly mismanagement.

As there are a great number of people who are interested, and rightly so, in the various aspects of the above-mentioned losses, I would like to ask the Acting Minister of Finance, the Hon. Dr S. Tapa, if he could kindly answer the following questions :

1. What steps has the Government taken or intends to take to carry out a proper and detailed investigation into the losses under discussion?
2. Would the Government penalise, in proportional measures, any proven cases of exceedingly irresponsible losses or embezzlement?
3. What steps, if any, has the Government decided to take to prevent future occurrences of needless and ill-afforded losses in Government Departments or its branches?

JUSTICE.

The Acting Minister of Finance, Dr Tapa, is being asked if he is prepared to reply to these questions — Editor.

Nurses Strike

Dear Sir. — The nurses strike is something new for Tonga. All the nurses who are on strike are daughters of Tongan citizens. These are the people King George Tupou I granted emancipation and freedom without having to go on strike or to take up arms.

Almost 80% of these nurses have relatives and elderly people to support. The Government and Churches spend money on their education. Their parents sacrificed almost everything to have them educated.

So the interest of each and everyone of them is something deeper than one may think.

Whether the strike will achieve anything or not is a different thing. The important thing however is that we must remember we are dealing with people and not just things and I believe that the wealth of Tonga is its people.

If the nurses are to be dismissed what would that achieve? It will not stop striking, because one cannot turn back the clock and progress is progressive.

A solution must be found and I am not suggesting that what King George I did is the solution. This is up to the appropriate authority to deal with and I know that they will come up with a solution acceptable to all.

HUMBLE CITIZEN.

Family Planning

Dear Sir. — Family planning is indeed a most worthwhile project, but it grieves me to see this country turning a blind eye to it.

Most often, the youths that upset the people's freedom, are the very ones who come from large families. These youths take to the road for the sole reason that their parents could not afford to provide them with a comfortable and decent living. The same applied to the girls who roam the streets day and night.

Some may say that having large families is pleased gift from God. But allow me to say that what the Bible means by "be fruitful and multiply", is to reproduce sensibly, to ensure a healthy and normal life to each and everyone of your children.

Please take heed of what the Family Planning personnel are talking about—it will save us a lot of unnecessary problems in the present as well as in the future!

DOCTOR TALIEFU.

A SAD SITE

Dear Sir.—One of the most heartbreaking and saddest sights in Nuku'alofa today is the foundations of the Queen Sālote Memorial Hall, next door to Tonga High School.

Before this memorial hall came to its pitiful state of construction, there was a committee created by the Prime Minister, for the purpose of taking up everything to do with the building of the memorial hall, in honour of Tonga's most beloved Sovereign, Queen Salote Tupou III.

Members of the Queen Sālote Memorial Hall Committee were the nobles and the district and town officers of the Kingdom.

This parent committee created another committee, known as the sub-committee, which includes new members and only one representative from each of the three main groups comprising the parent committee, namely nobles, district officers and town officers. The Hon. Chairman of the Legislative Assembly, was nominated as chairman of the parent committee. He was also appointed as the chairman of the sub-committee.

Of all the nobles of the Kingdom, only the chairman and their one representative on the sub-committee, have been working hard with other members of the sub-committee, to achieve the object for which the parent committee was created.

Eventually, the construction of the memorial hall was started. Then the work stopped. Since then, no one has heard of any attempt to continue the work. Why? I thought it was announced over ZCO that the funds colected went over the £20,000 limit? Is the construction work stopped because the sum collected has already been spent? Since the public freely donated money for the construction of the hall, it's only fair that the sub-committee's financial statements be published in the Chronicle for all to see. In this way the general public will know just how much more money is needed to complete the hall.

Where are the nobles of the Kingdom who are enjoying over 60% of the Crown's Land, that is over 60% of the total land area of Tonga? Where are the district and town officers who are enjoying special privileges in their districts and villages and are being paid for it by His Majesty's Government? These are Tonga's social leaders and they are ducking their responsibilities.

One is reminded of the missionarie's records of some of King Taufa'ahau Tupou I instructions to the nobles, when the people were emancipated in 1962. The King was asked by the nobles what will they do about food now that he had freed all their servants. The King replied, "You must all go to the bush and plant some food crops if you want to eat." What a classical answer.

The Queen Salote Memorial Hall parent committee and sub-committee must be revived and reorganised. The people of Tonga must participate actively by contributing funds, even if only a few cents at a time, to help build this hall of memory to an outstanding person, a Tongan, whose personal contributions to Tonga in many ways, are of immeasurable benefits to Tonga today and generations to come.

The Last Pair Of Rugby Boots In Tonga

Club teams might have play in bare feet at the opening of the 1971 rugby football season on Easter Saturday, April 10, became most of the players have no rugby boots.

In a survey made by the Chronicle this week, only one pair of rugby boots was available for sale in the Nuku'alofa main stores.

They were size 11, costing T$13.74 at Morris Hedstrom Ltd.

E .M. Jones Ltd is expecting to have 120 pairs from Australia on the Niuvākai which is due here next Thursday.

Līpoi Tupou's store has ordered 30 pairs from Suva for the Lōtolu Club, but is awaiting confirmation.

No rugby boots are on order by the other stores.

Rugby players might have to use soccer boots as one club in senior B did last year.

There are 75 pairs of soccer boots available at E. M. Jones Ltd., Ramanlal & Sons and B. Bhagwan & Sons ranging from T$5.55 – T$7.40 a pair.

The secretary of the rugby union, Mr Siaosi Pālelei gave notice to all rugby clubs that their players should be in formal rugby uniform at the opening of the season. When he was told of the shortage of rugby boots, Mr Pālelei said the union would discuss the situation.

Mr Pālelei said, "We don't want them to play bare feet, but the opening date of the season won't be deferred because of this."

The secretary of the Vava'u Rugby Union, Mr Sione Sika Manuao is here with the Vava'u soccer team. He said yesterday that Vava'u had also experienced a shortage of rugby boots.

CAMPAIGN TO CURB STICK INSECTS

A campaign to control stick insect on coconut palms has been initiated by the Coconut Replanting Scheme for growers on Tongatapu.

The service is free and will at present be confined to Tongatapu only.

All the coconut grower has to do to get this service is to tell the Coconut Replanting Scheme at Matāliku his name and address, the location of the land and the approximate number of palms attacked by stick insects.

The staff of the scheme will then visit the allotment or estate and treat the palms.

Nurses Strike

The present salary paid to them is:

1st year student - T$5.63 a fortnight.

2nd year student - T$6.38 a fortnight.

Junior Staff Nurse - T$7.13 a fortnight.

The salary paid, excluding 30 seniti for their daily ration allowance, is inadequate compared with the present cost of living, the nurses' said.

They also asked the government to define the time of their promotion as under the present conditions they did not know how many years they should work as a junior staff nurse before becoming a senior staff nurses.

The nurses said they had decided to go on strike until their salary and conditions are improved.

Not Recruiting

A denial was made yesterday by the Marine Superintendent, Captain Chris Hill-Willis that there was any recruiting going on at the present time, by the Tonga Shipping Agency, for Tongan staff for overseas ships.

Captain Hill-Willis said the public will be informed when staff is required for training.

Election To Fill Seat In House

The resignation of the people's representative, Mr Vili 'Ahio Vaipulu from his seat in the House should result in an election for the vacant seat, according to the Legislative Assembly's procedure.

In the Legislative Assembly's Law Cap. 4, Part 1, section 6 says :

"6. If any representative shall die or shall resign his seat or shall cease to be qualified for election under clauses twenty-three and sixty-five of the Constitution or be unseated in accordance with clause sixty-six of the Constitution or section nine of this Act, his seat in the Legislative Assembly shall thereupon become vacant and the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly shall issue a writ for the election of a successor. The Premier shall thereupon fix the time and place of such election and the person elected thereat shall hold office for the balance of the term of his predecessor."

A decision on an election date has not yet been made.

Mr Vaipulu is now attending the Lincoln University Law School in California, U.S.A. where he passed two units towards law degree.

A letter from Mr Vaipulu received last week said he resigned his seat as he wishes to gain further education in law before returning to Tonga.

Scheme to Increase Beef Production

The Department of Agriculture has just put into operation its cattle subsidy scheme aimed at helping those farmers that already have a few head of cattle to build up their herds.

In the first stages assistance will be given towards fencing and improving pasture.

Through the scheme barbed wire can be purchased with a 50% subsidy, free siratro seed will be distributed and existing water supplies reticulated to suitable access points.

Those taking part will also be able to purchase at a subsidised price cross-bred Santa Gertrudis bull calves from the department to use to upgrade their stock.

Any farmer interested in the scheme should contact the Department of Agriculture for full details.

AIR PACIFIC "CERTAIN" TO BE NEW NAME

Fiji Airways is almost certain to adopt the name of Air Pacific instead of Pacific Islands Airways, says a Fiji Times report.

"It woud appear most likely that it will be adopted in due course, but not immediately, because of some difficulties involved," the general manager of Fiji Airways, Captain A. J. R. Duffield, said.

Fiji Airways was to have gone over to the name of Pacific Islands Airways from April 1.

Captain Duffield said that as Pacific Airway Ltd had been registered, the company would operate under this name from April.

But it was probable that its aircraft would continue to fly under the present colours and names of Fiji Airways.

He said the airline's board would meet in Suva on March 31 to consider an offer under which the name of Air Pacific, now held by the private company which operates internal air services in Fiji, could be taken over.

Where Time Begins

Nuku'alofa, Thursday, April 1, 1971 Vol.VII. No. 43 3 Senit

BUSY BEE BUSINESS POSSIBLE

Cabinet has agreed in principle to a proposal to set up a bee business in Tonga. in conjunction with New Zealand partners, but controlled by Tongans.

A meeting of potential subscribers will be held on Monday, in the Magistrate's Court, Nuku'alofa, at 5 p.m.

For the past 18 months the Department of Agriculture has been delving into the production of honey in Tonga. Many will have tried the honey which has been sold locally, and in general the reaction has been favourable.

Favourable reaction has also been received from New Zealand where two of the leading agriculturalists, Mr Dudley Ward, president of the Central Hawkes Bay Branch of National Beekeepers Association, and Mr Jasper K. Bray one of the largest beekeepers in Canterbury have come together and proposed to the Government of Tonga that a local company should be formed in Tonga to produce honey on a commercial scale.

In association with honey production it is proposed to produce beeswax for export and even more lucrative in the proposal to produce queen bees for export. This is subject to a clearance from the New Zealand authorities that the Tongan bees possess no diseases that do not exist in New Zealand and would be suitable for import into New Zealand.

To investigate this aspect of the proposal, Mr R. S. Walsh, the New Zealand Government Agricultural Adviser is in Tonga carrying out a survey of the bees in Tongatapu, and reports that so far he veiws the situation with considerable optimism.

TONGAN HANDS

His Majesty's Cabinet has considered the proposal and has agreed in principle to the setting up of the company, but have made it clear that the control of the company should be in Tongan hands. It is suggested that the New Zealand partners should hold 48% of the shares of the company and that Tongans should hold 52%.

Of this 52% the Government is expected to provide a little and it is hoped that residents of Tonga will subscribe the remainder.

Over a period of 4 years the total capital requirement will be $55,000 of which Tonga's share will be $28,620, subscribed as follows :— First year - $6250, second year - $6250, third year - $4160 and fourth year - $11,960. The projected returns from this investment from the sale of honey, beeswax and queens which will be shared on the 52/48 basis are :— Third year - $6400, fourth year - $11,000, fifth year - $14,000, sixth year - $14,000.

30 HIVES

The scheme will be operated with a number of 'outyards', each containing about 30 hives, and a rental for the land would be $10 a year. Each yard would be approximatetly 25 yards square and situated at least a mile from the next yard.

Owners of the yard would, apart from the rent, receive about 30 lb of honey during each season and would not have to carry out any work in the yard, apart from ensuring that it was not interfered with by unauthorised persons.

Preferably the yards will be situated in quiet areas where there is little or no traffic.

Although at present the project has not received the 'go ahead', it is proposed to hold a meeting of potential subscribers in order to assess how much interest there is from the community, and gauge the available capital for the venture. At the meeting, papers will be available providing full details of the proposal and an attempt will be made to answer questions.

Copra Drops

Copra prices being paid to producers for April show a marked drop on last month.

The new price announced by the Tonga Copra Board is :

First grade, T$101.90 a ton.

Second grade, T$89.90 a ton.

Last month's prices were T$116.80 and T$104.80 respectively.

The board says that during the past month there has been a further decline in the world copra market and the average price for sales was approximately T$10 below the previous month.

The board said it was regretted it was not possible to maintain the present local prices.

The Hon. Ve'ehala is holding the winning poster in the tourist poster and photograph competition sponsored by the Tourist Visitors' Bureau and Art Club, decided on Tuesday. The winner was Sister Mary Flavian, St Mary's Convent, Ma'ufanga.

The other judges in the picture are the tourist officer, Mr Peter Wallis (left) Sione Hu'akau and Mr Justice Roberts.

The photographic section was won by Mr August Hettig, Kolofo'ou.

Other prize-winner were – Art section : Sister Susan, St Mary's Convent and Mr Joshua Fonua, Visual Aids Centre. Photographic section : Mr Randy Thaman, Tonga High School and the third prize also went to Mr Hettig.

The judges said they were impressed with the quality and quantity of the entries. The organisers said they were gratified by the response and thanked all competitors.

Cabinet Warning To Civil Servants

The Government has issued a warning to civil servants who might be considering striking as a means of pressing their claims for increased salaries and changes in terms of service.

A circular from Cabinet last week informs all civil servants that "the Government will give serious consideration to the dismissal from the service of any officer who absents himself from duty due to strike action."

DEAR SIR . . . Letters To The Editor

By-election

Dear Sir. — The article in your newspaper last week said that a by-election is necessary to fill the vacant seat in the Tonga Legislature which Vili 'Ahio Vaipulu has vacated.

I suggest therefore that we check what the Tongan Law says, in the Act 1 of 1914, Clause 76 of the Constitution 1929, 1947 and 1967 it says: "Upon the death or resignation of any representative of the nobles or of the people the Speaker shall immediately command that the nobles or of the people the Speaker shall immediately command that nobles or the electors of the district which he represented shall elect a representative in his place. But the Legislative Assembly shall have the power to sit and act although its membership be not complete."

It is also a matter of interest to know that the Legislative Assembly's Speaker is appointed yearly, the Legislative Assembly for the year 1971 is yet to appoint its Speaker. Such appointment is to be made by His Majesty the King. Until His Majesty appoints one as Speaker then the by-election is possible.

At one time Maile E. Tonga (now Secretary to His Majesty) was representative of the people in the Legislative Assembly. Mr Tonga resigned and took up a post in the Civil Service as Police Magistrate. He was replaced by the late Soane Lino who was the fourth candidate in the previous election. This was in the 40s and yet the Constitution was already there for a by-election.

Whatever the Government attitude, it's my fervent wish that when the Legislative Assembly for the year 1971 opens, the people will be fully represented. They could expedite the matter and have the by-election together with the election for the Town Officers and District Officers in May.

Nurses' Strike

Dear Sir.—The talk of the people now is focused on the nurses' strike. Some people symphasise with the strikers while others condemn them as being selfish in their leaving the patients helpless behind.

Unfortunately, there is no legislation in the kingdom regarding the establishment of unions so as to safeguard the right of employee who may be going on strike. As a result the employers make their decisions about the salaries of their employees according to their own discretion.

From the employers point of view, the nurses' petition appears too excessive, but on other hand the nurses find their salaries and conditions very poor. Although the nurses' complaints had on several occasions been communicated to the Government, no action has been taken to remedy it. The strike by the nurses appeared inevitable considering the inertness of the Government.

Dissatisfaction shown by any people towards certain aspects of management in their country is a sign of progress, say some Government advisors. The strike may be a by-product of our progress but it is surprising to realise that women initiated it. They are standing up for their rights.

Poets' Corner

Dear Sir.—

TO TONGA'S NURSES

To fill the wards with love and cheer;
To give the patients tender care;
To tend a body smashed and torn;
To bathe a baby newly born;
To bind a wound, to ease a pain;
To nurse the dying and insane;
To live a life of dedication
To the sick of this small nation.

BARNEY BARNARD.

* * *

Dear Sir.—
Does Barney really think
It better
Stamps to lick
To stick
Upon a letter?
Briefly I would say
Tongue and gum
Sick in tum
No need to lick a Tongan stamp
Just press with thumb.

H. S. R.

* * *

Dear Sir.—

For the attention of H. S. R.

Oh! What can ail thee, H. S. R.?
Didst thou forsake thy Poetic Muse?
Thy verse is missing from page two
Of last week's news.
In vain we searched from start to end
For satire, ode or eulogy..
Nought did we find but Barney's quips
On ph'lately.
Thou canst not surely let this man
Be Tonga's Poet Laureate!
Let us be judge, thy genius we'll Vociferate.
Oh! wouldst thou only try again!
Say not thou lackest inspiration,
Time or space, and never admit Disinclination.
If thou dost fail next week to prove
Thy worth as writer of great verse,
Barney shall reign supreme always.
Thy fate? — far worse!

BEMUSED.

* * *

Dear Sir.—
There were some smart lasses of Vaiola,
Declared their pay was not quite in order,
All made straight for the beach in a huff
Forgetting their boss can also be tough,
Who soon brought them back to law and order.

GUS.

* * *

Dear Sir.—I am surprised to note that once again the International Dateline Hotel is becoming the meeting house for procurers and ladies of tinted repute. A business friend of mine was swimming in the pool during his recent visit and one of these ladies sat on the edge of the pool, feet dangling in the water, endeavouring to make a sale. The oldest profession in the world is commendable in its place but, is the International Dateline Hotel the right venue for this practice. Yet another sad image of Tonga for our visitors.

VIRTUE.

Salaries

Dear Sir.—I refer to the uneasiness prevailing in Nuku'alofa at present over the inadequatcy of the salaries of certain sectors of the civil service staff. Ever since the establishment of the present constitutional Government, this is the first time, to my knowledge, the clerks and nurses have ever shown any dissatisfaction over their salaries. In the kingdom, in the past 15 years, the Tongans normally render their services willingly irrespective of the amount of salary they receive, because they were so devoted to their services and to the country.

Lying ahead of us is a pleasant and prosperous life. And I deem it not time yet for salaries revision. We perform our jobs because we have obligation toward them. There are in Tonga at present voluntary workers who through their sense of duty and obligation volunteer to help our government. What are we that are Tongans to do?

S. TALAMATANGI.

Death Sentence

Dear Sir.—"Thou shall not kill" is one of the Lord's Commandmants. But Jesus also said, "I came to fulfill the laws." And Jesus made another more interesing remark by saying, "Judge not least ye be judge". (Math. 7:1).

By applying the same analogous construction to the law: "Thou shall not kill" the full intention of it can be thoroughly comprehended. If a person persists in killing other human being, then the reverse will surely be applicable to him. "Thou shall not kill least ye be killed." is the same law in its fullness.

Likewise other laws can be state fully thus: "Thou shall not commit adultery least it be done unto you"; "Thou shall not steal least ye be stolen from"; How could Iesus statement, "I came to fulfill the laws" be justified without the complementary parts added on to the laws.

It is in accordance with the Bible, Christian faith, and religious beliefs to impose death sentence upon the person who has committed murder, for it is the fulfillment of the law. The members of jury and the judge have profounder understanding of the matter in issue than the petitioners.

CURIOUS.

* * *

Dear Sir.—The petitions sent to His Majesty by the Wesleyan Church on the death sentence passed on Leao by the Judge, in my opinion were not petitions at all but were rather a curse imposed upon those appointed by Court and His Majesty in Council in connection with the carrying out of the death sentence.

The Act relating to murder in the Tongan Law is derived directly from one of the Ten Commandments in the Bible: "Thou shall not kill". The petition by the Free Wesleyan Church claims that the capital punishment is contrary to religious beliefs; and adds that those appointed by Court and His Majesty in Council would have guilty consciences if the hanging was carried out.

In my opinion and according to the teaching of the Bible, the particular commandment quoted above was meant for the control of those who intend to contemplate murder, like the prisoner. I do not think, however, that any person who has anything to do with the carrying out of the death sentence will have any guilty conscience, because they likewise have the same obligations to the safety of their country as do the soldiers who by virtue of the laws are sent to war.

Let the Government perform its functions in the enforcement of the laws because it is for the safety of the country. I appeal to all who call themselves Christians to co-operate in teaching to all religious followers the importance of obedience to the invaluable teaching of the Bible especially with regard to living under God's peace.

VERSATILE CHARACTER.

Justice

The Acting Minister of Finance, Dr S. Tapa says he does not wish to answer the three questions asked by "Justice" in last week's Chronicle, as these matters are subjudice. He did say, however, the Tonga Copra Board, the Tonga Produce Board and the Tonga Water Board have made their own decisions on how best to deal with the present losses and the manner in which further losses should be prevented.—Editor.

A MOST UNUSUAL PET

This two-year old frigate bird was captured in Vava'u and given to H.R.H. Prince 'Alaivahamama'o (second son of H.M. King Taufa'āhau Tupou IV) in September last year.

Received as a baby covered with white fluff, it has since grown black feathers and has learnt to fly. It is practicing diving on to the surface of Fanga'uta lagoon without getting its feathers wet.

When fully grown, it will live mostly on flying fish. When these are in short supply, it can always fly menacingly towards slower sea birds causing them to release their fish then swoop down to catch them in mid-air.

Birds in general have provided the inspiration for mankind to design powered aeroplanes. However, the albatross and the frigate bird with their extra long wings and exploitation of air currents, have provided the inspiration for the design of gliders.

Frigate birds have left their mark on the Tongan language.

The Tongan word for a frigate bird is lofa. When kites were invented they were called lofa too after the bird they so much resembled.

When the first Polynesians arrived in Tonga from the north they found a colony of these birds in Ha'apai. They named the island Lofanga meaning a colony of frigate birds.

When Tongatapu was discovered another large sanctuary was in the present site of Nuku-'alofa. This word means island of frigate birds.

ALL'S WELL AT THE HOSPITAL

Hospital routines, are back to normal after 59 of the striking nurses resumed duty on Friday afternoon, says the Acting Matron, Mrs A. Fineanganofo.

One junior staff and two student nurses have still not reported back to Vaiola.

At 7.15 p.m. on Thursday the strikers returned to Vaiola following an audience with the Prime Minister.

The Director of Health, Dr S. Foliaki and Mrs Fineanganofo were at the Nurses' Home on Thursday evening to receive the nurses.

At three o'clock on Friday afternoon the nurses were allocated to their duties after a meeting with the Minister of Health, Dr S. Tapa.

Mrs Fineanganofo said: "As the conditions laid down in the strikers' petition were directly related to their salaries, no adjustments had to be made by the hospital. We are still awaiting decision from Cabinet."

Co-operatives Man Does Well In Fiji

Siola'ā Tu'itupou, Technical Officer Grade II (Agriculture) and attached to Co-operative Development, returned to Tonga from Fiji on Saturday where he took second place in a five week course in co-operative studies under the auspices of the Co-operative Department of Fiji.

His final examination results were: Co-operative book-keeping I, 94%, 2nd; Co-operative book-keeping II, 95% 2nd; Co-operative law, principles and practice, 81%, 3rd; Financial knowledge, 89%, 1st; Store management, 66%, 2nd.

Out of the 35 students taking part in the course, Siola'ā was the only Tongan, all others being Fijian.

Tongan Surveyor Acquiring New Skills In Australia

A Tongan surveyor is in a group of overseas trainees from nine different countries taking course in photogrammetry in Australia.

He is Mr 'Aisake Langi Folaumoetu'i, a surveyor of Kolofo'ou, Nuku'alofa.

His six-months' training in Australia is sponsored by the Australian Government as part of its international aid programme under the South Pacific Aid Programme. The training of the other participants of the course is similarly sponsored under the same scheme, or under the Colombo Plan or Special Commonwealth African Assistance Plan.

The main objective of the course is to provide theoretical instructions and practical exercises in the principles of aerial surveying, and the general theory and application of photogrammetric plotting and triangulation for surveying and mapping purposes.

It will also provide lectures in supervision and methods of instruction for those trainees who are to assume supervisory role in photogrammetry in their native country.

As part of their training, the trainees are first attending a six-weeks' Summer School of Photogrammetry conducted at the Faculty of Surveying, University of Melbourne.

After this, the trainees will be dispersed for individual practical training with one of the mapping authorities in the various Australian States where photogrammetric practices are employed.

During their practical exercise, the trainees will be instructed how to operate the most modern photogrammetric equipment, including the B-8 Stereomat which produces automatically orthophotos for maps.

FIRST COUNTRY

Australia is a big continent, covering 2,967,741 square miles, and its survey and mapping services have had extensive experience of a kind which could be useful to the trainees' home countries.

Australia was the first country in the world to adopt in 1957 the tellurometer for surveying and mapping. It revolutionised surveying to such an extent that two to four surveyors with the help of the tellurometer can survey a distance of 30 miles within a few hours. Previously this would have taken a team of 20 surveyors several months.

The tellurometer is a radar-type electronic instrument which sends out radio-waves from one point to a receiver up to 40 miles away and registers return signals. This gives accurate measurements of distances between the two points.

The trainees will complete their Australian training on June 19.

Samoan Prince Wants To Be U.S. Mayor

A Samoan prince wants to be mayor of Philadelphia.

Prince Galumalemana Alailima (44) is candidate for the Republican nomination in the May 18 primary.

A civil engineer by profession, he was born in Western Samoa, moved to American Sāmoa at the age of 6, and came to the United States in 1950.

He took up residence here in 1958 and became a citizen in 1959.

"Call me Vi - that's what my friends call me," he said.

"I'm going in to the race in spite of all the odds, trusting that God will show the way."

The Prince is the son of a Methodist preacher and the great-great grandson of King Malietoa Vainupo, the man who receive the first American official on Samoa in 1839.

The Prince, educated in political science and engineering at the universities of Pennsylvania and Illisions and at McPherson College in Kansas, said he decided to run for mayor last year when he learned he would not be appointed Lieutenant-Governor of American Samoa.

WOMEN WORTHY WEILDERS OF WILLOW SWORD

By ROBBIE

It was easy to see why the Police decided to include women within the "strong arm" of the Law when watching the first women's cricket match to be staged in Nuku'alofa between the Heilala of Takuilau of 'Eua and Kolotau of Ngele'ia last Friday afternoon.

One of the features of the game was the long accurate return throws from the outfield to the wicketkeepers and the number of sixes hit during play. (8 by Kolotau and 4 by Heilala, as many as I have seen in any men's match).

The coaches of both sides are to be congratulated for their efforts in fielding such well turned-out sides who produced both good cricket and grand entertainment for the large crowd of spectators. Some of the men's teams (including Toehuke) could learn a lesson on keeness and agility in the field from these lasses.

The softball influence was apparent when quite often a player hit the ball, threw the bat behind her and took off down the track like a sprinter.

It was also noticeable that the umpires were not sure of the decision when the discarded bat hit the wickets and dislodged the bails.

Another sight which one would not expect to witness at Lords, or whenever the mecca of ladies cricket might be, was a very confident and competent wicketkeeper taking off her gloves at the end of the over, calling for the ball and then proceeding to trundle down very good looking medium pacers still attired in her keeping pads.

In good feminine tradition anything near the leg was given the punishment it deserved and a number of good looking strokes were produced from what one may consider to be a natural defensive action. Good fun all of it and a definite indication of the potential available for a women's cricket competition next year.

The match ended with a win to the Kolotau team by six wickets but the result was not really the important thing, Sione Peleki and other keen cricket and sporting enthusiasts had proved that cricket could be played by the women and enjoyed by players and spectators alike. Congratulations and thank you for a fine game must be extended to the players of both sides.

Maiia Havea, captain of the Ngele'ia team, batting, and wicket-keeper Mele Langi, really look like they mean business.

China returning to world sport

Communist China has announced its return to major international sports competition after a five-year absence brought about by its cultural revolution.

It will send a team to the world table tennis championships in Nagoya, Japan, from March 28 to April 7.

China has agreed also to resume friendly table tennis matches with Japan which ceased in 1966.

Return Match Barely Started

By ROBBIE

Saturday saw the start of the return match between 'Eua and Toehuke XI. Both teams made a number of changes from those that had contested the first match.

After a start delayed by the damp conditions after heavy overnight rain, some interesting cricket was turned on before a tropical downpour put an end to play at 2.45 leaving a draw as the result.

'Eua go back home with a well-deserved win in the series and Tāvō and his team must be congratulated for their fine fielding and the most accurate bowling attack from Mei Lama and Pongi Vaioleti. The series was a most enjoyable and interesting one which the Toehuke XI is looking forward to renewing next year.

A feature of Saturday's play was the long handle attack by Setaleki when 'Eua were 9 down for 33 runs and he was joined at the wicket by Pongi. Four flashing sixes came from Setaleki whose challenge was also taken up by Pongi and the score sped on to 78. Vakavelo bowling for Toehuke finished up with 9 wickets for 18 runs an excellent match performance.

Scores: 'Eua 78 and 22 for six wickets (Setaleki 27, Filo Vaitohi 19); Toehuke 51 (Fakatou 9).

Match drawn; rain stopped play.

Hurdle champion going to America for training

The South Pacific Games hurdle champion, Peni Tu'ipulotu of Tonga has been offered a six-month training at Brigham Young University at Utah, U.S.A., and will leave for the United States early next week.

He said that the arrangements for his training will be the same as that granted by the university for the two Fijian athletic stars S. Tamani and U. Sotutu.

"I will do my best in training there where I hope that I will be in top form to represent Tonga at the fourth South Pacific Games in Tahiti in September this year," he said.

Tu'ipulotu hit the forefront of sports in the South Pacific in 1966 at the Games in Noumea, New Caledonia.

Aged 22, he got a gold medal for the 110-metre hurdles and established a record time in the 400-metre hurdles during the trials but did not complete in the final as this was held on a Sunday.

He still holds records for the 220 and 440yd sprints in the inter-college sports as well as that for 120yd hurdles.

In the third South Pacific Games at Port Moresby in 1969, Tu'ipulotu earned two gold medals in the 110 metre hurdles (a record of 14.9 sec) and the 400 metre hurdles in which he equalled his record time of 53.6 sec. set at Noumea in 1966. He also won a silver medal in the 400 metre dash.

Tu'ipulotu is a Customs Officer at Queen Salote Wharf.

CHRONICLE MAN KILLED

Two Tongans died in a road accident in Auckland, on Saturday night. They were the Tonga Government photographer, Mr Tevita K. Vaka, and Mrs Lopeti Johansson. Her husband who was the driver, is seriously injured. The other passenger, Mrs Atolofi Lapa was also seriously injured and is in hospital.

Mr Val[illegible] Tonga in January this year, for a few months leave in Auckland. He was temporarily attached to the Auckland Star, as a printer.

He was first appointed to the Civil Service in 1957 as a printing trainee. In 1961 he was transferred to the post of Government photographer and was the Chronicle photographer since the paper came into operation in 1964.

While holding this post, he had taken many valuable pictures of historical events in the Kingdom.

Among his well-known pictures are those depicted on the reverse sides of the Tongan notes.

He was educated at Tonga College and afterwards left for further studies in New Zealand.

Mr Vaka is survived by his wife, Milika and five children.

She left by air on Monday for Auckland to attend her husband's funeral which was held yesterday.

A memorial service for Mr Vaka was conducted by the Rt. Rev. Bishop F. Halapua in St. Paul's Anglican Church, yesterday afternoon.

Visit By Bank Line Directors

A goodwill visit to the Kingdom was paid by two directors of the Bank Line last week, Mr E. B. Oliver from London and Mr J. A. Penn from Sydney.

Accompanied by Mr A. A. Denny, the manager of Burns Philp, the local Bank Line agents, the two directors had an audience with His Majesty. They also entertained with a cocktail party at the Dateline Hotel.

Price Index Up 2.4 Per Cent

The all groups consumers' price index for the first quarter of 1971 is 102.1 compared with 99.7, for the fourth quarter 1970, says the Statistician, Mr Cecil Cocker.

This increase in the all groups index represents a 2.4 per cent rise in the average level of retail prices in Nuku'alofa between the first quarter 1971 and the previous fourth quarter 1970. The average level of retail prices for the first quarter of 1970 was 103.9.

The rise in the average level of retail prices came primarily from the food group, and the tobacco and alcohol group.

In the food group, the increase came mainly from local foodstuffs which recorded an increase of 6.8 per cent over the average price for the fourth quarter 1970. The average price in the tobacco and alcohol group rose by 9.2 per cent over that ruling during the fourth quarter 1970.

The increase in the prices of items in the tobacco and alcohol group was brought about by the recent increase in the rates of Customs duties on tobacco and alcohol. In the remaining groups, which comprise mainly imported goods, the increase in average prices was moderate.

The consumers' price index measures the change in the total expenditure required to buy a fixed amount of goods and services bought by the average Tonga family living in Nuku'alofa, with weekly earnings of up to $24 during the July - September quarter 1969.

The index is heavily biased towards food items - almost two-thirds (63.4%) of the all group index belongs to the food group.

Language Charge Dismissed

The Government Auditor, Don Miester (44) has been found not guilty of a charge of using obscene language against a junior clerk in a public place.

Magistrate Viliami 'Unga Hafoka said that the claimant, junior clerk, Liufau Fonua had not produce enough relevant evidences to support his claim about the obscene languages used by Miester against him.

Miester when called to defend himself refused to take an oath on the Bible and said "I am not a Christian". He agreed to take affirmation instead.

The accused denied the charge and told the Court he had no knowledge of using the obscene languages against Fonua.

Only one witness was called by the claimant to support his claim, but the witness failed to confirm the alleged obscene language.

Magistrate Hafoka said that the claimant also failed to define the meaning of the word used by the accused and he dismissed the case.

The claimant and his lawyer, T. P. Tapueluelu have filed an appeal in the Supreme Court against Magistrate Hafoka's judgement.

DAUGHTER ILL

The return to Tonga of the President of the Conference of the Free Wesleyan Church of Tonga, the Rev. Justin Gooderham has been delayed because his daughter, Ilsa, is seriously ill in Melbourne.

In a letter to the Chronicle, Mr Gooderham said Ilsa has been diagnosed by specialist doctors as having a tumour on the brain. It is one of the most difficult kinds as it is in the brain stem, where the spinal chord meets the brain at the rear of the head.

This means that doctors at the Royal Children's Hospital in Melbourne will not be able to operate and will have to attempt X-ray therapy, which may or may not be successful, said Mr Gooderham.

"The chances of success are not bright, say the specialist neurologists and radiologists."

Ilsa is under the care of Dr. Minty, a radiologist at the Peter McCallum Clinic in Melbourne, who was born in Nuku'alofa. His father was a doctor at Vaiola in the 1920's.

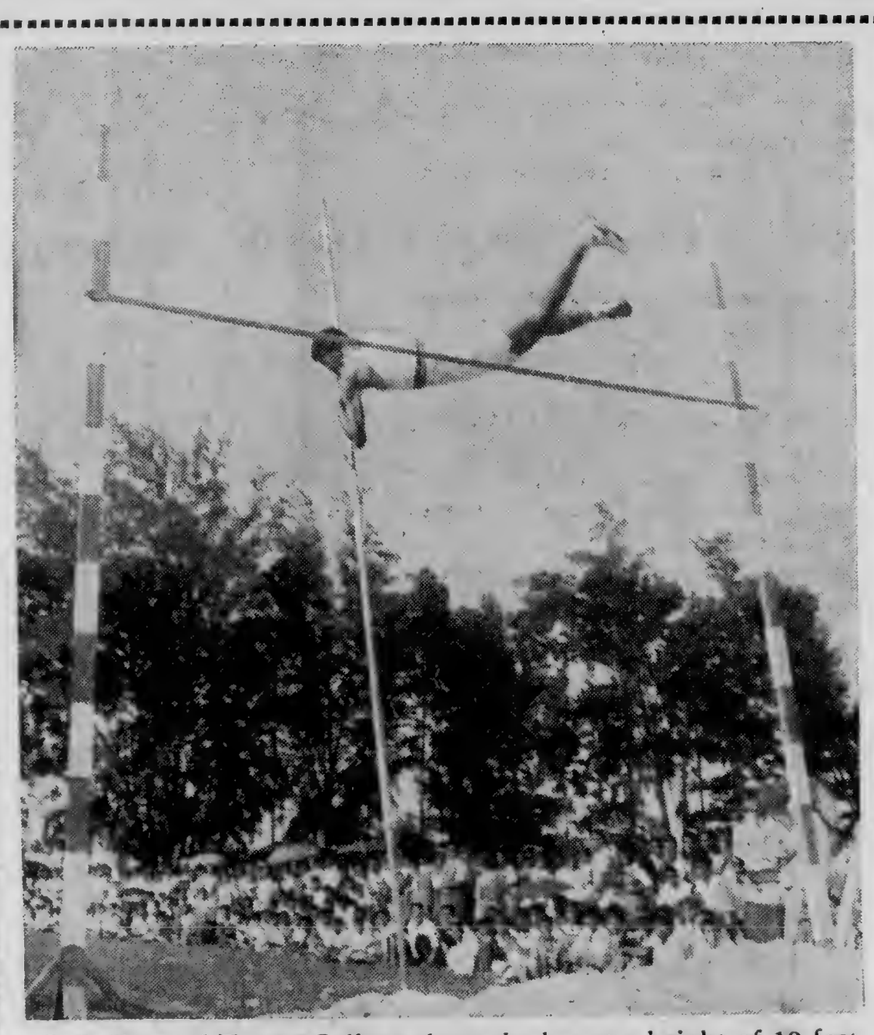
Where Time Begins

Nuku'alofa, Thursday, April 8, 1971 Vol.VII. No. 44 3 Senit



S. P. Kava of Tupou College clears the bar at a height of 10 feet 9 inches to win the boys' open grade pole vault.

Nine records go

Nine records were broken and one equalled at the annual inter-collegiate athletic championships at Tonga College on Tuesday and Wednesday.

With 11 schools competing and more than 1000 competitors, the 137 events were decided during the two-day competition. The events were watched by about 10,000 people.

Several outstanding performances at the competition were turned in by Peauafi Haukinima of Tupou College in the boys' senior grade. Peauafi set two records in 880yd and mile events. He ran a brilliant anchor leg to win the 4 x 440yd relay. L. Helu of 'Atenisi won the 100yd with a record time.

T. Inukiha'angana of St. John High School in the boys' midget grade set two records in 50yd and 75yd dash. He also came first in 100yd dash.

Talilotu Ngaluafe of Tupou High School performed well in boys' open grade to win the 100yd, 220yd, 120yd hurdle, came third in the 4 x 440yd relay and 4 x 110yd relay.

In the girls' events, L. Hafoka of St. Andrew's School, competing in the senior grade. set a record time of 2min 45.7sec in the 880yd. A Vi of St. Andrew's School also set a record in the midget grade 100yd with a time of 12.8sec.

Kalasi 'Iongi of Queen Salote College was the best performer in the girls events. She won the 100yd, 220yd, 80m hurdle and ran a fast anchor leg to win the 4 x 110yd relay thus equalled the record.

Tupou College produced the best relay teams of the meeting and scooped the first place in 4 x 440yd and 4 x 110yd relay in all the grades of the boys events. Their midget grade also made a record in 4 x 110yd relay.

S. Fatafehi Tupou of Tupou College took off six seconds in the mile intermediate boys to a record time of 4min 59.5sec.

His Majesty King Taufa'ahau was present at meeting yesterday and presented shields to the captains of the winning teams.

"ORSOVA" PASSENGER HELD FOR ILLEGAL ENTRY

A passenger from the cruise ship "Orsova" which called at Nuku'alofa last Wednesday was detained by the Tonga Police for illegally entering the Kingdom.

A salesman for Pacific Hotels and Development Ltd, Suva Richard Rothery, was arrested at the airport on Tuesday afternoon as he was about to board the Fiji Airways flight for Suva. He had with him all his luggage from on board the cruise ship.

Rothery spent Thursday night in the cells at the police station in Nuku'alofa and was released on Friday when an aircraft chartered by his company was sent from Fiji to collect him.

When the "Orsova" arrived in port on Wednesday morning, Rothery spoke to the purser and the local agent for the company, Mr Randall Wiggs of the Union Steam Ship Company, and said he wanted to land at Nuku'alofa and fly to Suva to join the "Iberia". He was informed that this was not possible under the terms whereby cruise ships berth in Nuku'alofa.

Later, Rothery left the ship with suitcases. He told the boarding officer he was a salesman, had samples in the suitcases and was going to sell in Tongatapu. At the request of the boarding officer, Rothery deposited a T$10 bond and was given a receipt.

This information has been verified by Customs officers and the Police.

Rothery then took a taxi to the airport, according to reports, and attempted to board the aircraft that was about to leave for Suva. As this was not possible he left the airport and after the 'Orsova' had sailed booked into the Dateline Hotel where he spent Wednesday night.

Rothery later informed the shipping agents that he had missed the ship and arrangements were made for him to leave the Kingdom on the flight the following day. At the same time the Police were informed that Rothery was in the Kingdom.

As Rothery was about to leave Fua'amotu Airport on Thursday, he was arrested by the immigration authorities and returned to Nuku'alofa where he was detained at the Police Station overnight because he had entered the Kingdom illegally. He was released on Friday without being formally charged in Court, when the charter plane from Fiji came to collect him.

For landing a passenger from a cruise ship, the P & O Company was liable for a surcharge on port dues amounting to T$1112.30, but in view of the circumstances of the case, the Customs authorities have agreed to waive this.

Another Try On Bee Business

Only seven people attended a meeting on Monday in Nuku'alofa of potential subscribers called to discuss the setup of a bee business in Tonga; four of these were Government representatives.

Despite the lack of response from the public the Director of Agriculture, Mr J. Pitman said the department is still prepared to go on with the scheme.

The next meeting is expected to be held after Easter.

Mr Pitman added that the story printed in last week's Chronicle, might have been too complicated to be fully comprehended by the public, hence the little interest shown.

An article therefore. will shortly appear in the Chronicle describing in more simple terms what is expected from potential subscribers, the work involved and forms of investment.

His Majesty's Cabinet has agreed in principle to the setup of a company in conjunction with New Zealand partners. It is suggested that the Tongans should hold 52% of the shares of the company and the New Zealand partners, 48%.

"DEAR SIR..." LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Many letters are being received which are impossible to published because they are too long and involved. Letters should be concise, restricted to one subject and no longer than 250 words.

Writers are also reminded that their actual signature must appear on the letter as well as the non de plume, if they wish to use one. No letter will be published without the signature of the writer.

The TCC

Dear Sir.—I was once told by one of the former senior officers the Tonga Construction Company was created by the then Hon. Premier (His Majesty King Taufa'ahau Tupou IV), to cater for all building construction in the Kingdom – the Government, business and the general public.

Since the company has been operating, it has built several big buildings, including the International Dateline Hotel, Tungi Arcade, Post Office, Customs shed and office block on Queen Salote Wharf, the Hospital and a store for Morris Hedstrom Ltd., Nuku'alofa.

But so far no private houses have been built on a business basis, for the simple reason, that the company's costings of its works are too far above the the financial status of the average Tongans. Even new Government quarters which were expected to be built by the company didn't come off, not only because of high costings, but the Ministry of Works could do the job just as well and cheaper.

It was extremely unfortunate that the company's funds were grossly misappropriated because it has been working on a deficit for years.

Now that Tonga Copra Board is functioning independently the company is, remarkably, still being allowed to operate on a deficit. One wonders just how much money is needed to be lost before something concrete is done to remedy this lamentable situations?

If the company is eventually combined with the Ministry of Works, it is very clear that the Ministry of Works will hardly need more staff, as it has all it needs. It will be just a matter of changing over all the activities from Tonga Construction Company to the Ministry of Works, or so it appears to a layman. This will save a lot of money from the company's staff salaries.

It would be fair to the taxpayers for the Tonga Construction Company to be liquidated as soon as possible to save money for the country's development. This is not a shameful act, but an application of a realistic solution to a problem of national importance.

Why this company is being allowed to go on operating on gross deficit for years, is really beyond the comprehension of even the most highly-educated citizens of the country, let alone Tonga's neighbours in the Pacific.

The Ministry of Works is well staffed by highly technical people, and assisted by overseas trained personnel. It should be given all the construction works and all the allied services now being done by Tonga Construction Company, and the company must be completely liquidated for the sake of the country.

Sunday Picnic

Dear Sir.—A Sydney businessman four months ago met a girl from Lapaha and married her in Australia. Last week he paid his first visit to her country, these Friendly Islands. His new in-laws had spared no trouble to give him a real Friendly Islands' welcome. They had even built a Tongan fale especially for his short stay and planted around it shrubs and flowers. All last week this visit to our shores saw Tonga through rose-tinted spectacles.

On Sunday morning the couple attended church and then were invited with a party of friends and relatives to go to a Tonga-style picnic at Laulea beach. The sand was clean, the pretty girl helpers bustling around, the pig crisp and juicy and the crayfish shining scarlet in the sunshine.

The Australian sat back in the shade of a rock and smiled to see the children laughing as they paddled innocently in the sparkling sea.

Then came a blue Land-Rover with white lettering – and the party was over. The Police officer was most polite and equally as firm.

In a few days our visitor and his bride will return to Sydney – and what will they tell their friends ?

MIKE BAILES.

When this letter was referred to the Minister of Police. the Hon. 'Akau'ola, said the report from the officer concerned, Inspector Paula Vivili of Mu'a, stated that he found about 50 people swimming at Laulea beach on Sunday and they were making "quite a commotion." He asked them to be quieter and the Tongan leader of the group said they would leave the beach.

Inspector Vivili said he did not ask the people to leave the beach.

Poets' Corner

Dear Sir.—

UNSTUCK

My fervent plea for stamps to lick,
Caused H. S. R. to feel quite sick.
His welcome poem on Page Two
With warning notes on use of glue,
Has turned my thoughts to stamps to come
And how they could be lots of fun !
One day soon, I'm sure we'll savour
Stamps with gums of varied flavour –
Coconut stamps, coated with flakes
To be also used for making cakes –
Banana stamps, I visualise
Might find their place in home-made pies –
Pineapple stamps, well soaked in juice
Kept in the fridge, then squeezed for use!
Such stamps with twin-purpose usage –
Food and drink, as well as postage –
Could bring to us in a decade
A novel boost in export trade.
I hope this verse does not provoke
It's just for laughs, a little joke!

Dear Sir.—

There is a poet of Tonga
Whose scanning just couldn't be wronger.
For weeks in the paper
We've put up with his caper
But now we say, "Osi, fe'unga."

Dear Sir.—

"Bemused," I thank you
For your kind appreciation
Of my poetic limitation
For my art is only jingle
In stanzas brief and single Trite views
On snippets of the news
The name "Bemused" I guess
Conceals a certain Mrs. S
It is your verse I rate
As worthy of the laureate.

Unemployment

Dear Sir.—Tonga at present is on the horns of dilemma as to how to cater effectively for the hundreds of school leavers pouring out of the secondary school at the end of each years; some of them have passed the final examination while others have not. Of those school leavers few may get a job while the majority will remain jobless; and the number is increasing every year.

As a result, the number of unemployed in each village and town increases with Nuku'alofa at the top of the list. What shall we do to them? Those who have failed the examination not be taken in by the employers nevertheless they must be given the same opportunity.

We should not blame those who have failed in their final examinations, or called them foolish, vagabonds, nuisance, thieves and beggars. We must remember it is not their fault they do not get employment; it is the fault of the country.

If we say that they should go and plant something, where would they go and do that? At whose allotment?

TEVITA FOLAU.

Death Sentence

Dear Sir.—May I tender the following submissions :

The natural laws were established by God ever since the creation of the world, and they will forever exist. These natural laws govern the motions of the moon and the sun. One of the natural law also governs the motion of any falling body, e.g. when a coconut falls from a coconut tree. The natural laws are ever lasting laws. If I subject myself to the influence of one of the laws, by jumping off a coconut tree, I shall surely die from the fall. As a result of this, the natural law and its creator may be blamed for my death, but neither of them is bad, I am entirely responsible for my death.

The Bible has become the law that governs our existence and our life. The text in the Bible which states : "Thou shall not kill" and the laws relating to sinners are still in force, — "Those who live by sword will die as such" and "The wages of sin is death". No wise man in the world will ever alter or repeal these laws.

From the above statements, three things can be perceived : 1. The creator of the laws. 2. The laws that have been created. 3. The medium through which the laws operate.

Regarding No. 1, God is the creator of the laws; No. 2 the laws that have been created are the laws of God; No. 3, the medium through which the laws operate is the Bible. Those three things are pure in themselves.

Every Government in every country has similar kind of organisation to the above three statements. There are those who engage in drafting legislations, those who enforce the laws (the courts of justice) and those legislations which have been authorised and are in operation.

If I commit an act in contravention of the law, neither those who draft that particular legislation nor the legislation itself is at fault, I am to blame for my own action. I believe that it was throwing away God's love. In the same sense of obligation the Government of each country makes legislations for the people in each country. If we are to do away with the laws we shall be throwing away God's love as well as that of the Government.

A FULL LIFE DESPITE DIABETES

WORLD HEALTH DAY 7 APRIL 1971

World Health Day, April 7, marks the anniversary of the coming into force of the Constitution of the World Health Organisation. Each year, a special theme of importance to a large number of countries, is chosen. The theme for 1971 is "A Full Life Despite Diabetes".

At the beginning of the century, diabetes mellitus was a formidable disease. Its diagnosis in a young child was a notice of life premature death. Its discovery in a man or woman in the prime of life meant a complete change in the way of life, and a greatly reduced expectation of life.

From one to three persons in 1000 suffer from diabetes. In certain industrialised countries or racial groups, the ratio is even higher. But diabetes may strike many who never expect it. In an unborn child, the pancreas is dormant. It only "wakes up" like the other organs, after the child is born. In some cases the pancreas will fail to function as it should and the insulin-producing cells will be so weakened that diabetes will result.

Although the control of diabetes for most subjects, by insulin or diet, is feasible, the factors which determine the activity and viability of the insulin-producing cells are as yet unknown. To find and control these factors is one of the major tasks of international research in this field. The goal is to discover the ideal form of treatment and ultimately prevent the development of diabetes by attacking the cause of the problem, rather than its effects.

In the Western Pacific Region, diabetes is rarely mentioned when public health problems are discussed, except in the case of Japan, New Zealand and Australia. This does not mean that developing countries are less affected than the developed ones.

HIGH PREVALENCE

There is, for instance, an unusually high prevalence in Tonga, and some diabetes abnormalities are also more prevalent in some of the small Pacific Islands (Cook and Tokelau). WHO has agreed to provide help to Tonga and in 1972 a consultant will carry out a survey of the problem and provide advisory services to the Government.

But in other countries of the region, there are numerous patients with diabetes which goes undetected because of lack of basic health services or insufficient health education.

Diabetes also appears to be on the increase, particularly among overweight men and women above the age of 40 This knowledge has led many public health authorities to try to detect early diabetes by organising community screening surveys, using blood or urine tests.

When a young Canadian surgeon, Frederick Grant Banting and his collaborator, Charles Herbert Best, isolated insulin in 1921, this was one of the most dramatic discoveries of modern medicine. Insulin has enabled millions of patient suffering from diabetes to live a normal life. But is was soon recognised that certain patients with diabetes did not respond to treatment and research had to be stepped up.

DISCOVERY

Recently, a number of important discoveries have been made : long-acting insulin has reduced to one a day the number of injections required by patients. Anti-diabetes drugs which can be taken orally have also been developed.

Naturally methods of control by diet and exercise have been successfully tried in certain types of diabetes – usually older and obese subjects. With existing methods of treatment, it is possible for patients to live a normal life, to bear children, to play games, in brief, to enjoy a full life.

A regular check-up.

But obviously certain precautions must be taken, such as following carefully the treatment and diet prescribed, and also having regular check-ups. This is particularly true during and after infectious diseased or during pregnancy when the body metabolism is changing.

For people about to be married, genetic counselling is advisable when either partner has a family history of diabetes.

Diabetes is still a serious disease. The more that is known about it, the better are the chances to fight it.

Conventions and Services at Easter

To mark Easter, youth conventions organised by the Anglican and Methodist Churches, will be held on Tongatapu.

Guest speakers for the Anglican convention at the old site of St. Andrew's School will be the Acting Senior Education Officer, Mr Kaveinga Havea, Broadcasting Officer, Mr Masiu Moala and first assistant of Tupou College, Mr Taniela Vaotangi.

The Tongatapu Methodist circuits have each organised their own. Guest speaker at the Fasi convention will be Dr S. Foliaki.

"Trust and Obey", will be the theme for the Nuku'alofa youth camp, organised by the Young People's Department.

The Methodist Church will hold a special service tomorrow at 10 am. The Free Church and the Church of Tonga will also hold similar services at 9 o'clock in the morning.

From 12 midday tomorrow, until 3 pm a special service will be conducted in St. Paul's Anglican Church.

Learning from Australia

A Tongan police officer was among 26 overseas police officers attending a nine-weeks intensive course in Police administration at the Australian Police College in Sydney.

In the picture are Sergeant (Andrew) Ng Poh Kak of the Christmas Island Police; Assistant Superintendent M. Tuisawau, staff officer at police headquarters, Royal Fiji Police, Suva; Inspector J. D. Reilly, deputy chief instructor; Inspector Joseph Tarihun, officer in charge of police, Madang, Papua-New Guinea; Inspector Tiakop Gerson, officer in charge of police, Goroka, Papua-New Guinea; and Inspector Tevita Moengangongo Ti'o, officer in charge of the police training school and Traffic Department, Nuku'alofa, Tonga.

The course which ended on March 12 provided through lectures, seminars and a week's practical attachment to various Australian capital city police headquarters, opportunities to study all phases of police administration and to examine aspects of police work with special application in each participant's homeland.

The police officers were delving into such wide ranging subjects as how to deal with the "IN" basket at police headquarters to the psychology of leadership and latest scientific aids used in criminal detection.

Air Pacific to Start BAC 111 Service From Next April

Jet services will be started by Fiji Airways on April 3 next year when a BAC 111-475 airliner leaves Nausori Airport for Vila, Santo and Honiara.

By that time the airline, which has assumed the name of Pacific Islands Airways, will be operating under the name of Air Pacifi.

After a board meeting in Suva, the chairman, Captain G. U. Allan, announced that the offer of the name of Air Pacific, previously held by Fiji Air Services Ltd., had been accepted.

Captain Allan said he did not know on what date the name Air Pacific would come into use. "We have accepted the name, but can't use it until it has been released by the Fiji Registrar-General," he said. "This could take several months."

Although the company was now Pacific Islands Airways Ltd., the name Fiji Airways would be retained on its aircraft for the time being.

He said the board had confirmed its preliminary decision to spend about $5 million on buying a British 74-seat twin jet, the BAC 111-475, and to get a second one in 1973.

The decision still had to be confirmed by the governments represented on the board, but as the representatives had agreed unanimously, this would be a formality.

He expected a formal order would be placed with the British Aircraft Corporation, the manufacturer, within a month.

The first jet would be delivered next February and would go into service in April on regional routes between Nadi and Nausori.

Acquisition of the second jet in 1973 would place the airline securely in the jet age.

Cruising at 550 mph., the BAC 111-475 will cut present flight times almost by half.

Captain Allan said the airline did not intend to part witht its smaller turbo-prop HS748s, which were giving very satisfactory service.

South Pacific Year Launched In N.Z.

1971 is South Pacific Year in New Zealand, where Government departments, national organisations, firms and church groups have banded together in an exercise aimed at public education and increased international and inter-racial understanding.

The aim of "South Pacific Year 1971" is to :

1. Promote in New Zealand a knowledge of and interest in the political, economic and social development of the peoples of the Pacific Islands;
2. Stimulate discussion and exchanges of views on those questions with New Zealand and among the peoples of the Islands themselves;
3. Direct attention to New Zealand's interests and responsibilities in and towards the peoples of the Islands.

New Zealanders in all walks of life and in all their various civic capacities will be asked to do or think in 1971 something specially about the Pacific Islands and New Zealand's relations with them.

When the project was launched at a meeting held by the Institute of International Affairs in Wellington, 275 delegates attended representing 14 participating organisations, 20 sponsors, 30 guest organisations and seven Government departments. Members of Parliament, Pacific Islanders resident in Wellington, trade unionists, journalists, teachers and lecturers also took part and messages of support from Pacific Islanders were read.

Conference Of Baha'i In Suva

Members of the Baha'i Faith from all over the South Pacific will meet for a four-day conference in Suva May 20 - 24. It will be the second Oceanic conference of the faith held in the South Pacific.

The conference will be held at the Suva Civic Centre, and is being organised by the Baha'i Faith's South Pacific headsuarters which also are in Suva

Delegates are expected from Australia, New Zealand, Hawaii, Tonga, Cook Islands, Gilbert and Ellice Islands, the Solomons, New Hebrides, New Caledonia, and American and Western Samoa.

The Baha'i Faith was founded in Persia in 1844, and has spread throughout the world. It has a particularly strong following in the United States.

Basic Baha'i beliefs are the oneness of mankind, common foundation of all religions, independent investigation of truth, and the essential harmony of science and religion. The faith has no ministers, and is non-political.

Anyone interested in attending the conference, should contact the Secretary in Fiji, Mrs Irene Williams, Baha'i Headquarters, 68 Pender Street, Suva, Fiji. Telephone : 22776.

New Stamps To Mark Japan Centenary

A new series of commemorative stamps in honour of the centenary of Japanese postage stamps and the International Philatelic Exhibition, Philatokyo '71, will go on sale in the Kingdom on April 17.

It was the intention of the postal administration to produce an extraordinary free-form self-adhesive series, but because of circustances in England they could not be made and delivered in time. A provisional series has been substituted using all remaining conventional stamps and this accounts for the relatively small quantities available. The overprinting plates have been destroyed.

SURELY THE END OF CRICKET FOR THIS SEASON!

By ROBBIE

In what must be surely considered the end of the supplementary cricket season, Toehuke managed a very good 10 wicket win over a strong combined Tokomololo/Pea side on Saturday.

It may have been as well that some of the Combined side's star players like 'Etuate and Teisina, Mafi and Tevita never had the chance to get their eye in. But the bowling of the Army pair, Vakavelo and Fakatou, who were called in as replacements for Toehuke players who were not available, was right up to their very best performances, both collecting 9 wickets each for the match.

Again the real feature of the match was the fielding. Any shots more than a few inches off the ground were liable to be picked up as catches by players of either side.

As the match finished at 2.45 p.m. both sides agreed to finish off the day by playing an hour each. It was in this play that the Combined team appeared more relaxed and led by Mafi, who retired not out with 31, ran out easy winners by 83 runs to 48 all out by Toehuke.

Major Rosie, who must be considered responsible for putting Tongan Cricket on a properly organised basis, would have been surprised to see just how keen the players have become. After all, the season was officially closed on February 6 and here on the April 3 there were two matches being played.

Havele and Houma were battling it out on the Tonga High School ground as well but scores were not available.

TOEHUKE v COMBINED CENTRAL TEAM

Toehuke: 1st innings, 95 (T. Mataele 27, Fakatou 12, Kalanivalu 13); 2nd innings 28 (Fakatou 19 not out, 'Iteni Helu 9 not out).

Combined: 1st innings, 67 2nd innings, 48, (Tu'akoi 15, Mafi 8). Match won by Toehuke by 10 wickets.

EXTRA TIME, 1 HOUR EACH

Combined: 83 (Mafi 31 retired, Saia 11 retired, Tuitu'u 11 not out).

Toehuke: 48 (Kalanivalu 17, Sikaleti 9).

Matei had the remarkable bowling figures of 5 overs, 1 maiden, 6 wickets for 17 runs.

Seniors Must Have Boots

The Tonga Rugby Union met on Monday to discuss the shortage of rugby boots in Tonga and agreed to enforce wearing of rugby boots in the senior A and B teams. But in junior A and B they are allow to wear sandshoes this season only, if they unable to have rugby boots.

The union also emphasised that they don't want the players to play bare feet in this season.

A spokesman for E. M. Jones Ltd said that their expected shipment of 120 pairs of rugby boots from Australia on the "Niuvakai" last week did not come. It is hoped they will be here towards the end of this month or early May.

Lipoi Tupou's store has ordered 30 pairs from Fiji, but is awaiting confirmation.

13 Welshmen in Lions Team To Tour N.Z., Australia

Thirteen Welshmen have been included in the British Lions rugby team to tour Australia and New Zealand.

The Lions play warm-up games in Australia on May 12 and 15 then go to New Zealand, where they play 26 games, including four tests.

The Lions had hoped to play one game in Fiji on their way home, but it is understood they could not get International Rubgy Board permission.

NEW DATE SET FOR VAKA-NADUMU BOUT

The postponed heavyweight boxing contest between Tongan champion Mani Vaka and Vuniivi Nadumu, the Ba south paw, will be at the new Suva Town Hall on Monday, May 3.

The 10-round contest which was scheduled to take place early this month was postponed because the Commonwealth-rated Tongan champion was suffering from flu on the eve of the fight.

After his fight with Nadumu was postponed, Vaka flew to Australia. There he stopped a British light-heavyweight, Tom Edgar, after 29 sec of the second of their 10-round at Lean Stadium Melbourne.

The date of Vaka's return to Fiji is not yet known.

At Pago Pago, American Samoa, Fiji light-heavyweight Inoke Moto, of Suva, has been beaten in his first overseas fight. The referee stopped the contest and awarded it to Tonga's Speedy Havili.

Moto was decked twice, in the first and third rounds, and the Tongan opened a cut in Moto's nose in the fourth.

More blood drew in the fifth and the referee stopped the contest. Moto has had only three professional fights since turning professional early last year.

Speedy Havili is among the top contenders for Ma'ulupe's title.

Stick Insect Doing More Damage Than Rhinoceros Beetle

Stick insects are doing more damage than the rhinoceros beetles to coconut palms in Tongatapu, the Project Leader of the Coconut Replanting Scheme, Dr. D. V. Liyanage said this week.

Incidence of damage has increased during the last two to three years and is more or less widespread throughout the island.

Dr Liyanage said, "The heaviest infested area was 'Atele to Vainī.

"Damages is not serious in Ha'apai, Vava'u and 'Eua. Reports from the Niuas stated that only few palms were infected.

A few stick insects can defoliate the entire crown of a palm within a few weeks. They lay eggs which hatch out and continue to feed on the leaves. The ultimate result is that the palms will be killed and nut production considerably reduced.

The pest situation is considered to be serious enough to warrant a national campaign to control it, and this was introduced today.

To finance the campaign, the Tonga Copra Board offered T$11,200 for the first year and T$16,000 in the second year.

Dr Liyanage said that the campaign will be implemented by his department.

"My staff will visit farmer's tax allotments or estates and treat all the palms that are attacked by the stick insect. This service will be free.

"We will sta[illegible]gatapu first and later in Vava'u and Ha'apai," he added.

CONTROL METHOD

The efficient and practicable methods of control were not known until the end of last year when the insecticide Azodrin was found applicable.

The chemical when injected at the base of the palm will kill the insects within three to four days, and has a residual effect of up to 16 weeks.

The method of application is to drill a hole at an angle on the stem of the palm ½ inch in diameter and four inches deep, three to four feet from the base of the palm. Then pour two teaspoons of Azodrin into the hole.

It takes 24 hours for the chemical to travel up to the leaves and when the insects feed on them, they die and fall to the ground.

One gallon of chemical is sufficient to treat about 448 palms.

Youth held after Death in schoolboy fight

A sixteen-year-old student is in the custody of the police for eight days pending investigation of an incident on Monday afternoon which resulted in the death of a 14-year-old 'Uiha youth, Mahe Niuafe, residing in Kolofo'ou.

The detained boy is 'Aisake Mafi of Tokomololo. The police have not yet preferred a charge against him.

According to the police report, Mafi and several other students, including the deceased, were walking home from the Mormon Church Side School at Haveluloto when they had a fight near the inter-section of the Taufa'āhau Road and 'Alaivahamama'o By-pass.

The police say Mafi was attacked by Niuafe and his schoolmates. When Niuafe and other students ran away from Mafi he picked up a piece of waterpipe, 18ins long and half an inch in diameter, threw the pipe, hit Niuafe on the back of the head and brought him to the ground.

Niuafe was rushed to hospital where he was found dead on arrival.

Death Sentence Confirmed

The Privy Council has confirmed the death sentence passed on Kelepi Suli Leao (45) of Houma for the murder of Taufa Lutelo, also of Houma, last November.

The Minister of Police is responsible for carrying out the hanging but no date has yet been set.

The last hangings in Tonga took place in 1955 when two men were executed on August 4.

The last death sentences were imposed on three Ha'apai men in September 1968, but these were commuted to life imprisonment.

The death sentence on Leao was imposed by Mr Justice Roberts in February this year following the conviction by a jury in the Supreme Court after a two-day trial.

Leao, in anger as the result of a quarrel between his children and those of the deceased, shot Lutelo in the back of the head with a shotgun at close range in the presence of the victim's wife.

For Leao it was argued he had acted in self-defence.

Petitions for clemency were submitted by the Free Wesleyan Church, Leao's family and lawyers and the citizens of Houma.

The Church claimed that capital punishment was contrary to religious beliefs.

TOP SOUTH PACIFIC LEADERS TO STUDY BANANA PROBLEMS

Four top South Pacific leaders will join in a study of the ailing banana industry when they attend the Pacific Islands Producers' Association annual conference in Nuku'alofa next week.

The executive secretary of PIPA, Mr H. P. Elder, told the Fiji Times at his headquarters in Suva that some of the main discussions were likely to be about the quality of island bananas and reduction in production through disease.

"This is still a major problem", said Mr Elder. "The quality of Pacific Island fruit is low in comparison with that in Ecuador, Costa Rica and Honduras.

"New Zealand is the only market for island bananas. The New Zealand housewife is getting more and more discriminating and quality-conscious. This is why it is necessary to improve the quality of the island fruit."

The president of PIPA is the Prime Minister of Fiji, Ratu Sir Kamisese Mara. Other leaders attending the conference will be the Prime Minister of Tonga, Prince Tu'ipelehake, the Prime Minister of Western Samoa, Tamasese Leolofi, and the Premier of the Cook Islands, Mr Albert Henry.

FIRST TIME

It will be the first time that the top political leaders of the four countries have attended the conference.

Mr Elder said a delegation from the Gilbert and Ellice Islands Colony would be making its conference debut. The colony became a PIPA member in January.

"The coconut industry is assuming much more importance in PIPA and this is why the Gilberts have joined," Mr Elder explained.

"The role of PIPA is gradually expanding to include commodities other than bananas. One item on the conference agenda will relate to the coconut industry.

Other matters to be discussed will probably include "poaching" by foreign fishing in territorial waters, airfreighting of perishable products and ways to combat rising prices caused by increased shipping rates imposed from outside the region.

COCONUT BOARDS

Some delegates arrive in Nuku'alofa today for the regional conference of the Coconut Boards which begins today.

Also arriving today is the Prime Minister of Western Samoa.

Other delegations for the PIPA conference arrive tomorrow and Saturday. The Fiji Prime Minister is expected on Saturday.

The Tongan delegation is: The Prime Minister and Minister of Agriculture, Prince Tu'ipelehake, the Acting Minister of Finance, Dr. S. Tapa, Director of Agriculture, Mr J. H. N. Pitman, the manager of the Tonga Produce Board, Mr A. Johansson, the manager of the Tonga Copra Board, Mr S. Kinahoi, the Assistant Secretary, Natural Resources, Mr S. T. Taumoepeau, the Marketing Adviser to the Government, Mr K. S. Masters, a grower selected by the Produce Board, Mr Bill Wight and a grower selected by the Copra Board, Mr C. Reichelmann.

Rousing Start To Rugby

The Kolomotu'a team is full of enthusiam for the start of the 1971 rugby season. After this rousing haka they went on to beat Nukunuku 14-5. A full report of Saturday's games appear on Pages 8 and 10.

Influenza Cases Fill Hospital

An influenza type of fever is spreading throughout Tongatapu affecting all age groups.

The Director of Health, Dr. S. Foliaki said the fever is caused by a virus whose specific nature is still unknown.

The common symptoms are high fever, headaches, joint aches and pains and sometimes diarrhoea.

Dr. Foliaki said the hospital is full to capacity with persons having influenza.

A notice from the Medical Department over ZCO on Saturday told the public only serious cases should be brought to hospital.

"Patients are given injection and asprin, which is effective," said Dr Foliaki.

He added that the influenza, a non-infectious fever, is not serious provided people look after themselves well and consult the hospital immediately should they be suffering from any of the symptoms.

N.Z. AID: New Zealand has offered Western Samoa economic aid amounting to $NZ1.2 million over a three-year period.

"DEAR SIR..."

Letters to the Editor.

Nurses' Strike

Dear Sir.—As a result of the statements made by the acting matron, in the Chronicle on March 25 and April 1 regarding the nurses strike, I am curious.

The Chronicle of March 25 quoted the matron as saying: "After the strikers left we were still adequately staffed, but now we are even better staffed with the outside help."

On Saturday, the dispensary was closed and cases normally dealt with by this branch were transferred to the main hospital.

Mrs Fineanganofo said: "This was not because we lacked the staff, but was an attempt to pull all our efforts together".

There were about 90 patients in hospital, and Mrs Fineanganofo emphasized that all were being properly cared for.

I believe there were 14 sisters, 3 senior nurses, 5 junior nurses, 6 student nurses and 22 new student nurses remaining at the hospital while the strike was on.

Why did they want the strikers to return to work? It appears the number of staff required by the hospital is greater than is needed.

I believe it would have been better not to call back the strikers, but that the money from their salaries be saved up for emergency care when temporary assistance may be required; and also to send two nurses overseas for further studies so that the Vava'u and Ha'apai hospital may be able to enjoy the service of a sister which at present they lack.

CURIOUS.

Trade Unions

Dear Sir.—I would like to point out to 'EFE' (letters to the Editor – Chronicle April 1, 1971) that there is legislation in connection with Trade Unions here in Tonga. He will find it in Volume 11 Chapter 138 of the Tongan Law Books.

The "Cabinet Warning to Civil Servants" might put fear in some sections of the Civil Service, who feel that they have a right to press their claims by strike action.

The use of strike as a method of showing ones dissatisfaction with his or her employer is world-wide and there is nothing wrong with it. The only thing that is wrong is that while legislations had been passed legalising Trade Unions (Refer Volume 11 Chapter 138) in 1964, very little attempt is made to employ this legal method of making your voice heard. Thanks to the nurses, their "mistakes" may make others wiser.

SEFITA A. HĀ'ULI.

What's in a Name

Dear Sir.—I found the article on the frigate bird which appeared in a recent Chronicle most interesting and informative. Would that we were given more material in like vein and that less space were devoted to the joys of tobacco!

Far be it from me to question the views of your unknown but learned contributor, but I would like to suggest that other explanations of the origin of the name of our capital city are possibly just as authentic. One of these fits in very well with the early history of the district now known as Nuku'alofa.

In the very early days the capital of Tonga was at Mu'a and Nuku'alofa was little more than a landing place for canoes and was but sparsely populated. The soil in the neighbourhood was poor and so there was little food available. Hence it was that those who disembarked there and those who came looking for transport to other islands usually found themselves extremely hungry. The Tongan word for being very hungry is "'alefa" and so the place became to be referred to as "nuku'alefa", that is, "the place where one goes hungry."

However, as the area gradually became more populous and important, the local people naturally resented this abusive appelation as a description of their town and so when they heard it said they replied: "No, not Nuku'alefa but Nuku'alofa." – that is, "land of love" or "place of loving kindness."

However that my be, it seems clear that "'alofa" is not a combination of two words ('a lofa) as your learned article maintains but is only one word and it comes from the root Polynesian word for love; it is rendered as "aroha" in Maori, as "alofa" in Samoan, Niuean and Futunan, in Hawaian as "aloha", again as "aroha" in Tahitian and so on.

Gifford in his "Tongan Place Names" says that the present capital bore successively the following names: Ma'ufanga, Navua, Nuku'alefa, Nuku'alofa. The last name "Nuku'alofa" (says Gifford) is supposed to have been give n by certain Samoans who made war on Tonga; another version has it that it was so named by some shipwrecked Samoans who were given food there.

Whatever its true origin there is no doubt that Tonga has the capital with the most beautiful name in the Pacific. Nor is there any doubt that our capital city which now offers hospitality to hundreds of Tongans from other areas in the Kingdom richly deserves the title of "Nuku'alofa – Place of Loving Kindness." Long may it remain true to this designation.

J. H. M. ROGERS.

Salary Revision

Dear Sir.—I would like to touch on the most disccussed issue of the day, that is salaries, for I believe it will create conflagration in the future if the condition in which no consideration is given to the undeniable right of certain people continues to exist.

In the past each post was well defined and the salary was allocated to it accordingly. But at present there is a complete overhaul of the system and some of the posts which in the past were receiving a higher salaries are now receiving lower salaries and vice versa. In certain cases the salaries of the higher posts are frequently revised while the junior posts receive practically nothing.

DEVOTED.

POETS' CORNER

Dear Sir.—
Welcome "Malo" inchoate bard
But don't you find it rather hard?
For there's no such word as wronger
Nor does it rhyme with Tonga
(The 'G' is guttural as in longer)
Please don't take this criticism badly
Barney and I will help you gladly.

Dear Sir.—
I find it pleasant in these times,
To read the brilliance of the lines,
Of Barney, H. S. R. and others,
Whose verse appears between these covers.
However, it is my prediction,
These friendly jibes could lead to friction.
Like cool it man! Remembering,
It's just a gas to do your thing.

PIPE DREAMS

Some people think how nice 'tis to shirk;
Watching somebody else do the work;
Spending ones days in a life of ease;
Going to sleep whenever they please;
Puffing their pipes and blowing smoke rings,
Waiting to see what the future brings.
Smoke screens conceal – let us not be blind –
One who waits and sleeps gets left behind!

Cricket Season Never Ending

By ROBBIE

In most countries, the cricket season is hardly ended when rugby takes over the grounds. The wicket in centre field, normally tapu, becomes the muddy patch where play for the big games is started.

Not so in Tonga. Why? Because cricket is not played where rugby is and the weather does not vary so much during the year anyway.

Last week I said the cricket season was surely ended. Not so, because on Saturday we had the ladies at it again with Pea challenging the side from Ngele'ia that recently beat 'Eua.

Starting at 10 a.m. Junior sides from both teams took the field.

I could not understand the "Junior" name, because out to the middle went people like Seini Mila, Mele Ika Tonga and 'Amelia who had been previously reported as hitting sixes and fours against 'Eua.

The game began with Pea going in to bat and making a handy 32. Lupe top scored with 11. Seini Mila finished up with 8 wickets from her flighted slow bowls and Mele Ika Tonga 2.

Because of a misunderstanding in the scoring it was not possible to get the actual bowling analysis for this innings. A high pressure course in scoring followed and fuller results were possible.

Ngele'ia in their first innings hit up 50 with Seini Mila, finding the quick singles a little difficult, run out for 15 which included a 6 and 2 fours. Misinale took 4 wickets for 13 runs and Tupou Fe'ao 5 wickets for 37.

In the second innings Pea managed 52 with Misinale 11 and Teisa 10. Mele Ika Tonga took 5 wickets for 16 runs, Seini Mila 3 for 23 and Hifa 1 for 8.

Needing 35 to win Ngele'ia collected the runs for the loss of only 2 wickets. 'Amelia resorted to the long handle and hit 29 not out which included 3 sixes and a four.

MAIN RUGBY MATCH TOUGH ON SPECTATORS

By ROBBIE

In a match that failed to hold the spectators' interest, Kolofo'ou ran out deserved winners by 19-0. (2 goals, 3 tries) over Tavatu'utolu.

Play was scrappy and without real purpose. The only well-drilled movement was Tavatu'utolu's organised obstruction in the lineouts which was worked to effect.

Metui, Kolofo'ou's diminutive half gave the best display of all-round play and threw out some good long fast passes to get his back line in motion. But how often did we see a good movement break down through shocking handling, or silly kicking which gave away possession that the forwards had worked so hard to get.

Fetu'ulele worked hard but was not able to get clean ball from the lineouts, we did see the odd hard running break by him but he appeared to be getting some unnecessary personal attention from the opposition which ended up by one of them being sent off the field. Of the Tavatu'utolu side no individual showed up but there was some good defence by the backs which undoubtedly kept the score down.

FIRST TRY

The first try of the match came when a rather rotund, and unusually subdued, Kimbu came away from a scrum that Tavatu'utolu had screwed, went for the line and stopped like everyone else, looked at the referee and when he realised that the whistle had not gone walked over and forced the ball. A surprise try to everyone including Kimbu. The attempt at conversion failed —3-0.

Samiuela Tatafu, ex Tonga representative fullback, playing centre for Tavatu'utolu, made a lovely interception which could have resulted in a try, except that Samiuela, like Kimbu, is carrying too much condition and could not keep up the pace. When challenged, his torpedo pass sailed right past his winger.

Tavatu'utolu forwards made some good rushes but the next scoring movement came when Manulevu, No. 6 for Kolofo'ou, made a lovely break, held his pass for Fetu'ulele who raced round behind the posts for a gift try. Paul Taumoepeau made no mistake with the conversion and Kolofo'ou led 8-0 at half time. Kolofo'ou 8 Tavatu'utolu 0.

From the kick off Kolofo'ou went on attack and were unlucky not to score. When Tavatu'utolu received the ball from a set scrum and fed the back line,what a disappointment it was to see each back ease up to take his pass instead leaning forward at top speed to take it and surge forward.

Heneli, the Kolofo'ou hooker, showed that a fit player could tackle the player with the ball and also the player accepting the pass. His play should have inspired both sides, but nobody took the lead.

CONCUSSION

About this stage Manulevu, who had been playing a steady game, suddenly went down with what looked like concussion. I did not see what happened but he came back looking very groggy indeed. Actually he played very well thereafter, perhaps not quite knowing what was happening.

After a slight skirmish, Paula from Tavatu'utolu was ordered from the field, but I can't help feeling that there were a number of other players from both sides who could have felt lucky that walking orders were not given to them.

From ensuing play, Merui made a nice break beating several players to score under the posts. Paul Taumoepeau made no mistake with the conversion. Kolofo'ou 13 Tavatu'utolu 0.

The next scoring movement came when Fetu'ulele made a break from the lineout and barged his way passed a number of defenders when he was, what looked like stiff armed to the ground. The referee without hesitation gave first five-eight Toetu'u his marching orders and from the penalty, Toutai scored a nice try in the corner which was just too far for Paul Taumoepeau to convert. Kolofo'ou 16 Tavatu'utolu 0.

Play continued to be in the main scrappy, but Tavatu'utolu with only 7 men in the pack could still win the ball from the scrums, but Metui was there to turn defence into attack and from a loose ruck, Kolofo'ou breakaway (No. 4) 'Amanaki dived for the line with three defenders on his back and scored a well earned try. Again it was too far for Taumoepeau and the score ended at Kolofo'ou 19 Tavatu'utolu 0.

Much more fun

KOLOMOTU'A 14 NUKUNUKU 5.

This game was, from a spectators' point of view, a much more entertaining game than the main one.

Right from the start Tali Kavapalu showed the crowd the form which earned him the title of "one of the best five players in N.Z." during 1969. Had the ball come out quicker from the half back to centre, instead of being kicked away, there may have been a much bigger score.

Full credit must go to the Nukunuku No. 8, Hufanga, who like his father, is sure to make his presence felt in Tongan rugby in the near future, for being able to contain Siaosi Selupe in the lineouts. Hufanga was caught once for using another player to get height, but his natural jumping was good to see. Here is a young player that we should see more of.

I thought that from set play Vailala at half had a better day than his rep.colleague Feleti Muller, but Feleti still showed that break from the scrum which won him so much applause in the N.Z. tour.

Why the Kolomotu'a backs elect to kick with Tali and speedster Tauali'i outside them I will never know. Tauali'i on the wing must learn to use his speed to better effect and have a go for the corner flag, if he has thoughts of ever seeing the shores of Wales.

The tackling of Tu'iono at centre for Nukunuku saved more points against them, and I thought that the full backs on both sides should use a little more discretion on coming into the back line. Surely when there are two or more attackers coming down fast on you the safest thing to do is put the ball into touch.

Good to see Uaisele Latukefu leading Hihifo to a win again. Uaisele has been on the scene for a long time now, having first represented Tonga in 1954 against an Australian XV.

It would be wrong for anyone to say that Uaisele is as good as he was, but he is at least a leader and one wonders if there would be a Hihifo side without him. He is certainly putting back into Rugby what he has enjoyed from it.

Panuve from Mu'a is a good solid player but will always be laible to injury until he realises that he has speed and ability outside him.

The Mu'a back line could be one of the best and certainly the fastest in the competition, but what is speed and ability if they don't get the ball. It is good to try for the break occassionally but not to keep it up after the defence is proved adequate.

I thought that if Mu'a had used their forwards to better effect in a combined effort and won the ball for the backs, provided the backs used the ball to feed their wines the result could have been different.

I have seen some of the teams training and unless they put more effort into it and do some specialised forward and back work they will never be fit enough for the "big-time".

What is the use of running round aimlessly with the ball when it does not even improve the handling? More time on the basics of rugby will produce better teams.

Fit players will not resort to late tackles and dangerous play. Referees should, as they did on Saturday, really get tough on this phase of play because it will bring Tonga a bad name overseas, and as there is a good programme of overseas tours ahead every effort must be made to maintain and improve our reputation for good play.

"We wish every rugby club throughout the Kingdom an interesting and rewarding season."

The Seniors followed on and some of the same players appeared, despite the heat and lack of condition.

Pea batted first and scored 32. All players got among the runs, Tupou Palu heading the list with 7.

Ngele'ia replied with 31 indicating that there was not much both sides and that an exciting finish might result.

Maile was top scorer with 13, which included a six and a four. Seini Mila hit 2 fours to be scored top scorer with 8.

A feature of this innings was that 6 of the players scored the well known duck.

Best bowling figures in the first innings for Pea being Misinale 4 for 7. Suli Ula 4 for 20 and Tupou Fe'ao 1 for 4.

For Ngele'ia Kalo Tupou took 6 for 21 and Sulieti took 3 for 16.

In the second innings Pea hit up 46 with Misinale making 14 and Lupe 8. (Sulieti collecting 6 wickets for 24 and Kalo Tupou 3 for 21).

Needing 48 to win, Ngele'ia could only manage 25 against the accurate bowling of Tupou Fe'ao who took 8 wickets for 20 runs. (Good bowling in any grade).

Mele Ika Tonga coming in at No. 10 realised that a stand was required and she hit 18 not out, including 4 fours.

If the batting order confidence with the bat and a closer finish may have resulted. This time 8 players qualified for the Duck's Club.

Oil Exploration

Tonga, according to the 1970 annual reports of the consortium companies, is the fourth most important exploratory area in the South West Pacific Ocean. One company goes so far as to publish a special map of the area identifying only Australia, New Zealand, New Guinea and Tonga in capital letters, leaving other islands as nameless shapes.

The roughly 90,000 people of Tonga should feel reassured that they are not alone in hoping for a happy outcome of oil exploration in their country. Their hopes are shared by millions of shareholders in the consortium companies. These shareholders are spread all over the world but heavily concentrated in Britain, France, Holland, the United States, Australia and New Zealand.

The following extract is taken from the 1970 report of Aquitaine (Australia and New Zealand) Limited: "After the discovery of major oil seeps on the main island, Tongatapu, several companies commenced negotiations with the Tongan Government. These finally resulted in the creation of a working consortium of six companies in which Aquitaine has a one-sixth interest. The area agreement covers 6,000 square miles blanketing both off-shore (Continental Shelf) and the islands. 2,290 kms. of seismic has been shot in the programme to date. It seems that the Tongan islands are could represent a huge anticlinal ridge draining surrounding oceanic deeps with sediments at least as old as the Eocene".

On May 12 a meeting at the Hague, Holland, of the consortium companies (or Oil Participants) will begin discussions on the results of the surveys up to the present.

Low - Cost Housing Scheme

Many families in Tonga who have a town 'api, manage to save some money or become eligible for Government housing loans and then wonder if they have sufficient to begin building.

The need for a low cost housing scheme in Tonga has been apparent for some time and the Tonga Construction Company has been giving consideration to this. The result is a one-storey house, the outside dimensions of which are 29 ft. long and 17 ft. wide, basically consisting of two rooms, a larger sitting room and a smaller family room.

This low cost house, built of concrete blocks with an iron roof, is designed for the needs of the average and low-income families of Tonga. It can be built in three stages to suit the financial position of the owner.

After depositing $780 cash, stage one will be completed within 10 working days from commencement and the house then becames habitable, although lacking some parts.

If the owner wishes he may leave it as this stage, but if he has further finance available he may continue with stage two, which includes timber doors, glass louvred windows and cement plaster on the interior faces of the block walls. This stage costs a further $290 cash.

All this work will be carried out by tradesmen and is included in the cost. The work will be done quickly and the owner does not have the extra expense of feeding the workmen, as is the usual Tongan practice.

Again, if he has a further $200 cash available, stage three can be completed, consisting of ceilings and ceiling soffits.

All these prices are applicable within the Nuku'alofa area. Plumbing, electrical works and painting of the house can be arranged with the Tonga Construction Company under a separate charge.

Those interested in this scheme should call and see the General Manager of the Tonga Construction Company discuss their requirements with him.

An Easter visitor to Tonga, gathering material for a travel feature about the South Pacific, was a former United States Secretary for the Interior and Governor of Alaska, Mr Walter J. Hickel.

The travel feature he is writing, to include reports about three other South Pacific territories, will be published in the August issue of the American magazine Equire, which has a monthly circulation of more than a million.

Time For Woman M.P.?

A suggestion has been received by the Women's Page that Tongan women elect their own representatives to the Legislative Assembly.

Since 1961, women have been given the right to vote, but still have not taken advantage of the opportunity to elect a representative to the House.

Tongan women are playing an ever increasing role in the welfare of the community. More and more women are entering the civil service and other professions, formerly regarded as exclusively male provinces. In certain fields, women take the lead.

The suggestion made went on to say that Tongan women could not afford to linger in the background any longer. It was about time they took an active part in deciding the future of the country.

PILL REMAINS MOST POPULAR CONTRACEPTIVE

More and more women throughout the world are resorting to the pill because it is more effective and devoid of "ritualistic" preparations, even as some women remain hesitant because of its side effects.

This was revealed by Dr Harry Lean, president of the Asian Federation of Obstetrics and Gynaecology at the Kendang Kerbau Hospital in Singapore during the Third South-East Asia and Oceania Regional Conference on Family Planning, at Baguio, Philippines from March 17 – 27.

This information was supplied by Tonga's representative to the conference, the president of Tonga's Family Planning Association, Mr Lupeti Finau.

Speaking to the delegates on "Contraceptive Methods Now in Use", Dr Lean said about 12 million women throughout the world have at one time or another taken the pill since the first clinical trials began in 1956 and some women have taken it continuously for 12 years.

Reviewing the known side-effects of the pill, Dr Lean said that it is important to establish the continuation rate of pill-users. "The very fact that there are available multiple formulations and presentations of these hormonal agents must imply that the ideal has yet to be found," he pointed out.

He also said that about six million women, most of them in Asian countries are at present using intra-uterine devices. According to him, a majority of these women are in Pakistan, India, South Korea and Taiwan.

Dr Lean also presented a general review of present-day methods of family planning to the over 400 delegates from more than 25 countries who were attending the only medical session of the conference.

He said further that there is evidence that the popularity of traditional medical methods of birth control is declining because of the high failure rate and what he termed as "ritualistic" preparations necessary for their use.

He said:

"But well-motivated couples continue to use them and in Singapore condoms are the second most popular among all methods available at the clinics."

He described the rhythm method as "highly effective" for intelligent couples but warned that "haphazard use of this is most ineffective". There is still hope, he said, that a method of "hormonal essay" could be found to determine the safe period accurately, but meanwhile the rhythm method remains difficult and inefficient for poorly motivated couples, particularly those in the lower social groups.

The Best Performer

Pictured is Miss Kalasipeli 'Iongi (15) of Queen Sālote College the best performer in the girl's events during the inter-college sports last week. Miss 'Iongi's outstanding performance comes as a no surprise, for good sportsmanship seems to run in the family. Her elder sister, Keta 'Iongi is the best sportswoman in Tonga and in the South Pacific. She won four gold medals in the last South Pacific Games. Kalasipeli last week won the 100 yds, 220 yds, 80 m hurdles and ran a fast anchor leg to win the 4 x 100 yd relay, thus equalling the record.

Day of Discussion & Music

Ways of raising funds to finance two delegates from Tonga to the next conference of the Pan-Pacific South-East Asia Women Association (PPSEAWA) were discussed at the local branch's first meeting for the year held at Langafonua House.

The conference is to be held next January in Auckland, New Zealand.

The organiser of the meeting, Mrs E. Skold, wife of the Peace Corps Director in Tonga, spoke to the 35 members who attended, about the history of the Peace Corps movement.

Three Peace Corps Volunteers gave a specific account of their work in Tonga. They were Mrs Judy Goldman, and Mr Bill Granger, teachers at the Teachers' Training College, and the rat control officer, Mr Larry Pierce.

As part of the programme, three American women Mrs Vicky Wheatly, Mrs Camile Richins and Mrs DeAnne Luke with Mrs Lynda Davis at the piano, entertained the meeting with choral items.

KING TO CONFER DEGREES AT FIRST GRADUATION

The first graduation ceremony of the University of the South Pacific will be held on December 6 in Suva, at which degrees will be conferred and diplomas awarded by the Chancellor of the University, His Majesty King Taufa'ahau Tupou IV.

This was announced recently in a speech by the Vice-Chancellor of the university, Dr. C. C. Aikman, who said it was hoped as many of the public as possible would attend on this "great occasion" for the univerity. The present planning was to hold the ceremony in the old hangar where Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, handed the university its Royal Charter.

Among the preparations being made for the first graduation ceremony is to design a suitable gown and hoods for university officers and graduates. The public is also being asked to assist in designing an emblem for the university. What is wanted is something simple that will effectively represent the idea of a regional university in the South Pacific, said Dr. Aikman.

"What kind of students will our first graduates be?" Dr. Aikman continued. "I am confident from what I have seen that the USP will produce graduates of which Fiji and the region will be proud. They will be in great demand. Not only will they have reached high academic standards, their training will have fitted them for the jobs they will be doing in their home countries.

"In particular, the fact that they have had their university education in a Pacific environment will mean that they will understand the background against which they must work. They will appreciate its special problems and, perhaps most important, have an emotional commitment to serve their own communities."

Dr. Aikman said the university was already beginning to see some of the results of its work. Comments had been received in Fiji and overseas on the good impression USP students were making, and the results were beginning to be recognised by overseas universities.

The Vice-Chancellor referred to the appointment of the former Secretary to the Government of Tonga, 'Inoke Faletau, as the university's Resources and External Relations Officer.

"Although Inoke's appointment to the university was agreed to by His Majesty, the King of Tonga and other Ministers in the Tongan Government, the suggestion has been made that the university should not have taken such a prominent public servant from Tonga. I think we can say that the Tongan Government for one has appreciated the need for the university to have staff of high quality and to establish its regional character by appointing senior staff from the region".

Aid Well Spent, Says Report

The money Britain allocates for overseas aid is, in general, "very well spent", says a Parliamentary Select Committee in a report.

There is a deeply-rooted view that money spent on overseas aid is "mostly wasted", or, as it is sometimes, put "overseas aid means taking money from the poor people in the rich countries and giving it to the rich people in the poor countries," but the committee rejects this view, declaring: "The evidence which your committee has examined does not support this view. They are satisfied that, in general, British aid is very well spent —and this opinion is shared by British representatives overseas".

The committee says some earlier aid projects were unsuccessful because of insufficient preparation. It is also true that there has been a tendency on the part of some developing countries to want money for projects which would do more to enhance the prestige of their Government than to raise the standard of living of their peoples.

"Also, in countries where standards of administration are low, it would not be surprising if there were instances of waste and corruption.

"In every respect, however, the administration of aid has shown and continues to show steady improvement."

National plans are now being subjected to greater scrutiny and discussion. Projects are more thoroughly prepared and supervised and technical assistance is given to many branches of public administration, says the committee.

It emphasises the value of the international aid effort and says it should be increased, both in quality and quantity.

Britain, with her unique experience of the developing countries, "already sets a fine example in aid administration and the provision of technical assistance."

A Most Versatile Personality

The Honourable Tāniela Afu Taumoepeau former Minister of Lands, and one of the Kingdom's most versatile personalities, died at his Kolofo'ou residence, last Wednesday at the age of 92.

His death is a loss to the Government, church and family.

From 1899 until his initial retirement in 1946, the Hon Taumoepeau served continuously in the Civil Service. During those years he was a bandsman, assistant tutor at Tonga College, clerk, registrar of the Supreme Court, Police Magistrate, acting Minister of Lands and in 1942 was appointed to the post of Minister of Lands which he held until his retirement.

But in 1947, Hon Taumoepeau was recalled to fill ministerial posts and act as governor of Ha'apai.

He retired in 1948 recalled in 1952, retired in 1953, recalled in 1956 retired in 1957 recalled in 1959 to fill the post of Acting Minister of Lands until he retired in 1962. But in 1963 he was recalled again to the post of Minister without portfolio which he held until his final retirement in 1967, thus bringing the total number of years he had been in the civil service to 57.

His dedication to the Government was complemented by a similar devotion to his Church and family.

As a Methodist he was instrumental in carrying out numerous church activities. He was a leading member of the Church's Conference and the Chief Trusteeship Council.

Hon Taumoepeau is survived by a daughter and four sons, with many grand children and four great grandchildren.

Flags in the Kingdom were flying at half mast on Thursday as a tribute to the former minister.

His Majesty, King Taufa'ahau Tupou IV, Queen Mata'aho and Crown Prince Tupouto'a were among the hundreds of mourners who attended the graveside service at Telekava cemetery on Thursday and conducted by the Acting President of the Methodist Church, Dr S. A. Havea.

COPRA SHIP TOLD NOT TO CALL

The copra vessel "Foylebank" will probably by-pass Tonga on its next voyage. It was due on April 24.

The Acting Manager of the Tonga Copra Board, Mr Sione Kinahoi, said he had informed the head office of the Bank Line in Sydney that Tonga is unlikely to have enough copra in stock to warrant the "Foylebank" making its scheduled call.

Mr Kinahoi said that since the price of whole coconuts had been increased to three seniti last month, little copra was being received by the board. Whole coconuts were being sold for desiccated coconut.

Tongatapu shipped its lowest amount of copra on the "Forresbank" a fortnight ago - 44 tons. This vessel left the Kingdom with only 550 tons of copra, most of which was loaded at Ha'apai and Vava'u. The present stock on hand is 160 tons at Neiafu, 63 at Pangai and one ton at Nuku'alofa.

Mr Kinahoi said this week he doubts if the board can have 500 tons for the "Foylebank" next week. He has advised the company to defer shipment until the "Nestbank" calls on May 24, when he hopes the position will be better.

The board temporarily suspended buying whole coconuts at its outer stations, excluding Mu'a and Haveluloto, on Tuesday.

Knocked Out in Second Round

A rangy southpaw, Ngalu (21), three years younger than Mahanga, boxed stylishly in the first round.

But the first solid punch Mahanga landed, a flashing left hook to the jaw soon after the second round began, was a conclusive finisher.

Where Time Begins

Nuku'alofa, Thursday, April 22, 1971 Vol.VII. No. 46 3 Seniti

The Secretary to Government, Taniela Tufui, greets the Prime Minister of Western Samoa, the Honourable Tamasese Lealofi, and His Royal Highness Crown Prince Tupouto'a is waiting to welcome the Prime Minister of Fiji, Ratu Sir Kamisese Mara, at Fua'amotu Airport as they arrived for the Pacific Island Producers' Association conference.

His Majesty King Taufa'ahau Tupou IV, acompanied by the Director of Agriculture, Mr John Pitman, leaves the Dateline Hotel after officially opening the conference. Following His Majesty is the Fiji Prime Minister.

GET BETTER OR GET OUT, BANANA PRODUCERS TOLD

"Improve your product or go out of business". This was the message the managing-director for Fruit Distributors Ltd, New Zealand, Mr Ross Walker, had for banana growers when he spoke at the annual conference of the Pacific Island Producers' Association at the Dateline Hotel in Nuku'alofa yesterday.

Fruit Distributors is the sole marketing organisation for bananas in New Zealand for all Pacific Island producers.

Mr Walker said there was considerable dissatisfaction in New Zealand with the consumers, retailers and wholesalers, with the type of banana coming from the Pacific Islands and it may shortly be necessary for Fruit Distributors to demand that the No. 1 clause in the grading standards set down and accepted by the territories be adhered to. This clause reads :

"The fruit must be grown on clean, disease-free, properly run plantations, periodically inspected by a qualified inspector of the Department of Agriculture and passed as fit for producing fruit."

Besides having to face considerable quality problems there had also been the problems of rising costs of transport, not only sea transport but rail and road transport in New Zealand the cost of cases, and other incidentals, Mr Walker said.

"While the cost of fruit has been going up the quality has been going down and these events have had a very bad effect on the Island banana business," he continued.

"It is well known that we have made up the shortages in recent years with shipments from Ecuador and Costa Rica. These countries are competing to sell their fruit on a world market and and as a result considerable emphasis is given to cultural practices, handling and presentation. Despite the fact that the voyage from Ecuador is carried out in chartered ships, returning back to that country empty, a voyage occupying almost six weeks, the fruit at present is cheaper to land in New Zealand at two ports than Island bananas," Mr Walker said.

Fruit Distributors had done its best, he said, to provide an Island banana market, but it had suffered so many problems associated with Island bananas which had not been properly tackled by the Island authorities.

The problem was in the hands of PIPA member countries, Mr Walker told the delegates. If they wished to continue on the present lines it was obvious that the banana market would continue to deteriorate.

Growing Pains

By the Editor

PIPA is only six and like any youngster it is asking questions about life – like "What am I here for?"

PIPA (the Pacific Island Producers' Association) is holding its sixth session in Nuku'alofa this week at the Dateline Hotel. About 30 delegates representing six territories are discussing, generally, ways and means of achieveing closer regional economic co-operation to gain the most efficient use of the resources of member countries and improve the conditions of the rural people.

But is PIPA doing its job, some delegates were asking. Is it as dynamic as it should be? Is it just a disseminator of masses of paper or is it really providing the information and advice that members expected?

Many delegates felt a need to strengthen the secretariat to deal with all the problems, possibly a directorate to get things done.

But the general feeling was don't knock PIPA too hard; it is too young to die.

The organisation was likened to a young tree that was too young to bear fruit. Before it did it would have to be nurtured and fertilised. If it was attacked with an axe now it would die before it had chance to show what it can produce.

The conference was opened on Monday afternoon by His Majesty King Taufa'āhau Tupou who told the delegates that in spite of oil and mineral exploration, agriculture would continue to play an important part in the lives of the Pacific peoples.

"DEAR SIR..."

Letters to the Editor.

Policemen

Dear Sir.—To see people being indiscriminately belted up by policemen is just too much for me. Last week was about the umpteenth time I had witnessed policemen in Tonga acting as though they have absolute right to enforce the law in any manner they deem effective; and I feel it is high time someone does something about it.

The particular incident or incidents to which I want to refer occurred at 'Atele during the inter-secondary school athletics. At the back of the shelter built for the officials there were dozens of school pupils and adults were watching the events. They were orderly and were not in any way interfering with the work that the officials were doing and there was no complaint whatsoever from the officials – of whom I was one.

The policeman stationed at or around the shelter did not like the presence of non-officials behind the shelter. He ordered (not asked) them to get away from the shelter and at the same time indiscriminately belted them on the heads with a stick.

The policeman repeated this brutish act of assault several times, much to the disgust of palangi and Tongan officials alike.

The sports days were, and are, meant mainly for the pupils and their parents and relatives and every effort should be made to accommodate them in a respectable and friendly manner, becoming of the inhabitants of the Friendly Islands, and not for policemen to cane them.

I would therefore recommend that the appropriate authorities insist on policemen remembering and acting accordingly on the following:

(a) They are the servants, and not masters, of the general public;

(b) Their work would be much more facilitated if they tried to get through to the public in a friendly, humane and persuasive manner.

(c) There is a limit to the public's patience when they are unjustly handled with unnecessary force.

MANNERS PLEASE.

What's in a Name

Dear Sir.—In a recent Chronicle, our learned Bishop submitted a letter regarding the origin of the name Nuku'alofa which appeared very attractive indeed and the present writer wishes for touristic and sentimental reasons that his arguments were supported by the linguistic facts. But, Alas! This does not appear to be the case.

If we carefully examine the compound words where 'alofa was an element we can see that there is a very marked trend for 'alofa to become 'ofa (a shorter form). The following words illustrate this trend.

tu'a'alofa becomes tu'a'ofa ta'e'alofa becomes ta'e'ofa me'a'alofa becomes me'a'ofa.

In accordance with this trend, if Nuku'alofa, in ancient times, was a compound made up of Nuku and 'alofa then it would have changed its form to Nuku and 'ofa by now. This has not been the case.

On the other hand, the compound words where lofa is an element have not changed their form at all for the simple reason that the change from 'alofa to 'ofa was completely irrelevant. The following words illustrate this:

Lofanga, māmālofa, fakalofa.

As the word Nuku'alofa has not changed to Nuku'ofa, the conclusion seems inescapable that it is a lofa compound and not an 'alofa compound.

Much as we would like to make Nuku'alofa mean "Place of loving-kindness," we can only do so by bending the linguistic facts to suit our wishes. I suggest that this would be highly improper. I suggest that it is better to make our wishes fit the facts. The facts seem to support Nuku-'a-lofa and not Nuku-'alofa. So our capital city must remain "Island of Frigate Birds" despite our wishes for the more attractive meaning.

CONTRIBUTOR.

National Costume

Dear Sir.—I want to comment on national costume. It gives me pleasure to see countries like India sticking to their national costume. Europeans coming in to Tonga have their different types of national costumes. Tonga has a standard national costume which depicts the prevalence of social respect within the different sets of our society.

The vala and the ta'ovala is gradually being outsted by high hanging miniskirt worn by the girls, also now seen in our streets is the wide use of bell-bottom slacks by the girls.

Some people may term this "progress" but I am vehemently against this. Why shouldn't we stick to our traditional costume?

Thanks to the European for giving us second-hand clothes, but let us return to tradition. Don't be misled from the vala and ta'o-vala to the high hanging mini-skirt and the bell-bottom trousers for they are devilish!

DR TALIEFU.

NOTHING TO HIDE

This young lady has no inhibitions, she did what many of us would like to do on a glorious sunny day – fling off our clothes. What's more, nobody seemed to mind in the least, and she did make a pretty picture. The photograph is by August Hettig.

Regional Shipping Line

A regional shipping line, akin to the regionally – owned Fiji Airways, has been suggested by the Prime Minister of Western Samoa, Tupua Lealofi Tamasese. He wants Island governments to form a joint shipping line to maintain a service between the Pacific Islands and New Zealand. Tupua Tamasese announced in Apia he had asked Tonga, Fiji and Nauru to meet to discuss co-operative shipping.

If Prime Minister Tamasese's proposal is heeded by Island governments, then a realistic step forward in the co-operative economic activities of the Pacific Island governments will be realied. This is a venture that all Island governments should seriously consider as of top priority in their current development programmes.

The Tongan vessel "Niuvākai" does not call in New Zealand. It sails from Tonga to Fiji and then straight to Australia leaving all local cargoes, which are mostly agricultural products for New Zealand, to be picked up by the Union Steam Ship vessels, which they call at the Islands with general cargoes from New Zealand.

This shipping arrangement is desirable for economic reasons. However, if Union Steam Ship freight rates maintain their upward trend indefinitely, then it is time for the Islands governments to take the most appropriate steps within their means to safeguard their respective economies.

A shipping line for the Islands, will provide the answer for the long and common wish by most Islands for inter-islands trade and co-operative activities, thereby sharing their inspirations, hope and resources for their mutual benefits

The great advantage of this proposal lies in the fact, that while there are over three million people in the Pacific Islands, there are predominantly only three ethnological groups – Polynesians, Melanesians and Micronesians. Their cultures are basically the same, and their traditional dietary patterns are very closely related, an extremely important factor in inter-islands trade.

The freight rates can then be under a well-controlled and well-organized body specially created for the purpose if needed; or at least the islands will have the authority to discuss and agree on the most suitable freight rates to be adopted. The chronic problem of waiting for overseas ships with overseas cargoes for the Islands will also be solved.

It must have been a tremendous effort on the part of the Prime Minister Tamasese to persuade his government to accept a scheme whereby all the shipping profits will go to only a few of the Islands at the beginning. However, this unselfish proposal in the initiating of a scheme that will, in the long run, accrue equitable benefits to all concerned, reveals an unselfishness which will contribute to the harmonious co-operation of the people of the Pacific Islands.

Western Samoa, through its Prime Minister's proposal, is initiating a change in the Islands' chronic competitive attitudes and jealousies which greatly has hindered mutual understanding and co-operation. This has held back the mutual benefits that should have been their many years ago.

WARNING AGAINST FORMING A REGIONAL SHIPPING LINE

Pacific Islands governments will risk losing a lot of money and get few, if any, economic benefits if they club together to form a regional shipping line, says a Fiji Times report.

This is the view of British economist Mr John Baker, who is studying shipping services in the region and has been closely associated with the management of the Tonga Shipping Agency. He outlined his ideas at a meeting of the Economics Association of Fiji.

Mr Baker said the management services and competition from established shipping interests looming over the idea of a regional service would mean for the governments involved in it "substantial and continuing financial losses".

Despite constant talks about the inadequacy of existing services, those being operated were geared to the economic needs of the Pacific Islands and current freight rates were "reasonable".

"I can see no point in duplicating services that already exist," Mr Baker said. Firstly, there was hardly enough cargo offering for existing services would generate more trade between the territories. Because of lack of resources, some territories had hardly anything to export.

For instance, in 1969 Fiji exported or re-exported more than $1 million worth of goods to Tonga, but the value of goods sent from Tonga to Fiji was only $10,000.

BEYOND CONTROL

Services between New Zealand and the Pacific Islands maintained by the Union Steam Ship Co. were efficient. They were losing the company money for reasons which were outside the company's control.

Mr Baker predicted that if a regional line entered the trade to New Zealand, all that would happen would be the same amount of cargo being chased by two companies.

If the Union company lost half its cargo to a Pacific Islands line, its costs would go up and so it would be force to put its freight rates up again or cut its schedules.

Mr Baker weighed the supposed advantages of a regional shipping line against factors which, he said, would in most cases cancel them out.

Supporters of a regional line said it would save foreign exchange, but ships of the size needed would have to be bought abroad, slipped abroad, insured abroad and bunkered with imported oil.

Although jobs aboard the ships would be created for Pacific Islanders, not more than 40 or 50 would be necessary for each ship. The cost of buying a ship to create this number of jobs was disproportionately great.

It was said the pay earned by the crews would be of economic value to their home territories, but experience with the Tongan ship "Niuvākai" showed that its crew members spent about 80 to 90 per cent of their pay in Sydney each time the ship went there.

Another argument in favour of a regional line was that crew costs would be lower. Mr Baker said this saving would be more than 10 per cent and would be eliminated by inefficiency caused by managerial inexperience.

The major problem, Mr Baker reiterated, was the lack of cargo to be carried. "In planning regional services, there is no guarantee that they would receive any particular share of the business available".

Although proponents of the service quoted Fiji Airways as an example of successful regional ownership, they ignored the fact that the airline had a monopoly. A regional shipping line would not have one.

NOT NEW

Mr Baker said pressure for a regional shipping service was not new. Tonga began a shipping line in 1923 and had been running services to Australia since 1966. Nauru had now bought three cargo ships.

But, Mr Baker added, because of management problems the Tongan and Nauru ventures were running at heavy losses. The "Niuvākai" was losing about $60,000 a year. The Tongan Government had been urged to sell the ship but, as Cabinet decisions were needed, she was still sailing.

Pacific Islands governments did not have enough people with the expertise needed to implement an efficient regional shipping service, Mr Baker said. The governments would do far better if they concentrated on cutting freight rates within their own territories by building more roads and jetties.

The "Niuvākai" passing under Sydney Harbour Bridge . . . profitable since March last year.

Report Of Economist Is "Amazing"

The Tonga Marine Superintendent, Captain Chris Hill-Willis, says he is "amazed" at the Fiji Times report of British economist Mr John Baker saying that the Tongan vessel the "Niuvākai" is losing about $60,000 a year.

The ship is operating at a profit, Captain Hill-Willis said, and has been since March, 1970.

"I don't think Mr Baker has been correctly quoted in this article as it does not sound like him at all."

Captain Hill-Willis said Mr Baker was not closely associated with the Tonga Shipping Agency. "He was merely asked for economic advice, some of which has been used."

There were two ways of looking at the regional shipping proposal, Captain Hill-Willis said, academic and practical.

He said he was not denying Mr Baker his acquired knowledge, some of it supplied by the Tonga Shipping Agency, but the knowledge of people and shipping acquired on a world-wide basis over many years must also be considered.

"The regional shipping proposal should receive priority attention," Captain Hill-Willis said, "or the islands of the South-West Pacific, already held to ransom by foreign shipping companies will have no voice whatsoever and no control over freights, without positive ownership of their own vessels.

Commenting on employment for island seamen, Captain Hill-Willis said this should not stop at them just being crew members at the lower level, but should be as done by Tonga: the complete manning of a ship from master to galley boy.

Captain Hill-Willis is expected to address the Pacific Island Producers' Association conference this week on the regional shipping line proposal.

MR. BAKER "SORELY MISQUOTED"

A few days after Captain Hill-Willis made his statement, he received a personal letter from Mr Baker saying he had been "sorely misquoted" by the Fiji Times with regard to his remarks about Tonga. Mr Baker said the "errors perpetrated" on him were:

1. "I did not say that 'Tonga began a shipping line in 1923'. Rather I said the earliest occasion on which I had found evidence of any interest in regional shipping had been in Tonga in 1923. I was referring to a letter from the Premier to a New Zealand businessman, a copy of which is in the Fiji archives.

2. "I did not say that the '"Niuvākai" was losing about $60,000 a year.' I pointed out that more recently changes in management had stopped any losses, but that management remained a problem for a small company in that all depended on one man – and should he leave then it was back to square one.

3. As far as selling the 'Niuvākai' is concerned, I pointed out that in an operation like the Tonga Shipping Agency there was a risk of the company being run like a Government Department. If the manager wanted to sell a vessel like the 'Niuvākai' quickly and replace it by a different vessel, there was a problem that Cabinet and Ministerial approval had to be sought. All of which reduced the flexibility of the operation."

The new Taha-kae-afe Hotel on 'Eua was opened by Her Majesty Queen Mata'aho last Wednesday.

The Queen and guests left Nuku'alofa on board the "'Ulufonua" early in the morning escorted by the "Fangailifuka" and the "Pulupaki". On her arrival in 'Eua she was greeted by what must have been nearly all the people, particularly the school children, who lined the streets and cheered her every step.

When Her Majesty arrived at the new hotel to open it, she was welcomed by the owner. Mr Lance Collins, who thanked her for her personal participation in the ceremony.

The Queen was invited by Mr Collins to plant a tree to commemorate the occasion. Mr Collins presented to Her Majesty a fine kava plant, a fat pig and several yams.

Then came the official opening of the door at the main entrance of the hotel, which Her Majesty did with a beribboned key.

The name, Taha-kae-afe, means "one who has so much ability or influence that he is 'as good as a thousand'" (Churchward).

Tea was served in the main lounge following the Queen's inspection of the hotel. Her Majesty said she was very pleased with the facilities and it should make a pleasant retreat for all Tongans as well as tourists.

The owner and builder of the hotel, Mr Collins (27) is a New Zealander. In his search for heaven on earth he settled in Tonga in May last year. He found the island of 'Eua most to his liking, "being pleasant the year round and mosquitoless".

He began building Taha-kae-afe in September last year.

The hotel is small and delightful with four double units for sleeping, a main lounge and a dining room. The buildings have been designed in the character of the islands. They are entirely of native materials and look like Tongan fales, but with all the pleasantries of Western living.

Encouraging signs in marketing of Tongan vanilla

Great improvements in world marketing of cured vanilla beans produced in Tonga are reported by the Government Marketing Adviser, Mr K. S. Masters.

Sample beans were sent to the United Kingdom, Philadelphia, U.S. and New Zealand. Favourable reports were received from the importer in Philadelphia which resulted in an initial order for 700lbs at an F.O.B. price of U.S. $10 a kilo (about T$4.40 a lb).

Favourable reports have also been received from the United Kingdom, but the importer is committed to his present supply for the next three months. Subject to price negotiation, there is a large potential market.

Reports have still to be received from the New Zealand market.

Until recently production in Tonga had been only sufficient to supply the established market in Australia. However, with the improved curing period established by the Department of Agriture, now from 3·5 months, compared with 8 months two years ago, it was hoped production of cured beans would be maintained to satisfy the newly-acquired markets.

TOBACCO PROSPECTS.

Late last year samples of locally-grown tobacco leaf were sent to the United Kingdom for analysis by one of the world's leading tobacco manufacturers. Mr Masters has received information that a most favourable report had been received on these tests and a 70lb sample would be provided for inclusion into a blend of cigarettes for sample purposes.

Mr Masters said that should these tests prove successful, this may be an export crop for the future.

Urgent Aid From N Z.

In response to an urgent request from the University of the South Pacific the New Zealand Government has provided further aid amounting to $5600 for the provision of kitchen equipment for the university's student dining room.

This assistance will enable the university to continue to produce good meals and maintain reasonable standards of hygiene to meet anticipated increased demands. The number of meals served at each sitting will rise from 260 in 1970 to 440 for 1971 as the student role in the university continues to increase.

Police overpower Kolomotu'a in second half

Sporting Scene

Kolofo'ou Fully Extended By Fasi

By ROBBIE

Before a larger crowd than opening day (8000), the Police had no trouble in defeating Kolomotu'a by 22 points (2 goals, 3 tries and penalty) to 3 (1 penalty), after leading by only 6 to nil at half-time.

There were the occasional bursts of brilliance from both back lines, but these were too few and far between, considering the talent on both sides. The Police backline is loaded with speed but indiffrent handling and close marking by the Kolomotu'a backs nullified this advantage.

Again we saw the inside backs on both sides, perhaps more often from Kolomotu'a, throwing away the advantage by thougtless kicking right into the arms of a waiting fullback.

Kolomotu'a were first to settle down and kept the Police off balance with good bustling tactics. It was only the long raking line kicks of 'Ilavalu that eased the pressure. His all-round play and speed off the mark, together with his goal-kicking ability, makes him one of the best. A great pity he is not eligible for overseas touring teams.

Kei 'Iongi, Vānisi and Malakai showed patches of form that won them Representative honours and towards the end of play Sami Lātū at second found the gaps and proved he will need watching in future matches.

Of the Police forwards Alele took my eye, he scored one good try and made a grand break to put speedy winger Siope in for another.

'Apai Kaitu'u, back in the forwards for Kolomotu'a, showed good lineout form and was able to ease the burden for Sēlupe. But the Kolomotu'a forwards made too many mistakes which cost points.

Māhanga should have known better than to tackle the man without the ball when he was going for the line, but I thought that the penalty try was a bit severe when there were still three othere players there who might have scored. With the handling the way it is there was a better than even chance of a knock-on before the ball was cleanly forced for a try.

Tali at centre was not getting good ball, but when he went into first five eighth he also caught the bug and kicked every time he received from the halfback. It is hard to get the points on the board without the ball.

All in all it was not the exciting game that everyone was hoping for. But it had its moments, and it has proved that it will have to be a fast, fit bustling side that has a chance of beating Police. They are beatable.

Scorers for Police were :– Vanisi 2 tries, 'Alele, Siope 1 each, 1 penalty try, 'Ilavalu 2 conversions and a penalty. Kolomotu'a No. 11, Leapele kicked a penalty.

KOLOFO'OU v FASI

In the Kolofo'ou, Fasi encounter, a brilliant dropped goal by Metui towards the end of play clinched the match.

Full credit must go to Fasi for holding Kolofo'ou to this narrow victory but on the day I would have considered Kolofo'ou unlucky not to have won.

The best forward of the match must surely have been Soane Leger who managed to make his presence felt right along the white backs. He was certainly instrumental in some of the handling lapses by Kolofo'ou.

'Uhila also showed that he can't be given too much of a gap because his speed off the mark is always a potential danger. Henelē, the Kolofo'ou hooker again showed good all round form and is deceivingly fast for his size.

I liked the move that led to the try after half-time when Foliaki doubled around Taumoepeau accepted a nicely timed pass ran hard and put Mosese in for a good try. More of these moves should be practised, it is not only good to see but they score points.

COMMENTS: The International Board are considering further rule changes for the good of the game, like increasing the points for a try from 3 to 4, not allowing the defending halfback to follow the ball round the scrum (he will have to wait until it is clear the same as the other players) and allowing further adjustment of the ball taken from a pass before declaring it a knock-on.

I would like to see individual clubs penalise their inside backs every time they are guilty of kicking away possession. But this would be too much to expect although it would make the game so much better.

I would also like to see some referees decide whether or not an advantage has been gained by the non-offending side a little quicker than they are doing at present. These long delays can be hard on the players.

See you again at the game next Saturday.

Saturday's results are:

JUNIOR GRADE: Vaini 18, Lōtolu 0; Kauvai 8, Ma'ufanga 6; Houma 14, Hahake 11; Nukunuku 5, Ha'ateiho 0; Fasi 3, Kolofo'ou 3; Vaheloto 6, Mu'a 3; Hihifo 9, Longolongo 0.

Longolongo No. 8, Mōlia Tu'itupou scores from a forward rush in their match with Hihifo last Saturday. Longolongo defeated Hihifo by 9 – 0. Referendum On Death Penalty?

The retention or abolition of the death penalty for murder may become the subject of Fiji's first national referendum.

The House of Representatives has decided that partial suspension of the death penalty, which has been in force since 1966, should be extended by a further 12 months.

By May 31 next year, when the extension will expire, a decision will have been made on whether to hold a special national vote on hanging.

LITTLE EFFECT YET FROM FIJI STRIKE

The effect of the Fiji Dockworkers' Union strike is not being greatly felt by shops in Nuku'alofa yet, except for a imported luxury goods from Fiji.

One popular brand of cigarettes was sold out in some of the main wholesale stores early this week.

A spokesman for Riechelmann Bros. said they have only few cartons in stock which they use for packing their locally made biscuit. They are prepared to use plastic bags and some used cartons for packing.

At Morris Hedstrom Ltd. they are concerned that their regular meat shipment from Suva they might not arrive.

Raw sugar imported from Fiji has sold out in Nuku'alofa.

The Union Steam Ship Company's freighter "Waimate" which was scheduled to call at Nuku'alofa this week with 171 tons of cargo for Tonga has been strike-bound at Lautoka since Thursday last week.

The "Tarawera" will by-pass Fiji ports this week and is due at Nuku'aofa from Auckland via Apia next Monday.

The Tonga Shipping Agency vessel "Aoniu" which was scheduled to sail for Suva is still in Nuku'alofa. Its next voyage is yet to be determined.

But the "Hifofua" and the oil barge "Lolomana'ia" went to Suva early this week to get petrol. It is believed it will not be affected by the strike.

The Fiji dockworkers' strike, which began on April 8 continues without any sign of settlement. The men are seeking pay rises.

BOY TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER

Sixteen-year-old student 'Aisake Mafi of Tokomoiolo has been charged with murder following the death of a 14-year-old 'Uiha boy, Manase Niuafe, on April 5.

A preliminary hearing was held at the Nuku'alofa Police Court yesterday and seven witnesses were called by the police. Magistrate 'Unga Hafoka after hearing the evidence referred the case to the Supreme Court.

The accused's lawyer, Taniela Manu elected for the case to be tried by jury.

Mafi was remanded in custody of the police until a date yet to be set for the case to be heard at the Supreme Court.

Sergeant Kengikē appeared for the police.

According to the police report, Mafi and several other students, including the deceased, were walking home from the Mormon Church Side School at Haveluloto when they had a fight near the inter-section of the Taufa'ahau Road and 'Alaivahamama'o By-pass.

The police say Mafi was attacked by Niuafe and his schoolmates. When Niuafe and other students ran away from Mafi he picked up a piece of waterpipe, 18in long and half an inch in diameter, threw the pipe, hit Niuafe on the back of the head and brought him to the ground.

Niuafe was rushed to hospital but was dead on arrival.

Beware of Phoney Visa Sellers

It has come to the attention of the American Consulate in Suva, Fiji, that a person or persons are collecting fees in Tonga for visas which are supposedly sent to the consulate before a visa is issued.

The United States Government has no consular representatives or agents resident in the Kingdom of Tonga and furthermore, the United States Government charges no fee for issuing a non-immigrant visa to the citizens of Tonga.

There is a fee of $20 for issuing an immigrant visa, plus $5 for taking the oath.

If there is any money to be paid in connection with an immigrant visa, the money must be paid directly to the visiting consular officer or be paid in person at the consulate in Suva, or, if the applicant is unable to travel to Suva, to be mailed directly to the consulate by registered mail.

No other person is qualified or permitted to collect money in connection with visa applications.

Experience tells in women's cricket

By ROBBIE

First use of the Mala'e Pangai went to the women on Saturday when Ngele'ia played a team from Fasi.

This was Fasi's first match and the experience of the Ngele'ia side proved too much for them and they were defeated by an innings and rus.

Sulieti continued on her devastating way and at one stage I counted she had taken 8 wickets for 5 runs. However, because of some difficulties in the scoring I was not able to obtain full details.

If the teams want their matches reported, they must make arrangements to have competent scorers and have the book sent to me.

MEN'S CRICKET

The women had no sooner vacated the field when Paini-Tu'u-Ua and a Nuku'alofa XI took the field. Paini-Tu'u-Ua won by 10 runs.

SCORES: Nuku'alofa XI, 1st Innings 40 (Vakavelo 12); 2nd Innings 60 (Ta'ani 42, Vakavelo 16).

Paini-Tu'u-Ua, 1st Innings 82 (T. 'Uli'i 38); 2nd Innings 28 (T. 'Uli'i 8).

PIPA'S PAINS

A significant departure for PIPA was the decision at the first session on Tuesday morning to open the conference to the Press. Previously, the conference, with the exception of the opening, had been closed to the news media and a statement was issued at the close of the conference.

The importance of the conference was emphasised by the presence of four of the top leaders in the South Pacific. The Prime Minister of Fiji, Ratu Sir Kamisese Mara had even left his country at a time of serious industrial strife and the Premier of the Cook Islands, Mr Albert Henry, interrupted important talks in New Zealand. The other national leaders were the Prime Minister of Western Samoa, Tamasese Lealofi and the Prime Minister of Tonga, Prince Tu'ipelehake.

Western Samoa's Prime Minister was elected President of PIPA for two years at the first session and the other Prime Ministers were elected Vice-Presidents. Fiji's Prime Minister was the previous President.

It was predicted that the four leaders during their time at the conference would hold exploratory talks to consider establishing a political forum grouping all South Pacific territories. At the time of writing it looked unlikely that the leaders would have time for these talks. Ratu Mara was due to return to Fiji today and Mr Henry was going back to New Zealand to have talks with Prime Minister Sir Keith Holyoake.

Yesterday the four Prime Ministers were the lunch guests of His Majesty at his country home, Kauvai, and this may have given them an opportunity to talks about subjects other than bananas and coconuts.

The PIPA conference ends on Saturday and will reconvene next year in the Cook Islands.

Holiday on Monday

Next Monday, April 26, will be a public holiday in the Kingdom commemorating Anzac Day on April 25, the Australia and New Zealand day honouring war dead.

Doctor Declared Vailea Unfit

The Vava'u heavyweight champion, Koli Vailea was declared medically unfit by Dr L. Fonua to fight Maile Haumono of Kolomotu'a last Friday.

This resulted in the cancellation of the billed heavyweight bout.

Dr Fonua reported that Vailea had a right swollen knuckle and was unable to fight for two weeks.

The pre-feature six-round-middleweight contest was re-scheduled as the 10-round main feature where Tevita Piu met Fisi'ihoi Tonga'uiha of Houma.

Piu won by a tko when Tonga'uiha received a fractured right hand toward the end of six-round and refused to continue.

N Z. TOLD TO STEP UP PACIFIC AID

The present level of aid to the South Pacific from all sources is substantial in relation to the size of the countries concerned, but is inadequate to achieve self-substaining economic growth, the director of the New Zealand Institute of Economic Research Mr Jim Rowe, told the "South Pacific Year 1971" meeting in Wellington, according to Pacific Island Trade News.

Without extraordinary efforts by New Zealand and other developed nations, the economic development potential of many South Pacific countries was very limited, he said.

In terms of natural resources, physical capital, work force calibre, organisational efficiency and economic motivation the prospects for Western Samoa, Tonga, the Cooks, Niue and the Tokelaus were poor. Only by matching more internal effort with more external assistance could these countries progress, or even hold their own, in the face of rising population.

Economic take-off depended more on the will of tne people than external aid, but aid could encourage as well as ease economic growth.

New Zealand should step up its aid and extend it to Fiji and Tonga. New Zealand interests should focus more sharply on political, social and cultural as well as Government and private economic interests.

New Zealand contributed $4 million to Western Samoa, the Cooks, Niue and the Tokelaus or $1.50 a head the 2.8 million population. Even if its aid were substantially increased, it would still fall far short of Australia's current $129 million to Papua and New Guinea, which was $11 a head of its 13 million population.

Mr Rowe, who is also chairman of Volunteer Service Abroad, said where New Zealand could not assist South Pacific countries to achieve self-sustaining economic growth, it should assist the people concerned to migrate.

The scale of development assistance required was relatively expensive in view of New Zealand's resources and other commitments. People and money, private as well as public, should be focussed on the task.

More time, money and effort should be devoted to Pacific Islanders in New Zealand to avoid the appearance of racially identifiable, economically or socially disadvantaged group. Much the same applied to the Maori.

More research, better welfare services and greater imagination in education were necessary. New Zealand children should be made aware of the South Pacific and the differences between countries such as Tonga and Rarotonga.

CO-OPERATION

Mutually beneficial trade arrangements, co-operation in air and sea transport and tourism should be carefully studied.

Increasing aid to $10 million a year by 1975 would go a long way to assisting the relatively small South Pacific countries. This would not prove too great a burden on New Zealand goods and services, instead of benefiting other developed countries.

As much emphasis should be given to Fiji and Tonga as was now given to Western Samoa and aid to these three should be increased relative to the Cook Islands and Niue. However New Zealand had a special interest in helping the latter takeoff, otherwise they would require steadily increasing subsidies.

All aid should be in support of local planned development, neither dictated from New Zealand nor merely reflecting transient or prestige aspirations in the Islands.

PACIFIC SUMMIT TALKS IN NEW ZEALAND EXPECTED

A summit conference of Pacific leaders will probably be held in New Zealand, the Fiji Times reports.

The Fiji Prime Minister, Ratu Sir Kamisese Mara, told his news conference on Monday he had been authorised by leaders at the Pacific Islands Producers' Association conference in Tonga to consult with New Zealand about the feasibility of holding a seminar there.

Subjects submitted by the leaders of the independent countries in the Pacific would be discussed.

"This information has been passed on to New Zealand this morning and we await further developments from them," Ratu Sir Kamisese added.

Why was it suggested that the meeting be held in New Zealand?

The Prime Minister said New Zealand was a country close at hand with a higher standard of development, but with the same objectives that the island territories had in mind.

New Zealand had experts who could discuss the territories' problems and the possible solutions.

Ratu Sir Kamisese said each head of government would submit a list of suggested topics from which New Zealand would make a selection.

One topic the Fiji Prime Minister said he would be suggesting was concerned with the mass media, their responsibilities to and influence on the people, and their role in the development of the territories.

Regional Shipping Idea Endorsed

The idea of a regional shipping line was fully endorsed by all member countries, at last week's Pacific Islands Producers' Association conference held at the Dateline Hotel in Nuku-'alofa.

It was resolved that PIPA form a joint working group to fully investigate the organisation and operation of a regional shipping line based mainly on the existing facilities of the Tonga Shipping Agency to encourage the development into a fully representative regional shipping line.

Each territory is to appoint representatives to the working group after consultation with respective governments and the group is to start functioning as soon as possible after the end of the conference.

The decision to base the groups study on Tonga's achievement in shipping is recognition of a notable venture by the Kingdom. It is also very much in line with the mood of the conference to develop facilities already in existence in the region.

The Manager of the Tonga Shipping Agency, Captain Chris Hill-Willis, said in speaking to the conference, Tonga had carri-

Mercy Mission To Niua Fo'ou For Sick Policeman

The end of a mission of mercy. Many hands help in the difficult task of carrying a sick Policeman on a stretcher down down the steep gangway of the Union Steam Ship Company's freighter "Tarawera" on Monday morning.

The sick man is Corporal Nafetalai Fotu (43) who was picked up from Niua Fo'ou in the early hours of Sunday morning by the "Tarawera" which made a diversion on its voyage from Apia to Nuku'alofa.

On Saturday a message was received by the Director of Health, Dr Supileo Foliaki, from the medical officer on Niua Fo'ou that Corporal Fotu was ill and unconscious and should be brought to Nuku-'alofa. With the help of the Resident Agent for the Union Company, Mr Randall Wiggs, a message was transmitted to the "Tarawera", and its master, Captain A. P. Sulikosky agreed to go to the island and pick up the sick man.

The "Tarawera" was brought as close to the beach as possible under difficult conditions and one of the ship's boats was sent ashore to collect Corporal Fotu, his wife and four children.

He remained semi-conscious during most of the journey to to Nuku'alofa and on the ship's arrival, Dr Foliaki went aboard to check on the man's condition before he was carried ashore and taken to hospital.

HANGED

Kēlepi Suli Leao (45) of Houma was hanged at 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning for the murder of Tāufa Lūtelo, also of Houma, last November.

The execution took place at Hu'atolitoli Prison in the presence of Police and Court officials and a doctor who certified death.

The last death sentence was carried out in Tonga in August, 1955, when two men were hanged.

Letters to the Editor.

Soil Improvement

Dear Sir.—I am always doubtful as to the validity of the information I receive from the programme on improving the soil fertility, organised by the Agriculture Department. Ever since I applied the instructions I have received from the programme, I have never had any good result from it. I wonder about the following points:

Is it possible that by applying only one type of fertilizer to the different types of soil in Tonga we would be able to obtain good result from the crops. The constituents of each type of soil vary considerably?

Why doesn't the Agriculture Department conduct a scientific test on all the different types of soil in order to establish the correct constituents of each type of soil and subsequently the variety of crops to be planted can also be determined.

In other countries, the practice is to carry out a scientific test of the soil prior to the application of fertiliser, this does not only determine the proportion of the fertilizer, this also decides the kind and quantity applicable and a good result is always achieved.

If the soil is not tested before I apply the fertilizer, how can I decide on the fertilizer suitable for the crops because they need a balanced nutrient if a fruitful result is to be achieved.

From my observation, a complete fertilizer must be used and in the correct quantity. If I use a fertilizer which is detrimental to my crops the loss I have suffered could have been prevented if the soil had been tested scientifically before hand.

If by chance I apply the correct type and right quantity of fertilizer to my plantation and a good harvest is reaped, now, in the ensuing year, how am I able to obtain the same result, the soil factors will be different due to the intake of available nutrients by the past year's crops?

I have observed that a lot of my banana plants have become disease stricken and mature at the wrong time because of I used the fertilizer.

If we are to buy the fertilizer, can we afford the price?

I believe that we are wasting a lot of time and energy on the programme of improving the soil fertility if the soil is not scientifically tested so that the soil constituents can be found and the correct type and quantity of fertilizer applied accordingly.

Nuku'alofa

Dear Sir. — I found the article on the frigate bird which appeared in the Chronicle most interesting and informative. Likewise Soane Hupeto's article in the Chronicle on April 15, was also most interesting and informative regarding the origin of the word "Nuku'alofa". I would like to join in the discussion of the origin of the name Nuku'alofa.

Historically it is true to say that "Nuku" is a name of a Samoan man who was heroic Ma'afu's most trustworthy personage. It was alleged that Ma'afu had requested the king to destroy all those who revolted against him, but the king instead asked Ma'afu to sail to Fiji and introduced Christianity there, and that he should leave his most trustworthy personage behind to welcome Taufa'ahau.

So Ma'afu sailed to Fiiji leaving the Samoan "Nuku" behind, Ma'afu's most trustworthy personage, to welcome Taufa'ahau. When Taufa'ahau returned from Ha'apai, Nuku was waiting for him at the present site known as Fangatapu today.

Nuku conveyed Taufa'ahau before presence of the king. The king greeted Taufa'ahau saying, "You shall return to Ha'apai, prepared everything and then come back within three days." Nuku had learnt of the instruction given to Taufa'ahau.

Nuku and Taufa'ahau went back to Fangatapu and prepared Taufa'ahau for his return trip. Nuku raised his hand in a courtesy gesture to God for his assisting Taufa'ahau, and then Taufa'ahau said to him,"Nuku 'alofa". From that time it was known that "moa e teau ko e tu'u'akifā" was the popular resort for the chiefs of Nuku'alofa.

The tu'u'akifā in those days was "nuku" and the present tu'u-akifā is Jesus Christ.

'ANA NIUMEITOLU.

Short Supplies

Dear Sir.—In recent weeks, we residents of Vava'u have been unable to purchase the following necessities: petrol, butter, flour, sugar, cigarettes and salt.

I am aware of the fact that certain of these supplies were not available in Tongatapu either and shipments from Australia soon restored them. But in some cases, especially those involving private orders placed with the stores, it is strictly a case of the Tongatapu stores failing to fill an order, although they seem to have the article or foodstuff in stock.

We hear that the Tongatapu stores would rather accept the orders (from the customers) themselves so that they may receive the commission. This, of course, is contrary to public interest and is an inconvenience and a nuisance.

I would think it would behoove the stores in Tongatapu to remember that they are all branches of the same company and be a little more careful in helping to keep the Ha'apai and Vava'u branches stocked when this is possible.

It is ridiculous that we sit in the dark every night if petrol is available in Tongatapu.

CAROLYN SMITH.

Wet Rugby

Dear Sir.—I am particularly critical of the frequent postponement of the rugby matches because of the rain.

I thought the rugby executive committee which is responsible for organising the rugby matches at Teufaiva had learnt their lesson in respect of playing in a very muddy conditions as was encountered by our representative team that toured New Zealand, and ceased to postpone any more rugby matches because of the rain.

The rain before Saturday was nothing compared with the down pour in Wellington for almost a week. Athletic Park was a pool before the match in which the Tonga representative side was downed in the mud by the Junior All Black for a cricket score win. The condition of Athletic Park had deteriorated because of the rugby match held there on the previous Tuesday and Thursday.

The same muddy conditions were also encountered by the Tongan side when they met Bay of Plenty. From the radio remarks on that day, the ball was floating in the field.

I believe if the Rugby Union allowed the matches to be held on rainy days as well as fine days, the players would have a chance of acquiring experience in playing in muddy condition.

It is ridiculous to say the field will be damaged, it could easily be restored to its original condition. But the lack of experience, which will be common to all the players, will not be an easy thing to be gained by the players.

I wonder what will happen when the Fiji touring side visits Tonga next year and if the day set down for the match happens to be rainy. The Fiji team will surely trounce the Tongan team for they are skilful in playing in rainy conditions.

The point that must be remembered is that no international match will be postponed because of the rain.

ARDENT SUPPORTER.

Policemen

Dear Sir.—I have the honour to refer to a letter in your issue of April 22 from "Manners Please".

No complaint against the Force or an individual officer was received during the period in question. I would, therefore, invite "Manners Please" to call on me at my office to lodge an official complaint.

Complaints against the police are dealt with through disciplinary. I am, however, unable to take action where the complaint is general and the author anonymous.

Loop Most Popular Contraceptive In The Kingdom

The "loop" is at present the most popular method of effective contraception in Tonga, says a Family Planning spokesman. This is in contrast to the overall world situation where the pill is the most used method, as reported in the Chronicle.

The second most popular method in Tonga is the condom to which increasing numbers of couples are turning. The pill is now number three in usage.

A fourth method, rhythm, or more exactly ovulation determination, is being studies in a select group of specially instructed, highly motivated women who, for moral reasons, can not accept any other method. This group is under the direction and supervision of Dr Leopino Foliaki.

The current and growing popularity of the loop appears due to two factors - simplicity and safety. These features eliminate the need for "ritualistic" preparations and also the fear which some women have of other methods.

These advantages, coupled with a very high degree of effectiveness, make the loop a very satisfactory and acceptable method of family planning and spacing in Tonga as well as in other countries.

However, the pill is still the most widely used and accepted of the modern methods. This men find it a very satisfactory method. This coupled with the fact that the majority of medical opinion in Tonga and throughout the world favours the safety of the pill, should encourage Tongan women to accept the pill if they prefer this type of method.

It is well established that both the pill and the loop are far safer than pregnancy - especially in cases where the mother has already had several children. The minor side effects that a few women experience will usually disappear in a short time. These side effects are, in fact, quite rare with the new low-dose pills now available.

The condom is a completely safe and very effective method if used properly and faithfully. Used haphazardly it is not an effective method.

All three methods are available at the Maternal and Child Health - Family Planning clinic. Also, any questions will be gladly answered there.

Visit To See How Peace Corps Are

Miss Ruth Whiting, liaison officer for Peace Corps Volunteers in Tonga has been here for three weeks to meet and discuss with volunteers their work in the Kingdom.

Miss Whiting, young and attractive, is directly responsible for promoting Tonga in the U.S. and persuading interested applicants in the Peace Corps movement into coming here.

Such a task calls for much investigation and accumulation of relevant information about Tonga on Miss Whiting's part, which she does with the invaluable help of books and magazines on the Kingdom. When there is difficulty in procuring any particular information, she refers to the Director of Peace Corps in Tonga.

"When the time comes for the selection of volunteers, selecting officials refer to me for the type of volunteers, most appropriate to Tonga, in view of the country's urgent needs," she said.

While in Tonga, Miss Whiting had talks with the Minister of Education, the Director of Education and the Director of Medical Services.

Miss Whiting has been a Peace Corps volunteer herself. From 1962 to 1964, as a secondary-school teacher, she was among the first group of volunteers sent to Nigeria.

After she returned to the U.S., she wrote articles for newspapers and later educational television scripts.

In 1969, she went back to the Peace Corps movement as a writer telling people in the States, what the Peace Corps movement is all about, with the hope of inspiring young Americans to giving their services to the development of the underdeveloped countries.

Miss Whiting was promoted to her substantive post in September last year.

This was her first visit to Tonga and she said she would not mind shifting her office here from Washington. During her stay she visited Ha'apai, Vava'u and 'Eua to meet Peace Corps volunteers and to familiarize herself with the Tongan scene.

THE PERIPATETIC MORMONS

A Truly International Church

Few organised religions in the U.S. boast roots so wholly American as the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, better known as the Mormon church.

Joseph Smith, founder of the once highly controversial church, was born in Vermont in 1805. He was living in western New York when, at the age of 14, he experienced the first of what he concluded were divine visions that led him in 1830 to establish the new church.

The Mormons played a large and historic role in the opening of the American West in 1846 and 1847, trekking more than a thousand trackless miles from their large settlement in Nauvoo, Ilinois, to their chosen land in the Valley of the Great Salt Lake. They largely settled Utah, where they remain the dominant religious, political and economic influence, and large parts of Arizona, Nevada, California, Idaho, Wyoming and other states.

With such a history, the Mormons might have been expected to take a landlocked, parochial view of the outside world. But that is far from the actual case. Instead, the church has mounted one of religion's most effective foreign missionary programmes, utilising modern business solicitation techniques in places all over the world. Partly as a consequence, the Mormons have created a truly international church with some one million of their three million members living outside the United States.

SIGNIFICANT

The Mormon experience is significant at a time when some other churches have had less than unqualified success in maintaining and expanding their strength. A series of Gallup polls taken over the period 1957 – 1968 showed that 67 per cent of Americans in 1968 believed that religious influence was diminishing, contrasted to 69 per cent who believed religious influence was increasing 11 years previously. In some major churches there have been discouraging, measurable declines in the ratio of clergymen to members. Yet the main thrust of the Mormon's successful missionary programme has taken place over the same period.

There are several reasons for the Mormon's success. For one, foreign missionary activity has a high priority among church programmes and is backed up by Mormon willingness and ability to invest large sums of money in facilities abroad. One new Mormon church school complex in Mexico City, for example, is made of 27 buildings.

At least as important, the church has a large reservoir of manpower to carry out missionary work. Every male member in good standing in the church is expected not only to become a priest of the church but also to spend several years in the church's missions.

Finally, the Mormon church is unusually business-oriented, and the church has been adept at instituting ways of measuring, evaluating and improving the efficiency of its missionary techniques.

After World War II, for example, Mormon leaders realised that "tracting" – the door-to-door distribution of materials aimed at stirring interest in the church – was a time-consuming and not very effective way of proselytising. So the Mormons borrowed techniques used by successful door-to-door merchandising companies. They worked out a carefully prepared approach to gain the interest and confidence of the person coming to the door-no-more "fumbling with mumbled greetings", one assessment put it.

FIRST APPROACH

The first approach was designed with a specific, important goal, a definite return interview with the prospective convert. In addition, the church began using ordinary members for more preliminary screening, enabling skilled full-time missionaries to channel more of their effort into lectures and discussions with the best prospects.

By 1960, in some cases, full-time missionaries were able to spend as much as 90 percent of their time in actually teaching prospective members and only 10 per cent in searching for contacts. In one year, the number of baptisms doubled to more than 80,000, and since has hit as high as 120,000, indicating a 100 per cent to 200 per cent increase in missionary effectiveness.

Mormon social life is gregarious, and most members have a deep interest in group activities like dancing, sports and others. More than 50 per cent of Mormon boys belong to the Boy Scouts.

Mormon missionaries have made good use of this penchant in their overseas work, introducing such sports as basketball to new areas and building gyms and social centres.

A vital part of the missionary effort, the Mormon building programme is large and highly professional. At one time there were 868 construction projects in progress around the world.

The church building committee during the 1960s, headed by a leading contractor, developed uniform building plans that cut construction costs by half. The church itself has been willing to finance as much as 90 per cent of construction outlays, yet the church's exposure to risk has been slight because a large factor in determining building locations has been their investment value. (In New York, for example, the church has assembled a block of highly valuable midtown Manhattan lots that are being developed to provide commercial space for leasing as well as space for church activities).

MISSIONARIES

At any one time the church fields about 13,000 full-time missionaries and 6000 part-time missionaries serving in such places as Chile, Brazil, France, Norway, Japan, New Zealand, Fiji, Tonga and many others.

Though church youngsters – who receive the priesthood at the age of 12 – can become missionaries at 19, many complete one or two years of college before they do.

Women also can become missionaries at 21.

In one recent typical group of 259 missionaries, a church survey found that they represented twenty-six states and two foreign countries. Fifty-one per cent were 19 years old; there were 18 married couples and 21 unmarried girls. Thirty-one of the missionaries were themselves converts to the church. Ninety-six left jobs paying from $3000 to $12,000 a year to become missionaries, and 18 gave up four-year college scholarships.

The missionaries are unpaid and must finance their own expenses, often with family assistance.

The principal motive behind the church's missionary programme is of course, religious. A member of the church's so-called First Presidency, Joseph Fielding Smith, cites the 28th chapter of Matthew: "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

HUGE VAULT

Hundreds of millions of microfilmed birth, death and marriage records, collected from all over the world, are stored in a huge vault carved out of a solid granite mountain in Little Cotton Canyon, near Salt Lake City.

The archivists who manage this massive collection have accumulated a great deal of expertise in data maintenance and retrieval.

As a result, the first World Conference on Records was held in Salt Lake City in 1969. Archivists, librarians and genealogists from Spain, France, the United Kingdom, Iceland, Canada, and other places, as well as recordkeepers for the Roman Catholic and Episcopal Churches, attended the conference. Even Genadil Alexandrovich Belov, director general of the Soviet government's archives, showed up to take a look at the Mormon's system.

The Mormons, in short, are magnificent organisers. With their firm committment to international expansion, it's likely that the next 10 years will see another rapid increase in their numbers and influence.

Prize — Winning Bunch

An entry of 1/4½lb won the competition for the biggest bunch of bananas of the year at Coff's Harbour, northern New South Wales. Mr Gordon Jarrett's win was the ninth in the 12 years the competition has been conducted. The bunch in the picture was the heaviest he had entered during the 12 years.

How To Grow Fruit That Will Sell

Only by adopting modern methods to stamp out disease and packing high quality bananas can growers take advantage of the opportunity the New Zeland market offers, the general manager of Fruit Distributors Ltd., Mr C. R. Walker, said when speaking to the Pacific Island Producers' Association conference in Nuku'alofa last week.

Fruit Distributors is the sole marketing organisation for bananas in New Zealand for all Pacific Island producers.

Mr Walker told delegates that in the opinion of his company, the following steps were necessary to provide fruit that would sell competitively with other fruit and to maintain a place for Island bananas in the New Zealand housewife's budget :

1. The fruit must be grown on clean, disease free, properly run plantations, periodically inspected by a qualified inspector of the Department of Agriculture and passed as fit for producing fruit. This means the plantations should be located on suitable banana soils. Bananas can be grown on almost any soil in the Islands but commercial bananas to suit New Zealand conditions can only be produced on suitable strong banana soils.
2. The plantations must be large enough to ensure that the owner is properly equipped with mechanical spraying equipment to keep his plantation free of disease.
3. The producer or group of producers, should maintain a proper packing plant where the fruit can be properly washed, treated and packed to proper standards under supervision.
4. It is essential that the harvesting procedure be improved so that the bananas can be cut in the plantation and receive the minimum of handling until the time of packing.
5. It is imperative that the fruit be cut as near as possible to the time of shipment. The time should not exceed 24 hours from cutting to loading aboard ship.
6. It is essential that access roads to the packing sheds or the plantations be of a standard that the fruit will not be damaged in transport from the packing station to the assembly point.
7. It is essential that proper cover be provided on the wharves in order to keep the fruit under the coolest possible conditions prior to shipment.
8. Because of the increasing effects of stem end rot it is essential that dipping facilities be provided and adequately maintained so that the fruit can be treated in fungicidal dip before shipment.
9. Wharf handling and leading into the ship must be improved to ensure that the growers produce arrives at its destination in the best possible condition.

NO RUGBY IN RAIN
4 POINTS FOR TRY

Sporting Scene

By ROBBIE

Friday's heavy downpours left Teufaiva looking more like a rice paddy field than a rugby field and the committee wisely cancelled all games for Saturday. To have played could have been dangerous for the players, especially the worwards caught at the bottom of a ruck.

Last week I mentioned that the International Rugby Board was considering some rule changes and one of them was to increase the points for a try. The change has been approved and from next season in this part of the world a try will be worth 4 points, a converted try (goal) 6, penalty goal 3, dropped goal 3, and a goal from a mark 3.

This rule change places the emphasis on scoring tries, and should, if the teams accept the challenge, produce better and brighter rugby.

It is interesting to note just how much importance has been placed on the try since the day in 1823 when William Webb Ellis broke the rules of the Bigside game played at Rugby School, and virtually invented the game now known as Rugby Union.

In the early days matches were won by the number of goals scored as there were no points allocated. A touchdown, rouge, or what is now known as a try, was all important as it enabled a kick for a goal to be taken unless the kick was successful it meant nothing.

In 1875 the rule was changed to allow 3 tries to equal 1 goal the result still being based on the number of goals scored. And it was not until 1887 when the rules being used by Cheltenhan College were adopted that the try was given a numerical value. It now counted as one point and although necessary to attempt a goal was still inferior by two points. A goal which then included a penalty goal, converted try and dropped goal was worth three points.

The Rugby Union in 1889 decided to bring the scoring closer and reduced the value of a penalty goal to two points giving us the following scoring table. Goal from a try, 3; dropped goal, 3; penalty goal, 2; a try, 1.

FURTHER CHANGE

In the same year, the International Board ,which fixed the scoring values for all international matches, decided that a further change should be made and set the following which remained in force until 1906: Goal from a try, 4; dropped goal or goal from a mark, 3; try, 2 points, with the reservation that when a goal was kicked from a try only the goal (4 points) applied.

It is interesting to note that there was no mention of points for a penalty goal in this ruling and one can only assume that it remained at two.

In 1906, what could be called the modern scoring values were adopted by the International Board and apart from the reducing of the points for a dropped goal from four to 3 in 1948/49 and which will remain in force for this year only: Goal from a try, 5; try, 3; penalty goal, 3; dropped goal and goal from a mark, 3 points each.

For many years some countries have been applying to the International Board to reduce the value of the penalty kick as they felt a try should be worth more and that too many international matches were being won by penalties.

Don Clark won the First Test against the British Lions in 1959 for N.Z. by kicking six penalty goals (18 points) to four tries, one penalty and one conversion (17 points) and 'Inoke Tabualevu for Fiji won the First Test against Tonga in 1967 by kicking six penalty goals to an unconverted try and penalty by Tonga.

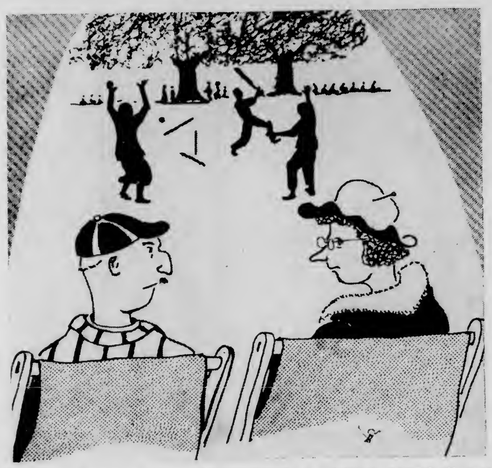
SAME RESULT

The board has achieved the same result by increasing the points to be awarded for a try from three to four, and a goal from a try from five to six. Had the N.Z. v British Lions match in 1959 been played under these conditions the result would have been in favour of the Lions by 21 to 18.

While the scoring of tries should be the first consideration of any team, the importance of a good kicker must not be overlooked. Players will always break the rules and be penalised, tries are there to be converted for the extra points.

One player in every team should practise goal kicking at every opportunity because the standard of our goal kicking is at its lowest level at the moment. We will need an expert in this art for the future overseas tours ahead.

The information on the scoring tables used in this article was taken from The Encyclopaedia of Rugby Football compiled by J. R. Jones of Wales published in 1958.



My Dear Emma, at last – A country where cricket is played all year round!

Marked Improvement In Women's Cricket

Only about half a mile from where the Rugby ground was under water Mala'e Pangai was sufficiently dry for another match in the women's cricket circuit.

Pea and Fasi fielded Junior's and Seniors, both matches going to the more experienced Pea sides who have been well coached in fielding by the well-known Ha'ateiho sportsman Soane.

The Senior game proved to be one of the best so far and a great improvement was evident in the in the field and there were not many catches missed, six dismissals in both first innings were from catches.

Fasi batted first and the opening pair of Losalini and Luseane put on 44 runs before were dismissed in the same innings by Tupou Fe'ao, who again showed she is a good bowler. Lepeka from Pea was the most successful batsman hitting three sixes in her total 21.

Pea have had wins over both Ngele'ia and Fasi and if there was a trophy for the competition they should surely be able to lay claim to it.

Perhaps some overseas traveller reading this article may be able to arrange for his firm to look into the question of trophies.

Saturdays, senior grade only —

FASI: 1st innings, 63 (Losalini 20, Luseane 24). 2nd innings, 36 ('Ailini 13, Luseane 10). Total 99.

Bowling for Pea : Tupou Fe'ao 7 wickets for 33 runs and Misinale 3 wickets for 23.

PEA: 1st innings, 66 (Lepeka 21, 'Ana 11, Lupe 10). 2nd Innings, 34 for 8 wickets Total 100.

Bowling for Fasi : 'Ailini 4 wickets for 11 runs and Feli 5 for 51.

A win for Pea by 3 wickets.

Parents Urged To Cooperate In Smallpox Programme

The parents of 200 children in Tonga are urged by the Ministry of Health to sign permission forms for their children to take part in a programme being conducted in the fight against smallpox.

The dreaded disease smallpox has killed and maimed millions of people for several hundred years. To this day the disease is without a cure. But it is preventable by the use of smallpox vaccine.

The Kingdom of Tonga has been free of this illness. This is due partly to the wisdom of His Majesty King Taufa'āhau Tupou IV who in 1964 invited American physicians to join with the Tongan Ministry of Health in vaccinating the people of Tonga.

More than 44,000 people were vaccinated and none had any serious side-effects.

In 1967 Dr Ronald Roberto returned from America and sampled 200 school children on Tongatapu who had been vaccinated in 1964 to determine if the people of Tonga were still protected from smallpox.

He did this by drawing a small amount of blood from the children and giving half of them another smallpox vaccination. By studying the blood it was found that Tonga was still protected. None of the children involved became ill from the procedure.

Now, in 1971, two other American physicians, Dr Joel Goldstein and Dr Claude Friedmann, are here to repeat the 1967 programme and will be working for a month.

Again, 200 children have been asked to take part. Half need only give one very small blood sample. The other half will be re-vaccinated and asked to give several blood samples.

Only through these blood samples can it be determined if Tonga is still protected from smallpox. The sampling is completely safe and no bad side-effects are expected.

Regional Shipping Line Based On Tonga To Be Studied

ed out its survey of the shipping possibilities of this part of the Pacific the hard way - by practical experience and after 12 years of operation was finding success. Every facet of Tonga's inter-island requirement is covered; a Tonga, Samoa, Fiji service is operating economically; charters to Rotuma and the Tokelau Islands are holding freight charges steady and a monthly Australian service from Sydney is ensuring a steady flow of flour and consumer goods to Tonga and Western Samoa with a smaller contribution to Lautoka and Suva.

Captain Hill-Willis said that the service, while not so important to Fiji at the moment, has a stabilising effect on freight rates and does not leave Fiji completely at the mercy of foreign-owned and foreign-manned shipping.

Tonga is the only member of PIPA operating anything that could be classified as regional shipping, Captain Hill-Willis said. The vessels owned by Nauru are more engaged toward the north and do not engage in the local trade.

Shortly all Tongan vessels will be incorporated into a Tongan Pacific Shipping Company with a written down book value of more than T$1.5 million. The forecast for 1971 of gross freight earnings is over T$1 million, which will return a profit margin.

"If PIPA can ensure that preferential treatment will be given to vessels owned within their group, it would make it immediately possible to set up a sub-committee to work out the mechanics of control and should include tax concessions, cargo preferences, port discrimination, national prestige, defence and security."

Captain Hill-Willis concluded by saying: "Give Tonga the jobs and we will provide the tools".

Commenting in Suva at his Press conference on Monday, the Prime Minister of Fiji, Ratu Sir Kamisese Mara said The Tonga Shipping Agency may become a regional shipping line with shares in it being taken by Pacific Island governments.

GOOD BUNCH

Misieli Fineanganofo is holding a 3½ft bunch of plaintain, which could be the biggest of its kind in Tonga. It has 14 hands bearing 225 fruit. The plaintain, locally known as Hopa Tofua, was planted in October, 1968 in a Kolomotu'a tax allotment owned by the Nuku'alofa Treasury Cashier, Mōsese Fineanganofo.

Strike Stops Visit To Australia

The Fiji Prime Minister, Ratu Sir Kamisese Mara, has postponed his official visit to Australia because of the dock strike.

He told a news conference in Suva that he had made the decision "regretfully".

"But I could not with a good conscience leave the country at such a time and I have so informed the Australian Government," Ratu Sir Kamisese added.

"They have been good enough to say they fully appreciate the the position and hope it will be possible for me to pay a visit at a mutually convenient date in the future," he said.

Violent Rugby

The referee was asaulted, four policeman were injured and the police team walked off the field during a violent Lautoka rugby clash last Saturday.

Somebody Remembered

Monday was Anzac Day, a day in Australia and New Zealand when dead of two World Wars are remembered. In Nuku'alofa, two wreaths were placed on the memorial on Mala'e Pangai honouring Tongan soldiers who died.

Figures Rise as Rain Comes Down

The total rainfall of 4.35 inches recorded from Thursday to Tuesday of this week is equal to the total rainfall recorded at Nuku'alofa in April last year.

A total of 6.31 inches of rain were recorded this month up to Tuesday — 1.52 inches fell on Thursday last week and 1.40 inches on Monday of this week.

The figures for last year show that February with 14.70 inches of rain was the wettest month and September with 1.63 inches the driest.

October with 14.67 inches was next to the wettest month. it was also the wettest October since records began in 1944. The wettest day of the year was October 30 when 7.77 inches of rain fell.

Niuatoputapu topped the rainfall figures in the Kingdom last year with a total of 98.09 inches with Ha'apai 84.98, Vava'u 83.83 and Tongatapu 77.59 inches.

Vol.VII. No 49 3 Seniti

Time to Cast Your Vote

Voting began this week in the three-yearly election for District and Town Officers.

Voting ends throughout the Kingdom on June 1 and results should be known by June 30.

The elections are being carried out by touring polling teams, the chairmen of which are also the returning officers for the district they are appointed by the Prime Minister.

As results from each district and town are received, they will be published in the Chronicle and the first will appear next week.

Voting taking place this week at Kanokupolu.

VAVA'U HOTEL TO OPEN IN DECEMBER

The construction of the Port of Refuge Hotel in Vava'u is in full swing and it is expected to open in December.

The advent of the new airstrip in Vava'u is giving new impetous to the project and a big influx of tourists is expected when the airstrip is completed.

A party of Australian businessmen asociated with the building of the hotel visited the Kingdom last week and during a few days in Vava'u held the first statutory meeting of the Tonga Tourist and Development Co. Ltd., the company building the hotel.

The Australian party included two directors, Sydney solicitor, Mr Bob Moin, and accountant Mr John Moon, an advisor on finance and hotels.

The Tongan businessmen who are directors of the company are Messrs Herbert and Ralph Sanft.

Not present at the meeting, but represented by proxy, was Mr Don Sundin, a director and financier, who is also proprietor of the Australian contracting firm of D. G. Sundin and Co. Ltd, the builders of the hotel.

Others in the visiting group were Mr Spencer Bates, an Australian architect who is responsible for the plans of the hotel and also acts as advisor on cost and architectural matters, and Mr Ian McIntyre who will be general manager when the hotel opens. Mr McIntyre, from New Zealand, is at present at the Chevron Hotel in Sydney.

The first stage of the hotel is expected to cost about T$500,000. The second stage, when airconditioning throughout the buildings and two swimming pools are completed, is expected to pass the T$1 million mark.

The hotel company is paying out at present T$500 a week in wages and sub-contracts at the site of the construction. It is expected to pay out more than this amount each in wages when the hotel is in operation.

Japanese Training Ship Is An Eye-Opener

One of the most modern training ships in the world, the Japanese Ministry of Transport's "Seiun Maru", is paying its second visit to the Kingdom.

It was last here in November, 1969 for four days. The "Seiun Maru" sails for Sydney tomorrow afternoon.

Built about two years ago, this ultra-modern vessel has a gross tonnage of 5044 and a maximum speed of 18 knots. It accommodates 34 officers, 42 crew and 180 cadets.

There are two bridges - one for officers and one for cadets. The officers' bridge is equipped with closed-circuit television that can focus on the fore and aft of the ship, giving almost an aerial view.

Computer equipment provides instant information on the time and distance of the ship from any given object and the amount of time the ship needs to come to a stop. With this equipment collisions can virtually be eliminated.

Weather information is automatically fed into the computer, which calculates the height of the wave, its force on the ship, wind direction and velocity. Then it stabilizes the ship on its course in these given conditions.

Radio messages received in Morse Code are automatically translated into written words.

The cadets who are financed by the Ministry of Transport, must be at least 20 years of age and have completed secondary school, plus three years at a technical school. They are trained first on smaller boats, then given their final practical instruction on the "Seiun Maru".

At the completion of their training, cadets study for six months before sitting their final examination. On graduation, cadets may choose for themselves which position they will accept from the shipping company offers.

During their four-day stay in Nuku'alofa, the cadets have been taken on tours of Tongatapu and given the hospitality of local people.

Last night Captain Isao Ikeda and the staff officers of the training ship entertained invited guests at a cocktail party on board the vessel.

The price of petrol, kerosene and diesel has been increased from today.

A statement by the Secretary to Government said that in accordance with negotiations with the Shell Company, representing the oil industry in Tonga, Cabinet had approved an increase in retail prices ex pump for petroleum products throughout the Kingdom.

The new prices are:

Motor spirit - increased by 2 seniti a gallon to 47s in Tongatapu, 49s in Ha'apai and 50s in Vava'u.

Kerosene - increased by 2 seniti a gallon to 45s, 47s and 48s.

Distillate (Diesolene) - increased by 2.25 seniti a gallon to 40.25s, 42.25s and 43.23s.

"DEAR SIR..."

Letters to the Editor.

Hanging

Dear Sir.—After reading Uatesoni Pauliva'ati and S. Siupeli Taliai's views on the hanging, I was even more convinced that neither the Christians nor the Bible could solve our social, legal and political problems - in fact I tend to think they may just be the very root of our social problems.

The hanging issue helped to bring the matter up. Pauliva'ati quoted the Bible to justify the recent hanging and Taliai whose faith is based on the very same book, said exactly the opposite.

The Christian religion has a hold in Tonga - and a very extensive one at that. In view of social reforms, can you afford to splinter in important issues like this?

REUBEN REVOLUTIONARY.

* * *

Dear Sir.—I sometimes wonder if the Churches (or religious groups) will come to their senses and stop their interferences in government legislations and politics.

The laws of any country should be looked upon as the supreme judge and refuge for all, thus, they will save the innocent and punish the wrongdoers.

What right has the Church to strongly disagree to the sentencing of Kēlepi Leao to death. The law has acted in a firm and decisive way.

I would ask the Churches to help the kingdom strive for economic autonomy and the betterment of its social problems rather than continue the practice of under-mining and brain-washing the people with complete moral heresy and false dogmas.

Hygenic Bread

Dear Sir.—The method employed by the bakery business at Neiafu to deliver bread to the surrounding villages seems very unhygenic to me. The bread is packed into two large boxes covered with a piece of coarse canvas cloth and then placed on the motor-bike fore and aft of the driver, whose sneezes and coughs, in addition to the dust, permiate through to the bread, as the delivery is done in the chill of the morning.

A bicycle is also used in delivery of bread but the result is the same.

The consequenses of such practices is that the school children eat some of the bread for their breakfast before they go to school and are easily subject to any prevailing diseases spreading through the country.

The method employed by the bakery becomes a medium of spreading sickness through the country. Therefore, I ask the Health Department to take action to curb the use of the present method.

Low-cost House

Dear Sir.—Now that the rush is on for the low-cost houses under the Tonga Construction Company's Housing Scheme, one cannot help but view its future with optimism – the housing scheme, that is.

Originated to suit the financial capacity of the majority of Tongans, its a wonder that only a small section of the population have not made use of this low-cost scheme. But the reason is more than obvious - they can afford more than just an ordinary low-cost house which just about everyone is about to have. After all, what is $1000 odd dollars.

With the flourishing trade, agricultural and industrial boom and the sharp decline in unemployment figures, the Tonga Construction Company should ask for a more realistic price so that only Joe-in-the-street cannot afford a house.

Come now Tonga Construction Company, what is your definition of a low-cost house - one that hardly anyone in Tonga can afford?

SEFITA A. HA'ULI.

Rugby Referees

Dear Sir.—I would like to challenge "Ardent Supporter" to show his worth to rugby by coming to the weekly meetings of the Tonga Refree's Association. He could be the right person we're looking for, if he can put those words into practice.

It's all very well and easy to sit in the sideline and criticise the poor referees, but let's see him with a whistle in the paddock trying to control a few games in Teufaiva. It will be fun to be on the receiving end.

We don't mind being criticised, because referees of international standard have been and are still being criticised. The thing we mind, is the "Ardent Supporter" seemed to be the perfect referee that the game needs. But instead of helping with the game, he is trying to ruin it and at the same time disheartening these wonderful boys who are trying their best to help out.

Don't forget they are doing it for nothing.

KĀKOLOSI KIOA
Instructor to the Tonga Referees' Association.

Wet Rugby

Dear Sir.—With reference to to "Ardent Supporter's" dissatisfaction with the postponement of Tongan rugby due to heavy rains, it seems to me that he has never had the "treat" of playing rugby in the unique conditions found in Tonga during the dry months.

After the rainy season, Tonga's only rugby ground, on which 32 teams play each week, is as hard as a rock, and if the field is used when excessively muddy conditions prevail, the pieces of mud become sharp, angular rocks the size of cricket balls.

The turf which is torn up during wet conditions will never grow back, the nett result being somewhat like using a cement tennis court strewn with rock debris for rugby.

In affluent countries like New Zealand, America, Australia and England where there are numerous rugby fields and sufficient money for upkeep, "Ardent Supporter's" ideas might be appreciated, but in Tonga it seems far more realistic to keep our two fields in reasonably good shape so that we can improve the overall standard of rugby instead of worrying about practicing for wet-weather matches which the Tongan players can do on their individually practice fields during the week.

R. THAMAN.

Dear Sir.—I was very pleased with Mr Pitman and Robbie for their reply to the postponement of the rugby matches because of heavy rain. I would like to add one more reason, however, and I would much prefer it to be number one to all the reasoning already referred to.

"Although rugby matches in wet conditions are more interesting to watch, who would pay for those who work for the Tonga Rugby Union, if you and I are the only spectators? Would it not be a very sorry thing to have no money on that day?"

TONGANS IN AUSTRALIA

Two educationists from Tonga are studying primary school teaching methods used in Government schools in the State of South Ausralia.

Learning About Teaching

The educationists are Mr Salesi Taholo, of Kolovai, an acting area organiser of primary education at Vava'u, and Mr Paula Tu'ivailala, of Tongaleleka, an area organising inspector of primary education, Ha'apai.

"We have found the Australian people most friendly and cooperative, and they are keen to help us," Mr Taholo said.

The two men are studying at Wattle Park Teachers' College, a branch of the South Australian Education Department, near Adelaide.

They will remain in Australia for a year under a scheme sponsored by the Australian Government. During their stay they will observe teaching methods in primary schools in and near Adelaide.

Mr Taholo said he had been interested to see that children in Grade VII classes were occasionally taken on camping trips for about a week at a country site conducted by the National Fitness Council.

"It is teaching the children not only their ordinary school subjects, as well as more about nature science and related subjects, but also is helping them to appreciate communal service and communal living," he said.

"The experience also helps the children to become more self-reliant."

Mr Tu'ivailala said he had been most impressed by the flexibility introduced into the Australian teaching programme.

"During the course of one lesson period, I watched the teacher switch to three different subjects," he said.

"This less formalised approach enables the teacher to keep the children's attention at a high level, and reduces the chances of their interest lagging."

"Before lessons begin every morning the children listen to music played on a tape recorder for about five minutes. This helps them to settle, and appears to be a very good idea," Mr Taholo said.

Both educationists were impressed by the emphasis laid on swimming lessons.

They saw Grade VII children not only learning the basic swimming strokes, but also the more complicated procedures for life-saving.

Another new experience for Mr Taholo and Mr Tu'ivailala is learning the fundamentals of dramatic art.

"We are learning mime and simple word-action plays, which will be useful to us in our own schools later," Mr Tu'ivailala said.

Mr Taholo said children at the first school he had visited in South Australia had shown a great deal of interest in the people of Tonga.

They asked many questions about Tonga's culture and traditions, and were still eager to know more.

Salesi Taholo of Kolovai, and Paula Tu'ivailala of Tongaleleka, help Rosemary Staker and Sharyn Lewis solve a problem in fractions, using a multi-fraction kit, during a mathematics lesson at Magill Demonstration School, near Adelaide.

Tongan Fined $35 in Samoa For Smuggling

A Tongan sailor on the vessel "Niuvākai", Viliami Lotima, was fined $35 by the Western Samoan Minister of Customs, Tofa Siaosi, for attempting to smuggle into the country 10 cartons of cigarettes.

The collector of customs Fa'i Vincent Brebner, said the Tongan offender tried to get the goods in just as the boat was leaving Apia. He said the Minister himself, assisted by Customs Officer Joe Devoe, made the arrest.

The collector said the Minister decided to fine the culprit on the spot rather than hold up the ship.

Full of smiles and buns were these 22 preliminary nurses from Vaiola Hospital, during a visit to Mr Sitani Mafi's bakery at Kolofo'ou. The boys in white are equally happy bakery staff.

The visit was part of the nurses' public health training in a three months' introductory course in nursing procedures.

The nurses also paid similar visits to restaurants, snack bars, Talamahu Market and the refuse disposal at Tukutonga.

The bride, formerly Miss Mele Pāhulu, is the only daughter of the late Mr Filimone Pāhulu and Lela of Fasi. Her husband is the eldest son of Mr and Mrs & Vaohingano Fakatou of Kolofo'ou, and chief engineer of the "'Olovaha".

The wedding ceremony was conducted by the minister of the Wesleyan Church at Fasi, the Rev. Senituli Koloi.

Mrs Fineanganofo is the first Tongan to be appointed to this post which was always filled by an expatriate.

She first entered the civil service in 1964 as Maternal & Child Health Sister, taking charge of the Preventative Section at Vaiola.

The former matron, Mrs M. U. Miles left for New Zealand last December, after 9½ years of service to the Tonga Government. She was officially on leave until last month.

Working For The Church

Members of the Women's Guild of St Paul inspecting the bring & buy stall during their last monthly meeting.

The Women's Guild plays an important part in the welfare of the Church of England.

During their last meeting they accepted an appeal from the Church to pay half the cost for the construction of a footpath around the church.

The guild for a long time has helped to provide the prayer books and kneelers.

Until recently, the members were responsible for the maintenance of the European cemetery at Telekava.

At one time they provided Vaiola Hospital with powdered milk for baby feed.

The guild with a membership roll of about 35 is interdenominational and open particularly to wives of expatriate officers. It helps to introduce them to the community.

POLICE ARE LUCKY TO DOWN TAVATU'UTOLU

By ROBBIE

The Police continued on their winning way on Saturday but oh how lucky can you be?

Two weeks ago I said that I considered they could be beaten and if Tavatu'utolu had tried some drop kicks at goal instead of persevering with place kicks they might have been the side to chalk up the victory. Every week the task will become harder as the Police realise their weaknesses.

I find it hard to understand why teams do not concentrate more on the drop kicks. Most Tongan players can drop kick but too few of them can place kick a goal. Perhaps some of the coaches do not realise that you can drop for penalties and conversions.

I thought that Malakai and Siope were the best backs on the field and the try that Malakai scored was a gem. If he were able to play in one position even for a whole game I think he would be one of our best, but it must be hard not to be able to specialise.

Full marks to Tavatu'utolu for their good tackling and bustling play.

The extra grass on the field this year appears to have given some players more confidence in low tackles but there are still too many around the chin.

Fakavā again played a good game in the forwards for the yellow, he has had a good season and has been well supported by a lively and fast pack of forwards.

I saw one Police player penalised for something which he should realise better than most does not come under the heading of "sportsmanship" and I hope the coach remembers the incident at the next team meeting because we can do without such tactics.

All in all it was a good exciting game enjoyed by the spectators.

RUN OF PLAY

Right from the start Vanisi, at centre, and Siope on the wing combined for a very strong run down the line but good defence kept them from the line. The Tavatu'utolu backs lacked penetration close to the scrum and it was mainly when Fatai at fullback kicked for the wings that we saw them in action and on occassions these tactics had Police in trouble.

Hooker Lūpina did good covering work for Police, especially when the ball was lost from the lineouts. Tavatu'utolu kept up the pressure right through the first half and bustled the Police backs into errors.

Half time came with no score on the board.

After half-time we saw the Police on attack, first Vanisi just missed the corner and then Malakai broke through, but his pass to the wing was intercepted.

The first of many reasonable penalty kicks was missed by Tavatu'utolu and then we saw a lovely movement by Police backs who swung to the left and Malakai doubled round fast to take a second pass ran strongly and slipped a couple of tackles to score a very good try right in the corner giving 'Ilevalu no show with the conversion.

Police 3 Tavatu'utolu nil.

The Police at this stage were giving away a number of penalties in scoring positions but the yellows could not place the ball between the posts. Tavatu'utolu looked dangerous when Police fullback fumbled a high kick, but a penalty from the ensueing scrum relieved the pressure.

Some very good runs by the Police backs ended short of the line and I felt that they were bunching too much and not giving the outside men the extra ground needed to run around their opposites. Vanisi made a good break when he came in as the extra man but the defence held.

Tali Lotu made a good run after a brilliant pick up of a rolling ball, but his in pass went astray because the caller was running in front. I thought this move could have produced a try.

Both sides kept up the attack and play ranged from one end to the other but no further points were registered before no side was called. A good game played in a good spirit and well controlled.

6 Top Kolomotu'a Players To Leave For New Zealand

Six of the current Kolomotu'a team, including Siaosi Sēlupe and Tali Kavapalu along with Tavatu'utolu fullback Fatai Kefu are preparing to leave for New Zealand where arrangements have been made for a three month permit and places in the Hillsborough team in the Auckland competition. Fred Wolfgramme has organised the move.

While it is going to leave a big gap in our senior rugby it is a wonderful opportunity for these players to gain further experience in overseas competition. I wish them the best of luck and only hope that they can bring

Flying Tongan Bettered Games Record

Flying student, Samuela Mosa'ati (18) of Kolofo'ou bettered the South Pacific Games 100 metres record by one-tenth of a second at the New Zealand northern district school competition.

The competition was for the outstanding performers in the region where Mosa'ati won his only race, the 100 metres, in 10.5 secs.

The South Pacific Games record is 10.6 secs set by J. Pothin of New Caledonia at Suva in 1963.

Mosa'ati a former student of Tonga High School, is on a year's Rotary scholarship in New Zealand attending Murupara High School where he was chosen as a school prefect and is studying for university entrance.

He was the winner of the senior 100 and 220 yds dash at the Tongatapu inter-college athletic championships last year.

Lochore Retires

Brian Lochore, captain of the New Zealand's All Black rugby team since 1966, has announced his retirement.

Speaking from his farm near Masterton, Lochore (30) said: "In the past I have devoted myself first to rugby. I would now like to concentrate on my business."

Championship Postponed

The fourth round of the Tongatapu Amateur Boxing championship was postponed from last Friday until tomorrow at 5 p.m. due to boxers having influenza.

SIXTH-ROUND VICTORY FOR VAKA

Tongan Mani Vaka knocked out Billy Reeves in the sixth of a scheduled 10-round heavyweight bout at South Sydney Leagues Club.

Vaka, who conceded almost two stone, is rated number five in the British Commonwealth ratings.

He could not afford to lose against the unknown Reeves.

Reeves is the former Australian heavyweight amateur champion.

From the bell Reeves pressed forward for an early knockout

Vaka completely outboxed Reeves and attacked solidly in the fifth.

In the sixth round the Tongan continued the attack with two vicious left hooks, followed by two right crosses.

Reeves took the full count.

Good Rugby In All Grades

back ideas and moves which they can pass on to others for the benefit of Tongan Rugby.

Fasi and Vaheloto had a good game on No. 2, Fasi finishing the winners by 14 - 8.

The Fasi team is young and I liked the determination of their backline lead by 'Uhila. When they received the ball they looked as though they intended to get to the goal line by means of the wings and kept the ball moving out quickly. An occasional break by the insides set up good scoring movements. One good try came from a scrum wheel which put 'Aleni over.

Kingi, the Vaheloto hooker played a great game and scored two tries, one of them down the sideline like a winger. This chap could force his way in to bigger teams this year.

Niuvakai chalked up their first win of the season by scoring a converted try against Kauvai. The game was full of interest and the spectators all on the side of the mariners. Palei scored and Vikilani kicked the conversion.

Police B and Ma'ufanga played out a good draw 11 all. Nothing much between these two teams. Tupou at half for Ma'ufanga still playing well.

COMMENT

A good days rugby through all grades.

As there is no excuse now for not tackling low I would like to see the referees tighten up on the round the neck type also on the indiscriminate use of the boot in the ruck. This latter type of infringement is caused a lot by players not getting their heads into the ruck to see where the ball is.

How about a few drop kicks from penalties and for conversions? The French sides have always preferred the drop to the place kick. I think some teams could come closer to winning the games if they gave this some more thought.

Junior Red Cross On Display

Two hundreds and seventy nine new members from seven links were enrolled to the Junior Red Cross during its ceremony of presentation of coours by Her Majesty Queen Halaevalu Mata'aho at Mala'e Pangai, on Monday afternoon.

Part of the programme was an exhibition, which was divided into three sections. The first group was made up of articles that would promote international friendship with overseas links; the second group was gifts for the hospital, and the third was articles solely for sale to raise money.

The Ngele'ia Junior Red Cross link did well, winning two of the three trophy, cups donated by local business man, Mr Lipoi Tupou. The cups were for the best link on exhibition and the best link on inspection and parade.

St Andrew's School Youth Group which raised $20 by Monday was awarded the cup for the highest fund-raising link.

A flag day was also held at Mala'e Pangai during the ceremony, the money collected was $21.64.

Four boys, members of the Tonga Red Cross, receive their certificates from Her ajesty Queen Mata'aho.

TOO MANY INJURED ANIMALS

A warning to the owners of animals not to let their animals stray from their property has been given by the livestock section of the Department of Agriculture.

People who cause injury to animals are also warned about their "cruel activities" which will lead to prosecution if witnessed (Cap 72, Section 21 of the Tongan Law).

A spokesman for the Department of Agriculture said there had been a great increase in the number of injured animals and those requiring treatment for wounds.

About 75% of the livestock section's time was spend travelling around Tonga treating animals that have been cut with knives or spears, or hit with pieces of wood.

The spokesman said valuable time and medical supplies were being wasted unnecessarily.

"In the long run, the money to pay for the treatment of injured animals comes from the people of Tonga".

If owners do not want to keep their animals, the livestock section of the department will try to arrange the sale on behalf of the owners.

"I Hope To Return," Says Church President

Back briefly in the Kingdom is the President of the Conference of the Free Wesleyan Church, the Rev. Justin Gooderham. He leaves again on Saturday.

Mr Gooderham and his wife left Tonga in February on a visit to Australia and New Zealand and in Australia their daughter Ilsa took seriously ill with a brain tumour and is under treatment in Melbourne. They have had to stay in Melbourne and have requested "permission to rest" from the conference and the presidency. This is expected to be received at the conference of the church in Vava'u this month.

In the mean' the Rev Dr Amanaki Havea has been appointed acting president and chaplain to His Majesty.

Mr Gooderham told the Chronicle yesterday he hopes to return to Tonga and will remain a member of the conference. He will not, however, be accepting nomination for the presidency at the Vava'u conference.

Mr Gooderham has been in the Kingdom for 4½ years, first at Vava'u. He was appointed president and chaplain to the King 2½ years ago.

His four-day return visit has been made to settle private business and pack personal belongings.

Speaking of his daughter's illness, Mr Gooderham said she had made some improvement but her condition was inclined to be erratic. He and his wife were grateful for the help and encouragement they had received from friends in Tonga at this difficult time.

Welcome Party For Students

The Australian High Commissioner in Suva held a small party on May 3 to welcome Australia's 11 new scholarship-holders at the University of the South Pacific and to welcome back the 11 1970 holders.

The Tongan students studying under Australian scholarships at the U.S.P. are: Mr S. H. Fonua, Mr P. Vea, Mr M. Saafi, Mr S. F. Talia'uli.

Three Busy Weeks For Ve'ehala

A crowded programme of talks, visits and sightseeing faces the Governor of Ha'apai, the Hon Ve'ehala during his three-week visit to Britain. He began his official visit last Friday.

After a free weekend he visited the Tropical Products Institute, a major Foreign and Commonwealth Office scientific unit which helps overseas countries with advice, information and training on cultivation and handling of plant and animal produce.

On Monday also he met a senior official of Britain's Department of Environment - overall authority for housing, transport and development planning - for talks on local government.

Tuesday and yesterday morning were devoted to Tongan history, beginning with discussions at the Public Record Office in London on documents relating to early British contacts with Tonga, followed by a visit to the Methodist Church Archives and possibly Catholic Archives for consideration of historical documents on early contacts between the Churches and Tonga, and a visit to the British Museum to examine Tongan artifacts given to Captain Cook and other early Pacific navigators.

Other features of the visit will include visits to new town developments, a local radio station, a factory and a nuclear power station, Billingsgate Fish Market and the Houses of Parliament - where he will lunch with Members and watch proceedings.

Worker For N.Z. Dies

One of the Tongan men due to leave on Saturday for work in in the Hutt Valley near Wellington, Finau Vala of Matahau, died at Vaiola Hospital on Thursday from head injuries received during a road accident on the previous afternoon.

Mr Vala who died without regaining consciousness, was in a mini-moke travelling towards Nuku'alofa. Police reported that the mini-moke drove into a roller which was also travelling in in the same direction.

Ratu Mara Collapses

The Fiji Prime Minister, Ratu Sir Kamisese Mara, collapsed from exhaustion at his home in Suva on Saturday night and has been told to rest.

He was in Tonga last month at the Pacific Island Producers' Association conference.

A Fiji Government spokesman said Ratu Mara's condition did not give any cause for anxiety and the report yesterday was that he was making progress.

When his medical adviser decided he was fit enough to travel he would take a holiday, the spokesman said.

The Tonga Chronicle

Where Time Begins

Nuku'alofa, Thursday, May 20, 1971 — Vol.VII. No. 50 3 Senit

YOUNG PICKPOCKETS ARE ACTIVE

Pickpockets are active in the market and shopping areas of Nuku'alofa and the police have warned the public to be on guard.

Five cases were reported to the police last month and three arrests have been made.

The offenders are usually boys between the age of 15 and 16 years, a police spokesman told the Chronicle.

The usual targets for the pickpocket are the wallet in the hip pocket and the purse in the shopping basket left on the counter or hanging from the arm.

Police advice to the public is: "Be on the alert, guard your property and help prevent this type of crime.

"Be wise, beware!"

Tonga might have lost another customer in New Zealand if the two bananas in the middle of this picture had not been discovered. They were only two of several in a rejected case from the "Tofua" shipment last week. The picture shows two thin and immature bananas, only 4 inches long, compared with a matchbox for size, against two mature and ripe bananas.

Muddy Roads Delayed Chronicle

Muddy roads caused by heavy rain prevented the Chronicle delivery mini-moke from completing its Tongatapu run last Thursday.

Readers in the Hihifo district were unable to receive their paper until the following day.

The Chronicle driver, Penisimani Vete, said that several secondary roads on the island were so bad they prevented the mini-moke from crossing from one main road to another.

The vehicle twice floated in the mud on the road at Houma, last week.

Easier Money

Tongatapu copra producers now know how easy it is to get money by selling whole coconuts to the Tonga Copra Board instead of making copra, the board's acting manager, Mr Sione Kinahoi said this week.

The result was that more coconuts were purchased and easier to get for desiccated coconut than copra.

In the last six weeks, only 20 tons of copra, the lowest ever had been bought by the board from Tongatapu producers.

Mr Kinahoi said the situation was different in the northern islands where 700 tons of copra were received during the same time in Vava'u and Ha'apai, thus making the call of the copra ship "Nessbank" worthwhile next Monday.

The whole coconuts purchased so far are enough to run the desiccated coconut factory up to the end of June.

Mr Kinahoi said that the board will start buying more coconuts at Haveluloto today after being suspended for a fortnight.

Too Many Bad Bananas

About 30 per cent of the Tongan bananas are bad when they arrive in New Zealand, the leader of the Tonga banana study tour to New Zealand, Mr Pousima Afeaki revealed this week.

The study tour was made in February and observed the discharge and distribution of bananas in New Zealand.

Mr Afeaki said in his report that the major problem encountered is the different stages of maturity of bananas in a case; even ripening was most difficult to achieve.

The study group found bananas arriving in New Zealand that were ripe, immature, short, matured, long, scabby, thin, split, bruised and sap-stained.

Bruising was very bad, Mr Afeaki said. It could be clearly seen when the bananas started ripening. Bruising occurs from the growers to the ship, during loading, discharging, and during distribution to the retailers.

Forced packing of bananas in the case also caused bruising, he said.

About five pounds of bananas were wasted in overpacked cases with a big bulge in the middle.

Considerable damage happened to cases not lined with corrugated cardboard inside the two lid battens.

"If we are to hold our share of the highly competitive fruit market in New Zealand, we should improve the quality and presentation of our bananas; and at the same time maintain the economiy of our country," Mr Afeaki said.

COCONUT SURVEY NOT ENCOURAGING

More coconuts are being consumed locally than are used for copra-making, and with the ever-increasing population the situation is likely to deteriorate until there will be no copra for export and Tonga will have few means of supporting itself.

This is the substance of a pilot survey carried out by the Department of Agriculture under the guidance of Mr J. B. Hardaker, of the University of New England, New South Wales, to establish the quantity of coconuts used for local consumption in Tonga.

The survey says that the seriousness of the position emphasises the need for considerable improvement in the coconut plantations in the Kingdom and more care to be taken to encourage production through better management methods, use of fertilisers and the rehabilitation of old plantations in which senile palms should be replaced.

A total of 77 families scattered throughout the Kingdom were interviewed for the survey and asked about their use of coconuts. The average family comprised just over nine people.

The average daily consumption in these households was 35.03 nuts in the following forms: 11.92 green nuts for drinking; 6.74 used in cooking;. 16.37 nuts used for livestock, feed, oil-making or for uses other than copra-making.

"DEAR SIR..."

Letters to the Editor.

Fine Distinction

Dear Sir.—May I refer to "Dr Taliefu's" letter of May 6 and clarify the distinction he made between "whipping" and "belting". Whipping implies the use of objects such as sticks or a piece of iron. The consequence of such an act is grievous bodily harm and even death.

Belting, on the other hand, entails the use of light objects such as leaves or a broom, and such an act concentrates on the feet alone.

I am sure that had "Dr Taliefu" seen the actual incident at Tonga College that day and the marks on the faces and the bodies of the school children, he would be more than convinced that this was certainly no belting business.

Certainly some of the guests at the official shelter were beginning to feel the heat when the children blocked the back of the shelter, but they realized this was inevitable, and did not lodge any complaints.

On behalf of my friends, I would like to offer my heartiest thanks to parents and teachers for the good manners you have inculcated in the young. These children did not retaliate to this most cruel act by the Police, which shows the respect and willing obedience they have for the law.

MOW LARRY JOE.

Pen Names

Dear Sir.—Allow me to comment on the use of pen names in letters to the editor.

I cannot understand why people go into all the trouble to conceal their names after writing a very interesting and informative article.

For instance, one person went so far as to use "Stick Insect" for pen name, to what was otherwise a very interesting article. We are all familiar with the nature of a stick insect, one whose presence is a menace to everyone.

One other pen name is "Chicken", or to use a literal translation from Tongan, one-that-hides-its-tail. Dogs are the only living creatures that hide their tails when they "chicken out" from an attack. Admittedly, the use of the name was contrary to the article.

Another pen name that comes up quite often, is "Dr Taliefu". As far as I'm concerned, the name implies a collector of trash, dust and all manner of filth.

Rugby Referees

Dear Sir.—I take this opportunity to compliment and praise the untiring work of the referees of the Tonga Rugby Union during the span of the 1971 seasons and during the past years.

Since rugby is an amateur's game refereeing does not entitle one to an honorarium. Getting on to the field and refereeing a game entirely depends on one's own volition. The success of Tonga's rugby, to a great extent, depends on these referees.

I must thank "Ardent Supporter" for his letter in the Chronicle of the May 6, but I believe it is much easier to criticize than volunteer to do the work.

The rugby referees meet every Wednesday night in the Magistrate's Courtroom in Nuku'alofa and I therefore invite "Ardent Supporter" to come along and give us a coaching in rugby rules; and don't forget to be prepared to referee one of our games on the Saturday following.

These are the answers to the propositions he made:

1. The rugby referees ar examined every year not only on the rules of rugby but also on their performance in the field. This has been going on since 1950 and holding a high certificate are Mr Stanley Brown, Sione Fusimālohi, Tevita Kilisimasi 'Aho, 'Uliti Palu, T. Tomaka Heimuli and others. Ever since the association has never ceased holding its yearly examinations.
2. There is no committee policy barring anyone without a pass in these examinations from refereeing a game because should we lay our emphasis on examining referees too strictly, we would end up having none to do the work.
3. He proposed that we should conduct our examinations in the same way as those in New Zealand are conducted and we have contacted the rugby authorities in New Zealand inquiring about this. However, your attention, "Ardent Supporter", should be drawn to the fact that we do use here in Tonga the same rules of rugby used in New Zealand.

We are unfortunate in not having many local New Zealanders to support us and we hope that more New Zealanders as well as "Ardent Supporter" will attend our meeting on Wednesday night.

I take this opportunity to appeal on behalf of TRRA for more referees. Please volunteer.

SIONE FUSIMĀLOHI,
President of T.R.R.A.

Boxing

Dear Sir.—The Tonga Professional Boxing Associattion sent Sione Ngalu to Australia to fight the New Zealand middleweight champion and No. 10 in the Empire rating, Kahu Mahanga.

This was a very unwise decision.

Ngalu, although a former middleweight champion in the amateur boxing in Tonga and silver medallist in the last South Pacific Games, is yet to be initiated into the professional field. Not only that, he has never had any amateur bouts abroad.

He should have fought Dick Blair or Bill Choues, the 1969 and 1970 champions and who have now lost their titles to Mundine, or one of the Australian middleweight top 10 except Mundine.

What the association should have done was to send Tevita Piu the No. 1 contender in the middleweight.

And if the association wants some really good boxers to represent Tonga overseas, why not send Fonomanu Sekona and Toni Pulu who have been without a fight for a long time.

The association should arrange for them to fight in Fiji, Australia and Tahiti, in the near future, not only to further their experience but also continue to develop their love and dedication for the sport.

Hygenic Bread

Dear Sir.—In answer to "Bare Truth's" comments on "Hygenic Bread", the Assistant Health Inspector in Neiafu is being reminded of the sections in the Public Health (Bakeries) Regulations, which deal with the hygenic distribution of bread.

While "Bare Truth" was right in drawing attention to this unhygenic method of bread distribution in Neiafu and surrounding villages, it is a matter of either closing down the bakeries or allowing this customary method to carry on so that bread can reach the children before they go to school, the aged members of families and the sick ones, early in the morning. It may also alow the bakery owners to save enough money to buy proper vehicles for bread distribution.

Having proper bread-vehicles has been a problem facing the Public Health Section of the Ministry of Health since bread was first introduced into Tonga. Saving enough money is the only excuse given by these small bakery owners. When they are going to collect enough money for this, nobody knows.

JOE FANAMANU,
PUBLIC HEALTH SECTION.

Birth Certificates

Dear Sir.—The Registrar of the Supreme Court, Mr 'Unga Hafoka, was interviewed on ZCO with regard to birth registration certificates. It was revealed that many parents misinform the Registry of their children's age simply to exonerate them from certain legal liabilities. But little do they realise that this means that the child will have a false age for life.

I propose that a testimonial from the hospital of the district be essential to prove right birth dates, in the same way as a testimonial from a doctor is necesá sary to verify that a person is dead and that his or her name may be deleted from the General Register. In cases where the mother did not give birth at hospital, reliable records of the birth date of the child could be had from the district nurse.

Bus Behaviour

Dear Sir.—May we make a few suggestions regarding the observance of good behaviour in public buses.

Every so often, we come across male passengers who behave outrageously. Some of them while standing, dare to smoke in the presence of nobles while others use obscene language in the presence of brothers and sisters.

Some are dead drunk and have a habit of spitting anywhere they like, much to the disgust of the other passengers. There are a few who stoop so low as to take their shirts off, against our customs and traditions.

Bus drivers should also stop the loading of types of foodstuffs that easily attract the flies, a good target for spreading diseases.

LOW COST HOUSE: STAGE II

TONGA CONSTRUCTION COMPANY has completed stage one and two of its LOW-COST HOUSE in only 10 days and the house is ready for occupation.—ADVERTISEMENT.

AN ACTIVE ASSOCIATION OF TONGANS AND AUSTRALIANS

The Tonga–Australia Association in Sydney is active, reports secretary John Slender, and has been the main instigator in the South Pacific Advisory Council formed recently.

The council was formed to assist people from the South Pacific area, particularly those from countries not having any official representative in Australia.

Member organisations currently comprising the council are the Tonga-Australia Association, Tongan Fellowship, Fiji Islanders Club, Samoan Club and Pāpua-New Guinea Association.

Conscious that many Islanders arrive in Sydney with little or no knowledge of the place they are going to live in, or the type of problems they might have to face, the council has prepared a comprehensive plan of services available to its members.

One thing the council does emphasise is that intending visitors to Australia should be thoroughly briefed about the country they intend to visit.

The Tonga-Australia Association was formed in Sydney in October 1969. Its president is Toutai Tupou and its trustee is the Rev C. F. Gribble.

A committee of eight manages the association's affairs and comprises half Tongans and half Australians.

During the past 18 months the association has held regular monthly socials which has enabled it to donate more than $500 for charitable purposes.

Tongans living in Sydney joined in worship at a new location following a decision to demolish the Wesley Chapel.

Members of the Tonga-Australia Association outside George Brown House in Sydney, after their first service of worship there.

The service which took place at the George Brown House was conducted by Mr Gribble and the service was a dedication to Anzac spirit which brought together the Australian people as a nation. Mr Gribble said that one of man's biggest problems was the building of "fences" which tended to keep people apart. The time had come to start tearing down these "fences" so that people can be joined together no matter what their religion, colour or politics.

Among the congregation were the Hon & Mrs Luani and Dr Pōsesi Fanua.

After the service at afternoon tea, Mr Slender said the Australian people were happy to give help to Tonga and its people. However there appeared to be a "fence" between Tonga and Australia, particularly in the field of communications.

On behalf of the members of the association he appealed to the Hon Luani to take this message home. He hoped that the Tongan Government would establish a consular service in Australia.

The Hon Luani thanked the association and its members for the assistance given him during his stay in Sydney. He was pleased to see that the Tongans were united and trusted they would stay that way.

He reminded the Tongans that as most of them were students they should conduct themselves in such a manner that would bring only credit to the Kingdom.

School News

Hango

Students from Hango made an agricultural tour to Tongatapu during the last week of April and the first week of May.

They visited a number of farms including Sia-'a-toutai, Liahona, the Government Experimental Farm and Tupou College. The main reason for this agricultural tour was to let the students see different ways in which the best farmers run their farms, and also let the students observe the diseases and pathogenic organisms that cause loss to our crops and livestock.

The students also held concerts during the two weeks which they spent in Tongatapu — at Kolovai, Mu'a and Kolonga. They collected $373.38.

The purpose of the concerts was to raise money for a trip to Fiji in June.

The students will be staying at Navuso Agricutural School, and visiting places of agricultural interest. They hope to meet with agents at Fiji markets and discuss opportunities for selling vegetables in Fiji. This information will greatly assist the final year students in their own farming.

Tailulu

During the latter part of the first term, Tailulu Girls' College was invited to join the Red Cross, Tongan branch. The invitation was gladly accepted and an officer, Funaki Taumoepeau paid a visit to the school to take part in their first meeting.

At first more than 100 students registered their names to join, but after the aims and objects as well as responsibilities had been explained, more than 40 girls withdrew.

Under leadership of one of the staff, 'Elitisi Kioa, weekly meetings were arranged in which Red Cross posters, fund raising, craft work and marching practice went full ahead.

A chairman, secretary and treasurer were appointed as well as leaders for the eight groups. The motto and aims of the Red Cross were fully explained and tests were given to see that each member clearly understood and memorised the Red Cross promise.

On Monday, May 10, the Tailulu Group participated in their first Red Cross parade at Mala'e Pangai and were proud to receive their badges and certificates from Her Majesty Queen Mata'aho—TIMOTE FANGUPŌ.

N.Z. EXPERIENCES GIVE T.D.F. MEN GREATER CONFIDENCE

Put three Tongans into a military camp in the centre of the North Island of New Zealand, at its desolate and highest part, and what have you got? Three cold Tongans.

But the warmth of New Zealand's hospitality and some of the country's natural hot pools made up for the cool temperatures.

The three Tongans were members of the Tonga Defence Force, at Waiouru for four month's training. They were Lieutenant Finau Tolu, Corporal H. Tau and Corporal T. K. Mālafu. Lieutenant Tolu was attached to the Regular Force Depot and the two corporals attended a basic all arms instructors' course at Waiouru. Both qualified.

The men have returned to Tonga with a confidence that comes from experience. They told the Chronicle their training in N.Z. taught them about instruction and they will put this into practice when they return to their platoons at Camp Taliai after leave.

However, some of what they learnt cannot be passed on because the TDF does not have the equipment. For instance, in N.Z. the corporals were training with the modern SLR (Self-Loading Rifle) weapon; the TDF is using the old .303 rifle.

They said some of their most valuable experience had come from their close relationships with Maori soliders . . . Two-thirds on the arms' course were Maoris and "we were like brothers" the corporals said.

Training to be more efficient members of the TDF was the reason for the men being at Waiouru, but there was a little time to see other places not far away. This was when they swam in the hot pools at Taupo and visited Whakatane, the place they liked best because it was warm.

There was also time for sport and the men took part in rugby, cricket and athletics. Corporal Malafu had impressive wins in the 100 metres and 440 yards.

And there were Tongans to meet in many places they went. Arthur Jennings came from Taihape with a rugby team and when they went to Auckland for a week the TDF men met Tongans training at Ardmore to be teachers.

There was only one disappointing aspect of their four months in N.Z. Although they lived within sight of the snow-covered Mt Ruapehu (9175ft), which has been erupting recently, they never got close enough to touch snow.

It is a pity. They might possibly have ben the only members of the TDF to have a snow fight.

. . . A Friend Indeed

Like a chicken nestling up to a mother hen, the Department of Agriculture fishing vessel Ekiaki was tied up to the Japanese training ship "Seiun Maru" in Nuku'alofa getting its expert help to overcome persistent mechanical trouble.

The staff on board the Japanese ship were repairing defects in the refrigerating system of our fishing vessel. These repairs were done mainly by cadet engineers from among the 80 on board under the direction of the chief engineer and chief engineering instructor.

After they had given the "Ekiaki" a thorough check and a temporary repairs, the Japanese informed the Department of Agriculture that the trouble in the refrigerating system of the fishing vessel was due to worn couplings connecting the auxilliary motor with the compressor unit.

A further defect was that the compressor unit itself was not firmly fixed, thus allowing the unit to vibrate while the system was in operation.

Because it stayed to help Tonga, the "Seiun Maru" delayed its departure until 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

According to the Director of Agriculture, Mr John Pitman, the "Ekiaki" is now happily fishing 30 miles to the east of 'Eua.

Acting to stop explosion

Western Samoa is following Tonga's lead in recognizing and acting to counter the population explosion which threatens the entire Western Pacific area, according to "World Population and Planned Parenthood News".

Faced with one of the fastest growing populations in the world, Western Samoa's predominantly Roman Catholic Cabinet has approved plans for a family planning campaign aimed at reducing the islands birth rate by a third.

According to United Nations representative Mr William B. Hussey, population growth was so exceptional in the Western Pacific that it overshadowed other economic and social issues. The large number of births almost cancelled out the progress being made through normal economic developments.

It is obvious that if the population continued to increase as rapidly as in the past, the country would soon reach a stage when the islands could not provide food and other necessities.

The campaign, in which women's organizations will be asked to help, will involve changing many social attitudes in the islands where large families are regarded as a status symbol and as a form of security.

A spokesman for the Tongan Family Planning Association, founded here a year ago, has emphasized the similarity of the situation in Tonga, Western Samoa and in the Western Pacific islands generally.

The Gilbert and Ellice Islands will release a new definitive stamp issue on May 31. The complete issued comprises 15 denominations from 1c to $2. Five of the new stamps are illustrated. The stamps are available from the Philatelic Bureau, G.P.O., Betio, Tarawa, Gilbert Islands.

Commonwealth Fund For Co-operation

The Commonwealth Fund for Technical Co-operation has been established, the Commonwealth Secretary-General, Mr Arnold Smith has announced.

The Commonwealth Programme for Technical Co-operation has been in operation for three years, financed largely on a bilateral basis by developed Commonwealth members. Under the new fund the programme will become truly multilateral with contributions from both developed and developing members. The new arrangements represent a move towards partnership and a blurring of the distinction between "donors" and "recipients".

Under the existing programme a small headquarters staff of experts has undertaken technical assistance assignments in almost-all Commonwealth low-income countries, while further assignments in developing Commonwealth countries have been carried out under so-called third party financing arrangements. Thus, for example, Canada has financed a statistician from Ceylon to work in Cyprus and Britain has financed an expert from Ghana for a mission in Botswana.

The new financial arrangements will make it easier in administrative terms to tap the pool of expertise available in the developing countries for the benefit of other developing countries, and will also make it possible for the first time to utilise training opportunities in the educational institutions of developing countries for the benefit of those from other low-income member states.

Contributions to the fund will be on a voluntary basis.

KOLOFO'OU DEFEATS KOLOMOTU'A BY 14 — 0

By ROBBIE

In the main rugby match of the day it looked like Kolomotu'a would fully extend Kolofo'ou when the score stood at 3 nil at half time, but the second half saw a much more determined Kolofo'ou side run in three more good tries to win by 14 points to nil.

The first half was a dour struggle; the only good move being the one which resulted in the try. The ball came cleanly along the backline to Paul Taumoepeau who drew the opposing second and centre in a very good move, then with an overhead lob pass sent Mosese away for a try near the corner.

Metui's drop kick at conversion was well off line.

Tali Kavapalu had a penalty attempt with a drop and swung the ball just outside the posts.

In the second half the Kolofo'ou forwards had much more dash and were able to get more possession from the scrums.

One clean heel saw Valita, who played a good game at first-five, make a nice break on the blind side to send Mosese away down the sideline, but he put a foot into touch just short of the line.

Then we saw the first real break by Kimbu which set the white backs away for Niu Kaho to speed away to score in the corner.

The Kolomotu'a team by this time had lost all the dash of the first half and the defence weakened. Kolofo'ou were quick to take advantage of the situation and began to throw the ball around, which was much appreciated by the spectators as the game had not been very exciting up to this stage.

From another clean heel from the scrum the backs set off and Peni came into the line from fullback and ran strongly to put Niu in for his second try.

He nearly bagged a hat trick when he fielded a kick from Leapele behind his own 25 line and ran around the opposition to speed away for the line. Talitaufa, who had come on as a replacement, just managed to bring him down and in doing so forced forward Mētui, who was up for the pass, int o touch, saving what looked to be a certain try.

Kuluni picked up a rolling ball and made a strong barging run, then we saw Kimbu break away and with the ball at his toe make the best forward move for a long time. Where most would have been tempted to try to pick up the ball, Kimbu played soccer (rude word) with it, and although Talitaufa was up in time to make a gallant dive, in an attempt to save the try, Kimbu was able to finish off a fine individual effort and score the final try which Paul Taumoepeau converted (yes, with a place kick). This made the score 14-nil.

Right on time we saw Tali Kavapalu, who up until now had been well marked, make one of his typical breaks and a try looked certain. But he was well caught from behind by Mosese.

Tali had been considered one of the fastest backs but Mosese made him look like a lumbering forward.

The final whistle went with no further change. Kolofo'ou 14 (Tries by Niu Kaho 2, Mosese and Kimbu 1 each with Paul Taumoepeau kicking one conversion) Kolomotu'a nil.

Peni, at fullback, played perhaps the best game in this position we have seen this season.

POLICE SCRAPE HOME AGAIN BY 3 POINTS AGAINST FASI.

Congratulations to Lutu for his selection of a team to play a particular type of game. The overweights and deadwood among the forwards were set aside for players who were fit enough to bustle the Police into errors. This coupled with good defence and hard clean tackles must have once again kept the Police coach wondering about the final result.

Siope was to the fore again and he must go down in most books as a "cert" for any big matches.

Both sides pulled off good tactics and turned on probably the best game of the day.

I would like to see Kei on the sideline for a few more games to let his ankle come right, another injury to it could lose him to bigger teams where his experience may be needed soon.

Tasi Bourke in the B side was also a passenger until he eventually had to come off through an injury not yet healed. There surely must be plenty of fit Police to pick from.

TAVATU'UTOLU DEFEAT MU'A BY 1 POINT NEAR END OF GAME.

In a game of changing fortunes, Tavatu'utolu's Molia barged over for a good forward's try just before the final whistle to win by 1 point, after trailing Mu'a 8 to 10.

This was a good game with Tavatu'utolu superior in the forwards and Mu'a much more dangerous in the backs.

Pānuve again showed he is a hard man to stop when he gets into top speed and uses his change of pace and swerve. He made a brilliant break to put Vave for a good try which was converted by Kesi.

Vave had a good day on the wing and narrowly missed a second try when he knocked on in goal when forcing the ball. Perhaps a little lacking in real pace but he has more determination in his running than most wingers.

From a kick through by Tavatu'utolu, Peni showed that fast following up can gain points, for when the Mu'a fullback fumbled the catch Peni was there to scoop up and dive over for a good try which Lasike converted.

Fetu'utolu was playing a grand game at No. 8 for Mu'a. What a hard clean player this chap is. I have been most impressed with all his games.

Another good forward was Tonga High School's Tevita Malolo playing in the yellow pack.

Panuve with another typical break scored under the posts for Mu'a and Kesi added the extra points with a good kick.

A very interesting game, with Tavatu'utolu finishing the winners by 11 points to 10. For Tavatu'utolu tries by Peni and Mōlia with Lasike kicking a penalty and a conversion, and for Mu'a tries by Pānuve and Vave with 2 conversions for Kesi.

Amateur Boxing Semi–Finals Next Friday

The Tongatapu amateur boxing championship semi-final will be held at Hauhau-'o-Taufa'āhau Theatre on Friday, May 28, the association's president, Mr A. Johansson has announced.

Physical fitness and experience took its toll in the fourth round of the championship held at Hauhau-'o-Taufa'āhau Theatre last Friday.

Moniti Fifita of Fatai showed his experience and confidence when he stopped the courageous Semisi Vea of Vainī in the first round of their heavyweight fight.

It was a terrific and perfect right-hook to the jaw that dropped Vea for mandatory count of eight. Referee Johansson stopped the fight to save Vea from further punishment and proclaimed Fifita the winner.

In the middleweight division, Latahe'ea of Houma had an easy win over Pulu of Lakepa. The punishment was far too much for Pulu and he refused to continue at the end of the first round.

Friday's results are:

LIGHT-WELTERWEIGHT: Matekihelea Lui, Fua'amotu defeated Makasini, Fo'ui, on points.

MIDDLEWEIGHT: Bruce Sovaleni, Kolofo'ou, defeated Mōsese Taani, Lakepa on points; Latahe'ea Tonga'uiha, Houma, defeated Viliami Pulu, Lakepa by technical knockout in the first round.

LIGHT-HEAVYWEIGHT: Mā Lelei, Vainī, defeated Sālesi Tonga, Houma, on points.

HEAVYWEIGHT: Moniti Fifita, Fatai, defeated Sēmisi Vea, Vainī by technical knockout in the first round.

Heavyweight Fight Tomorrow

The dancing Fo'ui heavyweight, Fonomanu Sēkona, will meet Sēmisi Vea of Kolonga in a 10-round heavyweight contest at Hauhau-'o-Taufa'āhau Theatre tomorrow.

Sēkona is the former amateur heavyweight champion recently turned professional and outpointed the promising Kolonga heavyweight, Toni Pulu.

Vea is an experienced boxer and he once defeated the South Seas heavyweight champion, Marika Naivalu of Fiji in a non-title bout in Tahiti.

Competition For "West Star" Cup

The Tonga Football Association will start a competition for the "West Star" Cup, this Saturday at Mala'e Pangai.

The cup was presented to the Royal Guards by the "West Star" XI after a friendly game with the Guard's team early this year.

The Guard's team then presented the cup to the patron of the association, King Taufa'āhau Tupou IV.

Last week, the patron informed his association that a new competition should be called to compete for the cup.

The association's secretary, Siō Motu'apuaka said that eight club teams entered on Tuesday and more were expected to register yesterday.

'Eua's association has requested that they have two teams in the competition.

Fast and well-knit Kolofo'ou XI outpaced the Japanese training ship "Seiun Maru" soccer team in the pouring rain, to win 6 – 0 at Mala'e Pangai last Thursday.

A Japanese player knocked himself out, when he missed the ball, went up in the air and landed on his shoulder.

Two soccer balls and the "Seiun Maru" plaque were presented to Kolofo'ou at the end of the game.

HARD TUSSLES IN MUD

(From Page 7)

There were some good hard tussles in the mud and water pools on No. 2 field where Lōtolu continued on their winning way by defeating Police B 6-3 and Vainī downed Kauvai 5-3.

Kelemeti Pongi scored two good tries from the side of the scrum for Lōtolu and looked good in the hard going, while Fifita on the wing for Police turned in another good game.

The Senior B competition is in an interesting stage and the match between Ma'ufanga and Vainī should be a good one. Perhaps the Union may give them a game on No. 1 and let us see them on a good surface.

COMMENT.

Police v Kolofo'ou should be a game worth waiting for. Both these sides have the players and the ability to turn on a really first class game.

I noticed on Saturday a number of penalties taken with the tap kick and immediately followed with a kick on the full to touch. The lineout was taken where the ball went out, presumably because it was a penalty. Surely the penalty kick is the first tap and the lineout should be where the kick was taken from when outside the kicker's 25?

An interesting ruling correctly given by Referee Ridling on Saturday regarding the replacement of a player. At half-time a request was made by the captain to replace a player, which the referee agreed to. The replacement reported to the referee and was cleared to play. However when the second half was due to recommence the "injured" player remained on the field and the replacement on the sideline.

Someone had changed their mind, but the request had been made, agreed to and replacement cleared. Referee Ridling insisted that the replacement take the field, as an "injured" player may not come back as a replacement in the same game.

Saturday's results are:

JUNIOR: Kolomotu'a 3, Kolofo'ou 0; Nukunuku 6, Vaheloto 0; Longolongo 6, Mu'a 0; Hahake 3, Ma'ufanga 0; Hihifo 9, Ha'ateiho 0; Lōtolu 3, Houma 0; Vainī 0, Kauvai 0.

Pacific Games Training Starts Next Wednesday

The athletics squad from which the Tongan team for the South Pacific Games in Tahiti in September will be selected, begins training at Teufaiva sports ground next Wednesday at 4.30 p.m.

The Tonga Amateur Sports Association advises those who went to the Games in Port Moresby, those who trained at Teufaiva last year and any other athlete who thinks he can attain the standard to be seleceted in the Games team, to attend next Wednesday.

The following athletes who performed well at the inter-collegiate sports should attend, the secretary of the association, Mr Jack Barnard said: T. Ngaluafe, K. Ma'ilei, S. P. Kava, Kalasi 'Iongi, H. Helu, P. Haukinima, S. V. Fatai.

From the athletes attending next week, a squad will be selected to train. Early in August the team to represent Tonga will be chosen and will have a month's solid training.

The sports nominated by the association for the Tahiti Games are: athletics (men's and women's), boxing, soccer, volleyball (men's and women's) and underwater fishing.

The boxing championships are already underway.

The Sports Association has confirmed the selection of Mr Adolph Johansson as boxing manager and Mr Jack Barnard as team manager for the Games.

A committee has been formed, chaired by Mr Carl Riechelmann, to conduct a Miss Tonga contest to raise funds to send the team to Tahiti.

An entrance fee of T$100 will be charged and entries close on June 30. The winner will receive an air trip to Fiji, with the possibility of also visiting Australia and New Zealand. Miss Tonga will also be invited to enter a contest to be held in Tahiti during the South Pacific Games.

Looking For A Man

Auckland's musician Bill Sevesi, now staying at Ma'ufanga, is trying to locate a Tongan man whose name and address he has lost and has asked for help of the Chronicle.

Mr Sevesi said he met the man at Ngele'ia in March this year when the man asked him to repair the winding rod of his wrist watch.

"I repaired his watch free of charge then he left and I would like very much to meet this man again," he said.

If this man or anyone reading this knows of his whereabouts, would they get in touch with the Chronicle.

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

A reflection of the festive mood that formed an integral part of the week's annual conference held by the Church of Tonga last week.

The step-like structure is a "king-size" pola, 12 feet high, in 12 layers all laden with tropical delicacies.

In the foreground are the proud owners, Mr & Mrs Fe'ofa'aki Foliaki from Fua'amotu.

METHODIST CHURCH

Delegates from all parts of Tonga will converge at Neiafu, Va-va'u next week, for the annual conference of the Methodist Church.

The one week conference will be officially opened by a former minister and member of the Conference, the Rev. Lepa Kupu.

Among the important issues on the agenda will be the election of a new president.

Seventy-seven representatives from Tongatapu left for the conference on the "'Olovaha" this morning. More will leave on Saturday.

Ve'ehala dropped in at the right time

An unexpected invitation to tea by the Archbishop of Canterbury to meet the Archbishop of York and five diocesan Bishops of the Anglican Church, who were in conference at Lambeth Palace, the London home of the Archbishops of Canterbury, has been a highlight of the visit to Britain of the Governor of Ha'apai, the Hon. Ve'ehala.

The Church dignitaries were in conference at Lambeth Palace, London, when the Hon. Ve'ehala and his Government escort looked in on the off-chance of the Archbishop having a few minutes to spare.

They were welcomed by Mrs Ramsay, the Archbishop's wife, urged to stay to tea, and there the Tongan visitor met Britain's leading Anglican churchmen.

As a member of the Tonga Traditions Committee, the Hon. Ve'ehala has been finding out what records exist in London to help in compiling a project history of Tonga by the Public Records Office. He examined interesting despatches from the British Consul dealing with a variety of problems.

The British Museum has shown him their collection of Tongan relics, including rare carvings of Polynesian gods. At the Methodist Missionary Society he saw facinating letters from King George Tupou I to the Missionary headquarters in London and letters home from the Wesleyan Mission at Tonga.

But it wasn't all one sided. Hon Ve'ehala was able to give the museum authorities valuable help in deciding whether certain implements came from Fiji or Tonga, a problem which has long baffled them.

In the time before his visit ends on May 27, the Hon Ve'ehala will be seeing something of social and industrial life in the provinces before a final spell in London when he will meet Members of Parliament.

MEASLES: A measles epidemic appears to be developing in Fiji. In February 15 cases were reported, 74 in March, 116 in April and 57 in the first week of this month.

DON'T LITTER!

A woman was recently brought before the Magistrate Court, on a charge made by the Health Department, for discarding an empty cigarette packet at Railway Road, Kolofo'ou, Nuku'alofa.

The accused, pleading guilty, was fined 50 seniti by Police Magistrate Sione Malekamu Manu.

The public is notified by the Ministry of Health that no rubbish should be discarded in any part of Nuku'alofa except in the garbage disposals at Sia-'a-Tevolo, Kolomotu'a, and Popua at Tukutonga, or put in tins to be taken by the garbage truck to the two disposals.

There are also rubbish bins for use at certain crossroads in Nuku'alofa.
